PROSPECTUS FOR THE YEAR 1889--90.

---

PROFESSORSHIPS.

The studies in the preceding course are distributed among the following Professorships :

I.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

REV. ISAIAH VILLARS, D. D.

This Department includes Psychology, Logic, Moral Philosophy and Evidences of Christianity ; also Constitutional and International Law and Political Economy. The thorough examination of approved text-books, accompanied with oral lectures, comprises the instruction proposed. Free discussion on the part of the students is encouraged, and essays on the leading topics of study are required. Access to the standard authorities in the College Library is afforded to all the classes.

II.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REV. WILLIAM W. EDWARDS, A. M.

This Department aims to familiarize the student with the forms, structure and idioms of the Latin language ; with the laws of the different forms of poetical and prose composition ; with the style and characteristics of the best Roman authors ; the historical periods to which the several writers read belong ; and with Roman life and civilization as illustrated thereby.

In addition to the daily drill and analysis of words and sentences, written translations are required from English into Latin and from Latin into English ; and attention is continually called to the words in our language derived from the Latin, and to the influence and imitation of Roman authors to be traced in our own literature.

One year's study of Latin composition is required, beginning with the second term of the Senior Preparatory year.

III.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REV. EDWIN C. FERGUSON, A. M., PH. D.

The studies in this Department aim, first, at affording the student a means for the discipline and development of his faculties, which shall serve as a basis for subsequent special studies; and secondly, at making him master of the principles and structure of the language, as well as familiar with the standard authors and the literature of the various periods.

In the earlier part of the course Etymology and Syntax receive special attention—stress being laid on written exercises, from English into Greek; as the student advances, the Mythology, History, and Antiquities are progressively introduced, and written translations from Greek into English receive due attention. Essays are also regularly required on the different authors and their characteristics.

The course embraces two terms of Poetry, two of History, two of Philosophy, and one each of Tragedy, Oratory, and Greek Testament.

Students in the Classical Course will be allowed to substitute German for an equal number of terms of college Greek.

IV.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REV. EDWIN C. FERGUSON, A. M., PH. D.

Until quite recently this study was optional; but the joint Board, at its annual session in 1874, wisely resolved to make it a two years' course, obligatory on candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science. We hope this is but the beginning of better things, and that the time is not far distant when the course shall be so enlarged as to enable students to become still better acquainted with the rich literature of this, "the most cultivated of modern tongues."

The object aimed at in this department is to make the student not only theoretically but practically acquainted with this living language.

The first year is occupied with the study of the structure of the language; the second is devoted to the study of the literature.

Throughout the former, written exercises are daily required, and colloquial practice is commenced at an early period. By this constant practice the ear and the tongue are educated as well as the eye, and a good degree of proficiency is attained.

V.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

PROF. ALBERT G. JEPSON, A. M., PH. D.

Instruction in this Department extends through the whole College course.

During the Course lectures will be delivered on the History and Utility of Mathematics and Astronomy.

Thoroughness in the principles of mathematics is of the utmost importance, as they sustain a most intimate and practical relation to every branch of business and to any pursuit in life.

The science of numbers is the golden thread that runs through and binds together every department of learning and research. It reaches with its magic touch every life, and every truth, and unites all in one harmonious whole. The science of mathematics is in itself the very soul of logic, and is, of all studies, most disciplinary to the mind.

Were we to select a motto for this department of study, it would be, "Have a reason for everything"; and then we would have every one be able to give a clear statement of that reason.

VI.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCE.

PROF. E. B. WAGGONER, A. M.

The motto of this department is, "We learn to do by doing." It is the aim of the instructors to encourage the habit of observation. The student will be guided in his efforts, but must do the work for himself. During the year instruction will be given in the following branches:

ZOOLOGY (Steele).—The text book will be used only as a reference book. Field work, collection of specimens, and essays on various subjects will be a prominent feature.

NATURAL PHILOSOPHY (Gage).—"We read nature in the language of experiment," is the motto of the text book used, and the work in the class will be a continued emphasis of that thought. A working laboratory is fitted up and tools and material are provided, so that, as far as possible, the student may construct his own apparatus.

CHEMISTRY (Williams).—At least two days each week will be spent in the laboratory under the direction of the instructor.

MINERALOGY.—This branch, beginning the first term, will be studied one-half a term and will then give place to LaConte's Geology, which will be completed the second term. The museum is well equipped for the study of the above branches, and no pains will be spared to make the study practical.

PHYSIOLOGY (Martin's Human Body).—Extra advantages are offered in this branch. All the helps, such as skeleton, charts, etc., are provided, and the application of the subject to the preservation of the health of the body will be prominently considered.

BOTANY (Gray's Field Book).—The analysis, drawing, and mounting of twenty-five specimens will be required of each student. All the work here is done directly from observation, and in addition to the above at least two essays on botanical subjects will be required.

PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY (Montieth's).—This branch is an introduction to the sciences, and, as far as possible, the student is drilled in the elementary principles of the same.

The sciences embraced in a first grade certificate will be made prominent.

The physical and chemical apparatus is quite extensive, and the museum is one of the most complete in the west. Friends and patrons of the institution are requested to assist in building up this department of the college by contributing specimens and apparatus.

In consideration of the use of apparatus, students in Natural Philosophy are charged an additional fee of fifty cents, and in Chemistry, one dollar, per term.

VII.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

Efforts are being made to render this department thorough, comprehensive, and practical, elevating it to the position demanded by the present increased interest in the study of English.

It embraces History, Grammar, including sentential Analysis, Prose Composition, Rhetoric, and English Literature. Special attention will be given to original compositions.

VIII.

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

The attention of teachers is especially called to the following Teachers' Course. Students completing this course will be prepared to pass examination for State Certificate, and arrangements will be made with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to conduct such examination :

FIRST YEAR.

FIRST TERM.—Descriptive Geography, Arithmetic, English Composition Grammar, Penmanship.

SECOND TERM.—Orthography, Arithmetic, Physical Geography, Grammar.

THIRD TERM.—United States History, Arithmetic, Penmanship, Reading.

SECOND YEAR.

FIRST TERM.—Latin or German, Elementary Algebra, Physiology, Ancient History.

SECOND TERM.—Latin or German, Elementary Algebra, Mediæval History.

THIRD TERM.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, Botany, Crayon work on blackboard.

THIRD YEAR.

FIRST TERM.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, University Algebra, Natural Philosophy.

SECOND TERM.—Cicero or German, Constitution and Civil Government, University Algebra, Chemistry.

THIRD TERM.—Virgil, Geometry, School Law, Chemistry.

FOURTH YEAR.

FIRST TERM.—Geography reviewed, Geometry, Zoölogy.

SECOND TERM.—United States History reviewed, Pedagogy, Grammar reviewed, Rhetoric.

THIRD TERM.—Arithmetic reviewed, Astronomy, English Literature, General History reviewed.

Students prepared to pass examination on the more elementary branches may complete this course in three years.

The theory and practice of teaching will receive careful attention. The last year of the course is given largely to reviews, and special opportunity will be afforded for practical work in teaching.

IX.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

HON. W. W. EDWARDS, A. M., DEAN.

At a meeting of the Joint Board, in June, 1860, the Faculty were authorized to open a Law Department, and make provision to meet the wants of students in regard to law studies. This department has been in successful operation for twenty-eight years, and numbers among its graduates many of the most eminent members of the legal fraternity in this, and other states. It is under the care and instruction of one who will call others to assist him as occasion may require.

When the following course of studies has been completed in a satisfactory manner, the degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred. Upon presentation of diploma the Supreme Court admits the holder to practice in any of the courts of this state without further examination.

COURSE OF LAW STUDIES.

FIRST YEAR.—Blackstone's Commentaries ; Kent's Commentaries ; Chitty on Contracts ; Gould's Pleading ; Greenleaf's Evidence.

This list will be enlarged as occasion requires.

SECOND YEAR.—Blackstone's Commentaries ; Kent's Commentaries ; Chitty on Contracts ; Gould's Pleading ; Stephen's Pleading ; Chitty's Pleading ; Story on Bills ; Story on Partnership ; Story on Agency ; Story on Bailments ; Angel on Limitations ; Story on Equity Pleading and Jurisprudence ; Greenleaf's Evidence ; Angel and Ames on Corporation ; Browne on Action at Law ; Mansel on Demurrer ; Burton on Real Property ; Curtis' Forms ; Rawle on Covenants of Title.

In addition to the regular recitations the students meet weekly in the Law Association to discuss law points and hold Moot Courts.

The M'Kendree Law Association was founded in 1877, and has proved itself highly beneficial to those who are seeking a practical knowledge of the Legal Profession.

This, combined with the Course of Lectures delivered in each quarter, makes the Law Department of the College one of the best in the State.

Prof. Edwards, the newly elected Dean of the Law Department, was for many years a practicing attorney, and is familiar with both the Common Law and Code practice.

X.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

E. B. WAGGONER, PRINCIPAL.

At present a knowledge of the rules and regulations of business life is indispensable, and to meet this demand the following course has been provided. Certificates will be granted to all those who complete the course and pass a satisfactory examination :

FIRST TERM.—Grammar, Arithmetic, Book-keeping, Penmanship.

SECOND TERM.—Grammar, Business Correspondence and Forms, Book-keeping, Penmanship.

THIRD TERM.—Commercial Law, Actual Business, Penmanship and Crayon Work on blackboard.

It is the desire of the Principal to make the certificates of value by making the work thorough. Only those topics in arithmetic will be taught that have direct reference to the department, as, for instance, rapid additions, discount, interest, etc. No extra charge for instruction in this department.

For further particulars address the Principal.

XI.

THEOLOGICAL CLASS.

For the accommodation of students having the Ministry in view, a Theological class is organized under the charge of the President. A complete course in Systematic Theology is proposed. Instruction in Hebrew will be given by Prof. Ferguson.

XII.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

FRED PESOLD, DIRECTOR AND PROFESSOR OF INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

A complete course has been laid out for those who desire a systematic training in the art of Piano-forte Playing. Only the best authorized methods will be employed, and great pains will be taken in the technical and artistical development of the pupil.

Those entering the regular course, having reached a certain degree of excellence, will be required to perform at the public rehearsals and concerts and various entertainments of the College.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR THE PIANO.

FIRST GRADE.—New England Conservatory Method, part first ; Selections from Plaidy, Scales, Arpeggios, etc.

SECOND GRADE.—New England Conservatory Method, part second ; Selections from Plaidy, Scales, Arpeggios, etc. Studies from the works of Heller, Bertini and others ; Characteristic Pieces by Schumann, Spindler and others ; Easy Pieces from Schubert, Beethoven, Mozart, Mendelssohn and modern composers ; Pieces for four hands.

THIRD GRADE.—New England Conservatory Method, part third ; Scales and Arpeggios continued ; Scales in double thirds, sixths, etc. ; Studies from the works of Duvernoy, Bertini, Czerny, Schmidt, Heller, Krause and others ; Pieces by Schumann, Spindler, Mendelssohn, Haydn and Mozart : Operatic Selections ; Selections from modern composers ; Duets.

FOURTH GRADE.—Plaidy's Technical Studies ; Duvernoy's Ecole du Mecanisme ; Czerny's Etudes de la Velocite ; Heller, op. 45 ; Cramer's studies ; selections from Bach's French Suites and Clemente's Gradus ad Parnassum ; Selections from Mendelssohn's "Lieder Ohne Worte" ; Capriccio ; Sonatas by Beethoven, Haydn, Mozart, Schubert and Hummel ; Selections from modern composers ; Duets, etc.

FIFTH GRADE.—Czerny's Finishing Studies ; Selections from Bach's English Suites and the Well-tempered Clavichord ; Chopin's op. 10 and op. 25 ; Pieces by Thalburg, Liszt and Mendelssohn ; Concertos, etc. ; Selections from modern composers ; Duets, etc.

The time required to complete the above course will depend upon the talent and diligence of the pupil. Before receiving a certificate the pupil must have taken Harmony and Theory at least two terms, and be able to pass a satisfactory examination in each. He will also be expected to answer general questions in musical history and biography. Special arrangements will be made with all who desire an Eclectic Course.

KATIE BLANCK, INSTRUCTOR IN VOICE CULTURE.

In this department the instruction consists mainly in the proper use of the organs of respiration, intonation and union of registers ; physiology of vowels and consonants, and correct pronunciation in singing ; flexibility and skill in execution.

"Goldbeck's Vocal Method," a carefully prepared series of exercises based on the Italian school, is used. The pupil will be made familiar with the best German, Italian and English composers, and the various styles of singing. Opportunity will be afforded for chorus drill. As in the instrumental department, certificates will be awarded to those who complete the regular course of instruction.

ART DEPARTMENT.

JOHN LUPTON, INSTRUCTOR.

This well-known artist has a wide reputation, and his ability insures the success of the department. The professor is skilled in Floral, Landscape and Portrait Painting. He will give lessons in Oils, Water Colors, Monochromatics, etc. He is also prepared to teach Photography and India Ink Portrait Drawing.

ELOCUTION.

Arrangements will be made for special instruction in Elocution by an experienced teacher.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class must be fourteen years of age, and will be examined in the studies of the Preparatory Course leading to the Department they wish to enter.

Candidates for admission to other College classes will be examined in the studies which have been pursued by the class which they propose to enter, or in others equivalent to them. In all cases satisfactory testimonials of good character must be presented; and when one has been a member of another College, a certificate of regular dismission will be required. Enrollment in any Class or Department will be considered as a pledge to observe all the rules and regulations of the College.

EXPENSES.

Term Fee . . . . .	$10 00
For Law (extra). . . . .	7 00
For music (extra) . . . . .	12 00
Elocution (extra) . . . . .	5 00
Art Department (extra) . . . . .	12 00

All bills must be paid in advance.

Board can be procured in private families at $3.00 to $4.00 per week. Students wishing to board themselves can secure rooms at reasonable rent. Boarding clubs may be formed, thus reducing the price to the minimum.

YOUNG LADIES' BOARDING HALL.

A commodious boarding hall for young ladies has been fitted up, and board will be given at $3.00 per week.

Students will look after their own laundry. Each student is required to furnish her own toilet soap, towels, table napkins, napkin ring, pillow, one pair pillow-cases, pair of sheets, and enough covering for comfort, and one bed-spread.

Students must be at meals on time. The boarding department is under no obligations to furnish meals after hours specified. Excuses will be required in all cases of absence from the table at the proper hours.

Disobedience to the rules of the hall will be subject to discipline by the Faculty.

The hall is thoroughly furnished with new carpets, furniture and stoves, and everything is homelike. A Christian matron is in charge, whose office is the oversight of the young ladies, both as regards their regular work and their observance of the general rules of propriety. Her first effort will be to provide for the young ladies a home as pleasant as circumstances will allow.

Students in the hall are very largely removed from those temptations and allurements that might otherwise lead to a neglect of college work and duties.

This hall has been fitted up at great expense, and in obedience to an almost absolute demand to meet the requirement of public sentiment touching mixed schools. Let parents visit it and they will commend it.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

Parents and guardians are informed that daily records are kept of the merit and demerit of each student, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his recitations and other College exercises; the latter, the delinquencies and deficiencies of each in his respective duties. The President will furnish an exhibit of these records in any particular case, when requested by the student or his friends; and in all cases where private admonition has been given without effect, a statement of demerit will be forwarded to the friends of such delinquent scholar. (This will be the last step of discipline preceding the final one of suspension or dismissal.) The Faculty are determined that the College shall not be infested, and the whole community embarrassed, and perhaps corrupted, by idle or dissolute members.

FUNDS.

By a resolution of the Board of Trustees, the parent or guardian of each minor is expected to name some person in Lebanon as the guardian or patron of his son or ward, while in College, with whom his funds shall be deposited, and to whom he shall be accountable for their proper use. All persons are forbidden to trust a minor without the consent of parent or guardian, and are hereby notified that if they do so it is at their own risk.

EXAMINATIONS.

Two days at the close of each term will be devoted to examination on the studies pursued during the term. No student will be advanced unless he pass a satisfactory examination. The Examining Committee are solicited to be present at all examinations.

GOVERNMENT.

The discipline of the Institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. An effort will be made to awaken and develop the mental and moral faculties, and thus to secure the true element of progress through life. Transgressions of rules and negligence in study may be borne with for a season, when signs of amendment are perceived, but no student will be permitted to remain while acting in open disregard to these rules. The daily record of the merit and demerit of each student is permanently entered upon the College Record. Five demerits during one term render a student subject to private reproof, and twenty to suspension or dismissal.

REQUIREMENTS.

Regular and punctual attendance and respectful attention at the morning services in the chapel, at recitations, at church, and at the Sunday afternoon lecture; the strict observance of the hours prescribed for study; the faithful performance of the exercises, studies and duties assigned by the Faculty; a prompt account of the reason for any neglect of duty, tardiness or absences; the subordination of all other exercises and studies to those required by the Faculty.

Students are required to observe the Sabbath in a manner in keeping with the sacredness of the day; to abstain from drinking intoxicating beverages, and frequenting or visiting places where intoxicants are sold and drunk, as well as all places of questionable amusements, and to refrain from all unbecoming conduct.

Students desiring to leave town at any time during the term, or those desiring to take lessons in any department of study, from any person not connected with the Faculty, must first obtain special permission from the President, or, in his absence, of the properly accredited officer.

M'Kendree extends the privileges of the College to all persons of either sex who are qualified for admission. It does not receive patronage, but is itself the patron of those who seek its privileges and its honors. It cannot, however, be the patron of idleness or dissipation. It has no room except for those who assiduously pursue the studies of their choice, and are willing to be governed in their conduct by the rules of propriety. Students not in their places at the opening of the term must present written excuses from their parents or guardians for the delay.

---

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

No student is allowed to be absent from College without permission from the President.

The time appropriated to vacation is believed to be ample for the purpose of relaxation from study; and, in view of the unfavorable effect of all absences, either at the commencement or at any other period of the term, upon the standing and proficiency of the student, the Faculty earnestly request that parents and guardians will in no way encourage, or even sanction, such absence, without very urgent reasons.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING.

It is aimed to make the religious influence of the College all that parents could desire for their children. The relations of science and religion are made the subject of frequent discussion in the class room. Science is taught as the product of the Divine mind, and through the truths of science students are led to reverence God as the author of all truth and the center of all force. A prayer meeting is held each Tuesday evening, which all the students are urged to attend. These meetings are a power for good among the students, prompting to renewed consecration, and earnest Christian living.

LIBRARIES.

The Libraries of the College and Literary Societies contain about 7,500 volumes. The College Library is accessible to all Board. The Libraries belonging to the Literary Societies are accessible to the members of the societies, according to the rules established by themselves. During the past year a number of volumes have been added to the College Library, and it is to be hoped that a still larger addition will be made during the present year. The Literary Societies have also greatly increased the number and value of their libraries by liberal and well-selected purchases.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Three excellent literary societies - the Philosophian and Platonian for gentlemen, and the Clonian for ladies, hold weekly meetings for literary work, and have been of great service to such of the students as have availed themselves of the opportunities and advantages which they offer. In the practice of extempore speech and parliamentary usage, they afford superior advantages. Active membership is restricted to such persons as are enrolled in some department of college work. These societies are governed by rules made by the joint action of the Trustees, the Faculty and the societies themselves.

All students are advised to seek membership in one or the other of these societies.

DEGREES CONFERRED.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts will be conferred on those who shall have, in a satisfactory manner, completed the Classical Course.

The degree of Bachelor of Science will be conferred on all those who shall have, in like manner, completed the Scientific Course.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who shall have completed, in a satisfactory manner, the course of study prescribed for that department. Graduation fees must be paid in advance of the final examination.

The degrees of Master of Arts, or Science, will be conferred on any Bachelor of three years' standing, who, during the inter-students, according to the rules established by the Joint val, has sustained a good moral character, and been engaged in some literary, professional or scientific pursuit. Graduates of longer standing, or from other Colleges, may receive the Master's degree on the same terms.

At its recent session, the joint Board directed that hereafter no Masters' Degrees be granted except upon personal application to the President at least three months before Commencement, and such application to be accompanied with statement of present occupation and nature of work done since graduation.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President at least three months before Commencement, and must be endorsed by at least three persons holding the Degree sought.

STUDY HALL.

During the summer of 1883, the Athleteon was converted into an attractive Study Hall, and furnished with the Victor folding and lock-desks. Each student has his own desk and seat, to which he repairs, when not engaged with recitations. The advantages of this arrangement are apparent to every one, and have already been highly appreciated by those in attendance.

The Hall is provided with Dictionaries, Cyclopedias, and other books of reference, to which the student may have access at any time. By such means we hope to greatly assist our students in forming habits of close application and strict attention to duty, besides making their work a delight, instead of an irksome task.

HISTORY.

M'KENDREE COLLEGE was founded as an institution of learning February 20, 1828. It was established in consequence of the action of the Illinois Conference at its session at Mt. Carmel, September, 1827. Mr. E. R. Ames, afterward a Bishop in the M. E. Church, was placed at its head. The population of St. Clair county at that time did not exceed 5,000, and that of the State of Illinois was not more than 140,000. In 1830, Bishop McKendree donated to the College a valuable section of land, and the institution was named in honor of him. It received its charter from the State in 1834. The late venerable Peter Akers, D. D., was shortly after chosen President. At the solicitation of the Board of Trustees, the Legislature of the State granted a new charter, January 26, 1839, investing the institution with the powers of a University. It has the active patronage of the Missouri, the Southern Illinois, and the St. Louis Conferences. Its Roll of Alumni bears the names of nearly five hundred persons, many of whom are in high offices of trust both in church and state.

LOCATION.

LEBANON, Illinois, the seat of the College, is a quiet village on the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, twenty-two miles east of St. Louis. It is easy of access, and comparatively free from the incentives to vice usual to large cities. The community is remarkable for its intelligence and sobriety, and for its high social character, so that the social and moral requirements of the students while in College are fully met. For this reason, as well as on account of the educational advantages afforded by the school, the attention of parents is invited to M'Kendree College as a most desirable place for the education of their sons and daughters.

Special information concerning the College may be obtained by correspondence with the Faculty, or with any member of the patronizing Conferences.

IMPROVEMENTS.

The Executive Committee, with the coöperation of the citizens of Lebanon, have made quite extensive repairs on the College buildings, as well as needed improvements on the grounds.

We have one of the finest natural locations to be found anywhere, and the College and its surroundings are all that can be desired.

The citizens of Lebanon are to be commended for the hearty spirit in which they undertook this work, and the acceptable manner in which it was done.

ALUMNI RECORD.

As the President will be much absent, to insure prompt response address the Vice President. The President will also answer all letters addressed to him, but with possible delay.

Information in regard to the alumni of the College that would be of special, or general interest is earnestly solicited for publication.

We would like the present address and occupation of every living alumnus. Obituary notices of deceased graduates will be of special interest. All who can furnish such information are requested to communicate with Prof. W. W. Edwards, Secretary, and College Historian.

PROSPECTUS FOR THE YEAR 1890-1891.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

The studies in the preceding course are distributed among the following Professorships:

I.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

REV. THOMAS H. HERDMAN, D. D.

This Department includes Psychology, Logic, Moral Philosophy and Evidences of Christianity; also Constitutional and International Law and Political Economy. The thorough examination of approved text-books, accompanied with oral lectures, comprises the instruction proposed. Free discussion on the part of the students is encouraged, and essays on the leading topics of study are required. Access to the standard authorities in the College Library is afforded to all the classes.

II.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REV. WILLIAM W. EDWARDS, A. M., LL. B.

This Department aims to familiarize the student with the forms, structure and idioms of the Latin language; with the laws of the different forms of poetical and prose composition; with the style and characteristics of the best Roman authors; the historical periods to which the several writers read belong; and with Roman life and civilization as illustrated thereby.

In addition to the daily drill and analysis of words and sentences, written translations are required from English into Latin and from Latin into English; and attention is continually called to the words in our language derived from the Latin, and to the influence and imitation of Roman authors to be traced in our own literature.

One year's study of Latin composition is required, beginning with the second term of the Senior Preparatory year.

III.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REV. EDWIN C. FERGUSON, A. M., PH. D.

The studies in this Department aim, first, at affording the student a means for the discipline and development of his faculties, which shall serve as a basis for subsequent special studies; and secondly, at making him master of the principles and structure of the language, as well as familiar with the standard authors and the literature of the various periods.

In the earlier part of the course Etymology and Syntax receive special attention—stress being laid on written exercises, from English into Greek; as the student advances, the Mythology, History, and Antiquities are progressively introduced, and written translations from Greek into English receive due attention. Essays are also regularly required on the different authors and their characteristics.

The course embraces two terms of Poetry, two of History, two of Philosophy, and one each of Tragedy, Oratory, and Greek Testament.

Students in the Classical Course will be allowed to substitute German for an equal number of terms of college Greek.

IV.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REV. EDWIN C. FERGUSON, A. M., PH. D.

Until quite recently this study was optional; but the joint Board, at its annual session in 1874, wisely resolved to make it a two years' course, obligatory on candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science. We hope this is but the beginning of better things, and that the time is not far distant when the course shall be so enlarged as to enable students to become still better acquainted with the rich literature of this, "the most cultivated of modern tongues."

The object aimed at in this department is to make the student not only theoretically but practically acquainted with this living language.

The first year is occupied with the study of the structure of the language; the second is devoted to the study of the literature. Throughout the former, written exercises are daily required, and colloquial practice is commenced at an early period. By this constant practice the ear and the tongue are educated as well as the eye, and a good degree of proficiency is attained.

V.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

PROF. ALBERT G. JEPSON, A. M., PH. D.

Instruction in this Department extends through the whole College course.

During the Course lectures will be delivered on the History and Utility of Mathematics and Astronomy.

Thoroughness in the principles of mathematics is of the utmost importance, as they sustain a most intimate and practical relation to every branch of business and to any pursuit in life.

The science of numbers is the golden thread that runs through and binds together every department of learning and research. It reaches with its magic touch every life, and every truth, and unites all in one harmonious whole. The science of mathematics is in itself the very soul of logic, and is, of all studies, most disciplinary to the mind.

Were we to select a motto for this department of study, it would be, "Have a reason for every thing"; and then we would have every one be able to give a clear statement of that reason.

VI.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCE.

PROF. E. B. WAGGONER, A. M.

The motto of this department is, "We learn to do by doing." It is the aim of the instructors to encourage the habit of observation. The student will be guided in his efforts, but must do the work for himself. During the year instruction will be given in the following branches:

ZOOLOGY (Steele).—The text book will be used only as a reference book. Field work, collection of specimens, and essays on various subjects will be a prominent feature.

NATURAL PHILOSOPHY (Steele & Gage).—"We read nature in the language of experiment," is the motto of the text book used, and the work in the class will be a continued emphasis of that thought. A working laboratory is fitted up and tools and material are provided, so that, as far as possible, the student may construct his own apparatus.

CHEMISTRY (Williams).—At least two days each week will be spent in the laboratory under the direction of the instructor.

MINERALOGY. —This branch, beginning the first term, will be studied one-half a term and will then give place to LaConte's Geology, which will be completed the second term. The museum is well equipped for the study of the above branches, and no pains will be spared to make the study practical.

PHYSIOLOGY (Martin's Human Body).—Extra advantages are offered in this branch. All the helps, such as skeleton, charts, etc., are provided, and the application of the subject to the preservation of the health of the body will be prominently considered.

BOTANY (Hall's).—The analysis, drawing, and mounting of twenty-five specimens will be required of each student. All the work here is done directly from observation, and in addition to the above, at least two essays on botanical subjects will be required.

PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY (Monteith's).—This branch is an introduction to the sciences, and, as far as possible, the student is drilled in the elementary principles of the same.

The sciences embraced in a first grade certificate will be made prominent.

The physical and chemical apparatus is quite extensive, and the museum is one of the most complete in the west. Friends and patrons of the institution are requested to assist in building up this department of the college by contributing specimens and apparatus.

In consideration of the use of apparatus, students in Natural Philosophy are charged an additional fee of fifty cents, and in Chemistry, one dollar, per term.

VII.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

Efforts are being made to render this department thorough, comprehensive, and practical, elevating it to the position demanded by the present increased interest in the study of English.

It embraces History, Grammar, including sentimental Analysis, Prose Composition, Rhetoric, and English Literature. Special attention will be given to original compositions.

VIII.

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

The attention of teachers is especially called to the following Teachers' Course. Students completing this course will be prepared to pass examination for State Certificate, and arrangements will be made with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to conduct such examination :

FIRST YEAR.

FIRST TERM.—Descriptive Geography, Arithmetic, English Composition, Grammar, Penmanship.

SECOND TERM.—Orthography, Arithmetic, Physical Geography, Grammar.

THIRD TERM.—United States History, Arithmetic, Penmanship, Reading.

SECOND YEAR.

FIRST TERM.—Latin or German. Elementary Algebra, Physiology, Ancient History.

SECOND TERM.—Latin or German, Elementary Algebra, Mediæval History.

THIRD TERM.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, Botany, Crayon work on blackboard.

THIRD YEAR.

FIRST TERM.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, University Algebra, Natural Philosophy.

SECOND TERM.—Cicero or German, Constitution and Civil Government, University Algebra, Chemistry.

THIRD TERM.—Virgil, Geometry, School Law, Chemistry.

FOURTH YEAR.

FIRST TERM.—Geography reviewed, Geometry, Zoology.

SECOND TERM.—United States History reviewed, Pedagogy, Grammar reviewed, Rhetoric.

THIRD TERM.—Arithmetic reviewed, Astronomy, English Literature, General History reviewed.

Students prepared to pass examination on the more elementary branches may complete this course in three years.

The theory and practice of teaching will receive careful attention. The last year of the course is given largely to reviews, and special opportunity will be afforded for practical work in teaching.

IX.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

W. W. EDWARDS, A. M., L. L. B., DEAN.

At a meeting of the Joint Board, in June, 1860, the Faculty were authorized to make provision to meet the wants of students in regard to the study of law. Some years later a Law Department was established and continues in successful operation. The efficiency of the work of this Department in the past is proven by the number of its graduates who have attained prominence in the profession. It is under the care and instruction of one who has had experience in the practice and is familiar with the work of the office and the court room, and as occasion may require he will call others to his assistance.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws is conferred upon those who complete the prescribed course of study.

The course is so arranged as to comply with the rules of the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois in regard to licensing attorneys, and the diploma accompanied by affidavit showing two years study, is accepted by the court in lieu of the usual examination. A diploma which is accredited by the highest judicial authority of the State should represent thorough preparation for professional labor, and it is the constant purpose of the Dean to render his pupils such aid as shall make them practical lawyers.

Applicants for admission to the Junior class must pass a satisfactory examination in the studies required for admission to the Freshman class in the Scientific Department of the College, except Latin.

COURSE OF STUDY.

JUNIOR CLASS.

FIRST TERM.—Blackstone's Commentaries, Books I. and II.

Lectures on Constitutional History—English and American.

SECOND TERM.—Blackstone's Commentaries, Books III., IV.

Washburne's Criminal Law.

Lectures on American Constitution.

THIRD TERM.—Walker's American Law.

Gould's Pleadings.

General Review of Blackstone.

SENIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.—Bishop on Contracts.

Kent's Commentaries—Parts I.—IV.

Lectures on Pleadings.

SECOND TERM.—Tiedemann on Real Property.

Kent's Commentaries—Parts V.—VI.

Lectures on International Law.

THIRD TERM.—Cooley on Torts.

Greenleaf on Evidence.

Story's Equity Jurisprudence.

Daily recitations in law are conducted in which students are carefully examined upon their reading and full explanations given of matters not clearly understood by the class.

The lectures mentioned in connection with the course of study are an important feature of the work. All forms of contracts and pleadings are drawn in the presence of the class.

A complete system of Moot Courts is maintained in which students are required to practice, thus giving them thorough training in the conduct of cases before Justices of the Peace, County, Probate, Circuit and Supreme Courts.

A thesis on some matter of jurisprudence and containing at least two thousand words is required before graduation.

A neatly furnished room is set apart as a study for the students in this Department where they may read and have the use of books of reference.

X.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

E. B. WAGGONER, PRINCIPAL.

At present a knowledge of the rules and regulations of business life is indispensable, and to meet this demand the following course has been provided. Certificates will be granted to all those who complete the course and pass a satisfactory examination:

FIRST TERM.—Grammar, Arithmetic, Book-keeping, Penmanship.

SECOND TERM.—Grammar, Business Correspondence and Forms, Book-keeping, Penmanship.

THIRD TERM.—Commercial Law, Actual Business, Penmanship and Crayon Work on blackboard.

It is the desire of the Principal to make the certificates of value by making the work thorough. Only those topics in arithmetic will be taught that have direct reference to the department, as, for instance, rapid additions, discount, interest, etc. No extra charge for instruction in this department.

For further particulars address the Principal.

XI.

THEOLOGICAL CLASS.

For the accommodation of students having the Ministry in view, a Theological class is organized under the charge of the President. A complete course in Systematic Theology is proposed. Instruction in Hebrew will be given by Prof. Ferguson.

XII.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

FRED PESOLD, DIRECTOR AND PROFESSOR OF INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

A complete course has been laid out for those who desire a systematic training in the art of Piano-forte playing. Only the best authorized methods will be employed, and great pains will be taken in the technical and artistic development of the pupil.

Those entering the regular course, having reached a certain degree of excellence, will be required to perform at the public rehearsals and concerts and various entertainments of the College.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR THE PIANO.

FIRST GRADE.—New England Conservatory Method, part first; Selections from Plaidy, Scales, Arpeggios, etc.

SECOND GRADE.—New England Conservatory Method, part second; Selections from Plaidy, Scales, Arpeggios, etc. Studies from the works of Heller, Bertini and others; Characteristic Pieces by Schumann, Spindler and others; Easy Pieces from Schubert, Beethoven, Mozart, Mendelssohn and modern composers; Pieces for four hands.

THIRD GRADE.—New England Conservatory Method, part third, Scales and Arpeggios continued; Scales in double thirds, sixths, etc.; Studies from the works of Duvernoy, Bertini, Czerny, Schmidt, Heller, Krause and others; Pieces by Schumann, Spindler, Mendelssohn, Haydn and Mozart: Operatic Selections; Selections from modern composers; Duets.

FOURTH GRADE.—Plaidy's Technical Studies; Duvernoy's Ecole du Mekanisme; Czerny's Etudes de la Velocite; Heller, op. 45; Cramer's studies; selections from Bach's French Suites and Clemente's Gradus ad Parnassum; Selections from Mendelssohn's "Lieder Ohne Worte"; Capricio; Sonatas by Beethoven, Haydn, Mozart, Schubert and Hummel; Selections from modern composers; Duets, etc.

FIFTH GRADE.—Czerny's Finishing Studies; Selections from Bach's English Suites and the well-tempered Clavichord; Chopin's op. 10 and op. 25: Pieces by Thalburg, Liszt and Mendelssohn; Concertos, etc.; Selections from modern composers; Duets, etc.

The time required to complete the above course will depend upon the talent and diligence of the pupil. Before receiving a certificate the pupil must have taken Harmony and Theory at least two terms, and be able to pass a satisfactory examination in each. He will also be expected to answer general questions in musical history and biography. Special arrangements will be made with all who desire an Elective Course.

KATIE BLANCK, INSTRUCTOR IN VOICE CULTURE.

In this department the instruction consists mainly in the proper use of the organs of respiration, intonation and union of registers; physiology of vowels and consonants, and correct pronunciation in singing; flexibility and skill in execution.

"Goldbeck's Vocal Method," a carefully prepared series of exercises based on the Italian school, is used. The pupil will be made familiar with the best German, Italian and English composers, and the various styles of singing. Opportunity will be afforded for chorus drill. As in the instrumental department, certificates will be awarded to those who complete the regular course of instruction.

ART DEPARTMENT.

JOHN LUPTON, INSTRUCTOR.

This well-known artist has a wide reputation, and his ability insures the success of the department. The professor is skilled in Floral, Landscape and Portrait Painting. He will give lessons in Oils, Water Colors, Monochromatics, etc. He is also prepared to teach Photography and India Ink Portrait Drawing.

ELOCUTION.

Arrangements will be made for special instruction in Elocution by an experienced teacher.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class must be fourteen years of age, and will be examined in the studies of the Preparatory Course leading to the Department they wish to enter.

Candidates for admission to other College classes will be examined in the studies which have been pursued by the class which they propose to enter, or in others equivalent to them. In all cases satisfactory testimonials of good character must be presented; and when one has been a member of another College, a certificate of regular dismission will be required. Enrollment in any Class or Department will be considered as a pledge to observe all the rules and regulations of the College.

EXPENSES.

Term Fee.....	$10 00
For Law (extra).....	10 00
For Music (extra).....	12 00
Elocution (extra).....	5 00
Art Department (extra).....	12 00

All bills must be paid in advance.

Board can be procured in private families at from $3.00 to $4.00 per week. Students wishing to board themselves can secure rooms at a nominal rent, and with reasonable economy may reduce the cost of living to from $1.25 to $1.50 per week.

Boarding Clubs may be formed, in which the cost of board may be greatly reduced from the ordinary cost in private families.

The Faculty will be glad to assist in securing rooms for self-boarders, or in arranging to accommodate clubs.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

Daily records are kept of the merit and demerit of each student, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his recitations and other College exercises; the latter, the delinquencies and deficiencies of each in his respective duties. The President will furnish an exhibit of these records in any particular case, when requested by the student or his friends; and in all cases where private admonition has been given without effect, a statement of demerit will be forwarded to the friends of such delinquent student. (This will be the last step of discipline preceding the final one of suspension or dismissal.) Idleness, dissipation or insubordination will not be tolerated.

FUNDS.

By a resolution of the Board of Trustees, the parent or guardian of each minor is expected to name some person in Lebanon as the guardian or patron of his son or ward, while in College, with whom his funds shall be deposited, and to whom he shall be accountable for their proper use. All persons are forbidden to trust a minor without the consent of parent or guardian, and are hereby notified that if they do so it is at their own risk.

EXAMINATIONS.

Two days at the close of each term will be devoted to examination on the studies pursued during the term. No student will be advanced unless he pass a satisfactory examination. The Examining Committee are solicited to be present at all examinations.

GOVERNMENT.

The discipline of the Institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. An effort will be made to awaken and develop the mental and moral faculties, and thus to secure the true element of progress through life. Transgressions of rules and negligence in study may be borne with for a season, when signs of amendment are perceived, but no student will be permitted to remain while acting in open disregard to these rules. The daily record of the merit and demerit of each student is permanently entered upon the College Record. Five demerits during one term render a student subject to private reproof, and twenty to suspension or dismissal.

REQUIREMENTS.

Regular and punctual attendance and respectful attention at the morning services in the chapel at recitations, at church, and, at the Sunday afternoon lecture; the strict observance of the hours prescribed for study; the faithful performance of the exercises, studies and duties assigned by the Faculty; a prompt account of the reason for any neglect of duty, tardiness or absences; the subordination of all other exercises and studies to those required by the Faculty.

Students are required to observe the Sabbath in a manner in keeping with the sacredness of the day, and at all times to abstain from drinking intoxicating beverages, or frequenting or visiting places where intoxicants are sold and drunk, as well as all places of questionable amusements, and to refrain from all unbecoming conduct.

Students desiring to leave town at any time during the term, or those desiring to take lessons in any department of study from any person not connected with the faculty, must first obtain special permission from the President, or, in his absence, of the properly accredited officer.

McKendree extends the privileges of the College to all persons of either sex who are qualified for admission. It does not receive patronage, but is itself the patron of those who seek its privileges and its honors. It cannot, however, be the patron of idleness or dissipation. It has no room except for those who assiduously pursue the studies of their choice, and are willing to be governed in their conduct by the rules of propriety. Students not in their places at the opening of the term must present written excuses from their parents or guardians for the delay.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

No student is allowed to be absent from College without permission from the President.

The time appropriated to vacation is believed to be ample for the purpose of relaxation from study; and, in view of the unfavorable effect of all absences, either at the commencement or at any other period of the term, upon the standing and proficiency of the student, the Faculty earnestly request that parents and guardians will in no way encourage, or even sanction, such absence, without very urgent reasons.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING.

It is aimed to make the religious influence of the College all that parents could desire for their children. The relations of science and religion are made the subject of frequent discussion in the class room. Science is taught as the product of the Divine mind, and through the truths of science students are led to reverence God as the author of all truth and the center of all force. A prayer meeting is held each Tuesday evening, which all the students are urged to attend. These meetings are a power for good among the students, prompting to renewed consecration and earnest Christian living.

LIBRARIES.

The Libraries of the College and Literary Societies contain about 7,500 volumes. The College Library is accessible to all students, according to rules established by the Joint Board. The Libraries belonging to the Literary Societies are accessible to the members of the societies, according to the rules established by themselves. During the past year a number of volumes have been added to the College Library, and it is to be hoped that a still larger addition will be made during the present year. The Literary Societies have also greatly increased the number and value of their libraries by liberal and well-selected purchases.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Three excellent literary societies—the Philosopher and Platonian for gentlemen, and the Clonian for ladies, hold weekly meetings for literary work, and have been of great service to such of the students as have availed themselves of the opportunities and advantages which they offer. In the practice of extempore speech and parliamentary usage, they afford superior advantages. Active membership is restricted to such persons as are enrolled in some department of college work. These societies are governed by rules made by the joint action of the Trustees, the Faculty and the societies themselves.

All students are advised to seek membership in one or the other of these societies.

DEGREES CONFERRED.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts will be conferred on those who shall have, in a satisfactory manner, completed the Classical Course.

The degree of Bachelor of Science will be conferred on all those who shall have, in like manner, completed the Scientific Course.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who shall have completed, in a satisfactory manner, the course of study prescribed for that department. Graduation fees must be paid in advance of the final examination.

The degrees of Master of Arts or Science, will be conferred on any Bachelor of three years' standing, who during the interval, has sustained a good moral character, and been engaged in some literary, professional or scientific pursuit. Graduates of longer standing, may receive the Master's degree on the same terms.

At its recent session, the Joint Board directed that hereafter no Masters' Degrees be conferred in cursu, except on personal application to the President of the College at least three months in advance of Commencement, with statement of present occupation and nature of work done since graduation; said application to be accompanied with a Diploma Fee of $5.00.

The Diploma Fees for all Degrees in cursu shall hereafter be fixed at $5.00.

Diploma Fees for Honorary Degrees will remain as heretofore, at $10.00.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President at least three months before Commencement, and must be endorsed by at least three persons holding the Degree sought.

STUDY HALL.

During the summer of 1883, the Athleteon was converted into an attractive Study Hall, and furnished with the Victor folding and lock desks. Each student has his own desk and seat, to which he repairs, when not engaged with recitations. The advantages of this arrangement are apparent to every one, and have already been highly appreciated by those in attendance.

The hall is provided with Dictionaries, Cyclopedias, and other books of reference, to which the student may have access at any time. By such means we hope to greatly assist our students in forming habits of close application and strict attention to duty.

HISTORY.

MCKENDREE COLLEGE was founded as an institution of learning February 20, 1828. It was established in consequence of the action of the Illinois Conference at its session at Mt. Carmel, September, 1827. Mr. E. R. Ames, afterward a Bishop of the M. E. church. was placed at its head. The population of St. Clair county at that time did not exceed 5,000, and that of the State of Illinois was not more than 140,000. In 1830. Bishop McKendree donated to the College a valuable section of land, and the institution was named in honor of him. It received its charter from the State in 1834. The late venerable Peter Akers, D. D., was shortly after chosen President. At the solicitation of the Board of Trustees, the Legislature of the State granted a new charter, January 26, 1839, investing the institution with the powers of a University. It has the active patronage of the Missouri, the Southern Illinois, and the St. Louis Conferences. Its Roll of Alumni bears the names of nearly five hundred persons, many of whom are in high offices of trust both in church and state.

M'KENDREE COLLEGE DAY.

A resolution was adopted by the Board of Trustees designating the third Sunday in May of each year as M'KENDREE DAY. The purpose is to do honor to Bishop McKendree and also to receive donations and subscriptions for the benefit of the College. Such amounts are to be applied first to the liquidation of the indebtedness, and then to the improvement of the College Property and additions to the Endowment Fund.

The ministers in the patronizing Conferences are requested to preach on the subject of "Christian Education" on McKendree Day, and direct the attention of the young to the advantages afforded by this institution.

A special committee, consisting of Rev. T. H. Herdman, D. D., acting president, and Revs. F. L. West and J. W. Van Cleve, was appointed to secure the co-operation of the pastors in the Southern Illinois Conference in its observance, and to prepare a suitable programme giving full information in regard to the College.

LOCATION.

LEBANON, Illinois, the seat of the College, is a quiet village on the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, twenty-two miles east of St. Louis. It is easy of access, and comparatively free from the incentives to vice usual to large cities. The community is remarkable for its intelligence and sobriety, and for its high social character, so that the social and moral requirements of the students while in College are fully met. For this reason, as well as on account of the educational advantages afforded by the school, the attention of parents is invited to M'Kendree College as a most desirable place for the education of their sons and daughters.

Special information concerning the College may be obtained by correspondence with the Faculty, or with any member of the patronizing Conferences.

IMPROVEMENTS.

The Executive Committee, with the co-operation of the citizens of Lebanon, have made quite extensive repairs on the College buildings, as well as needed improvements on the grounds.

We have one of the finest natural locations to be found anywhere, and the College and its surroundings are all that can be desired.

The citizens of Lebanon are to be commended for the hearty spirit in which they undertook this work, and the acceptable manner in which it was done.

During the past year our Chapel has been refitted and adorned, till it is now one of the finest Halls in the State.

ALUMNI RECORD.

Information in regard to the alumni of the College that would be of special, or general interest is earnestly solicited for publication.

We would like the present address and occupation of every living alumnus. Obituary notices of deceased graduates will be of special interest. All who can furnish such information are requested to communicate with Prof. W. W. Edwards, Secretary and College Historian.

PROSPECTUS FOR THE YEAR 1892-93.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

The studies in the preceding Courses are distributed among the following Professorships :

I.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

REV. THOS. H. HERDMAN, D. D.

This department includes Psychology, Logic, Moral Philosophy, and Evidences of Christianity ; also Constitutional and International Law, and Political Economy. The thorough examination of approved text-books, accompanied with oral lectures, comprises the instruction proposed. Free discussion on the part of the students is encouraged, and essays on the leading topics of study are required. Access to the standard authorities in the College Library is afforded to all the classes. As the President is engaged in a canvass for the Institution, his class-room work will be distributed.

II.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REV. WILLIAM W. EDWARDS, A. M., LL. B.

This department aims to familiarize the student with the forms, structure and idioms of the Latin language ; with the laws of the different forms of poetical and prose composition ; with the style and characteristics of the best Roman authors ; with the historical periods to which the several writers read belong : and with Roman life and civilization as illustrated thereby.

In addition to the daily drill and analysis of words and sentences, written translations are required from English into Latin and from Latin into English ; and attention is continually called to the words in our language derived from the Latin ; and to the influence and imitation of Roman authors to be traced in our own literature.

One year's study of Latin Composition is required, beginning with the second term of the Senior Preparatory year.

III.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

MORRIS L. BARR, A. B.

The studies in this department aim, first, at affording the student a means for the discipline and development of his faculties, which shall serve as a basis for subsequent special studies; and, secondly, at making him master of the principles and structure of the language, as well as familiar with the standard authors and the literature of the various periods.

In the earlier part of the course Etymology and Syntax receive special attention—stress being laid on written exercises, from English into Greek; as the student advances, the Mythology, History and Antiquities are progressively introduced, and written translations from Greek into English receive due attention. Essays are also regularly required on the different authors and their characteristics.

The course embraces two terms of Poetry, two of History, two of Philosophy, and one each of Tragedy, Oratory, and Greek Testament.

Students in the Classical Course will be allowed to substitute German for an equal number of terms of college Greek.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

MORRIS L. BARR, A. B.

A knowledge of the German language and literature is an essential factor of a liberal education. A two years' course in this language is pursued by candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science, and a more extended course is offered to those desiring to continue their studies along this line.

The aim of this department is to give the student a practical knowledge of this "the most cultivated of modern tongues."

The first year is occupied with the study of the structure of the language, accompanied by thorough drill in composition and in translation of selections from standard prose writers. The second year is devoted more especially to the study of the German classics.

As this is a living language, a conversational knowledge of it is of the utmost importance. Hence, throughout the course, a part of the daily recitation is devoted to conversation in German, and thus a speaking as well as a reading knowledge of the language is acquired.

V.

MATEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

ALBERT G. JEPSON, A. M., PH. D.

Instruction in this department extends through the whole College Course.

Mathematics is an essential agent in the transaction of every form of business, and in the development of every department of science.

The Science of Numbers is the golden thread that runs through and binds together all departments of learning and research, uniting all in one harmonious whole. It reaches with its magic touch every life and every truth.

At the same time that the facts are taught, the utility of mathematical study as a mental discipline is duly recognized.

It generates a habit of independent and accurate thought, an increased power of attention, and an enlarged ability for successful effort.

The Science of Mathematics embodies the very soul of Logic, and is, of all studies, the most disciplinary.

This department of study will receive the attention its importance demands, both as a practical business agent and as an educational factor.

No substitute for required Mathematics will be accepted.

VI.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCES.

E. B. WAGGONER, A. M.

The motto of this Department is, "We learn to do by doing." It is the aim of the instruction to encourage the habit of observation. The student will be guided in his efforts, but he must do the work himself.

During the year instruction will be given in the following branches:—

Zoology.—The text-book will be used only as a reference book. Field work, collection of specimens, and essays on various subjects, will be a prominent feature.

Physics.—"We read Nature in the language of experiments" is the motto. The student is taught to manufacture and use simple apparatus, and every possible means is employed to encourage individual effort. Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, Electricity and Magnetism are taught the second term, and the subject is completed the third term.

Chemistry.—This branch is taught the first term. At least two hours each week are spent in the laboratory under the direction of the instructor.

Mineralogy.—This branch, beginning the second term, will be studied about six weeks, and then will give place to La Conte's Geology, which will be completed the third term. The Museum is well equipped for the study of the above branches, and special advantages are offered.

Physiology.—This branch is well illustrated by means of skeletons, charts, etc. The application of the subject to the preservation of the health is prominently considered.

Botany.—In addition to the regular study of the subject, the analysis, drawing, and mounting of at least twenty specimens, will be required of each student.

Physical Geography.—This branch is an introduction to the sciences, and, as far as possible, the student is drilled in the elementary principles of the same.

The physical and chemical apparatus is quite extensive, and the museum is one of the most complete in the West.

Friends and patrons of the institution are urged to assist in building up this department by contributing specimens and apparatus.

In view of the expense connected with the use of apparatus, students in Natural Philosophy are charged an additional fee of fifty cents, and in Chemistry of one dollar per term.

VII.

SHORT-HAND AND TYPE-WRITING.

Arrangements have been made for a course in Short-hand and Type writing for the ensuing year. The system taught will be the Eclectic the shortest and most practical in use at the present day. Mr. Wm. L. Cunningham, of St. Elmo, Ill., a young man well qualified for the position, will have charge of the department, and any information with reference to the work can be obtained by addressing him at St. Elmo, or Lebanon, Ill.

The full course will include Short-hand and Type-writing, and such other branches taught in the college as are necessary to a full mastery of the subject.

Tuition, for full course,	-	-	-	$40.00
Short-hand, alone,	-	-	-	30.00
Type-writing, alone, -	-	-	-	15.00

VIII.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

For the present, the work of this Department is distributed. Effort will be made to give thorough, comprehensive, and practical instruction. Increased interest is shown in the study of our noble language.

The work of this Department includes English Grammar, Sentential Analysis, Composition, Rhetoric, American and English Literature; also History and related branches. The English Bible will be studied as a classic.

IX.
NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

Teachers and those intending to qualify themselves for work in the school-room are asked to examine the Normal Course. Those who complete it will be prepared to pass examination not only for County but also for State Certificate.

NORMAL COURSE.

FIRST YEAR.

First Term.—Descriptive Geography, Arithmetic, English Composition, Grammar, Penmanship.

Second Term.—Orthography, Arithmetic, Physical Geography, Grammar.

Third Term.—United States History, Arithmetic, Penmanship, Reading.

SECOND YEAR.

First Term.—Latin or German, Elementary Algebra, Physiology, Ancient History.

Second Term.—Latin or German, Elementary Algebra, Mediæval History.

Third Term.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, Botany, Crayon Work on blackboard.

THIRD YEAR.

First Term.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, University Algebra, Natural Philosophy.

Second Term.—Cicero or German, Constitution and Civil Government, University Algebra, Chemistry.

Third Term.—Virgil, Geometry, School Law, Chemistry.

FOURTH YEAR.

First Term.—Geography reviewed, Geometry, Zoology.

Second Term.—United States History reviewed, Pedagogy, Grammar reviewed, Rhetoric.

Third Term.—Arithmetic reviewed, Astronomy, English Literature, General History reviewed.

Students prepared to pass examination on the more elementary branches may complete this course in three years.

The theory and practice of Teaching will receive careful attention. The last year of the course is given largely to reviews, and special opportunity will be afforded for practical work in teaching.

X.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

W. W. EDWARDS, A. M., LL. B., DEAN.

At a meeting of the Joint Board, in June, 1861, a Law Department was established, and continues in successful operation. The efficiency of the work of this department in the past is proven by the number of its graduates who have attained prominence in the profession. It is under the care and instruction of one who has had experience in the practice, and is familiar with the work of the office and the court-room; and, as occasion may require, he will call others to his assistance.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws is conferred upon those who complete the prescribed course of study.

The course is so arranged as to comply with the rules of the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois in regard to licensing attorneys, and the diploma, accompanied by affidavit showing two years' study, is accepted by the Court in lieu of the usual examination. A diploma which is accredited by the highest judicial authority of the State should represent thorough preparation for professional labor, and it is the constant purpose of the Dean to render his pupils such aid as shall make them practical lawyers.

Applicants for admission to the Junior Class should be able to pass a satisfactory examination in the studies required for admission to the Freshman Class in the Scientific Department of the College except Latin.

COURSE OF STUDY.

JUNIOR CLASS.

First Term.—Blackstone's Commentaries, Books III. & IV.
Lectures on Constitutional History, English and American.

Second Term.—Blackstone's Commentaries, Books I. & II.
Washburne's Criminal Law.
Lectures on American Constitution.

Third Term.—Walker's American Law.
Gould's Pleadings.
Browne on Domestic Relations.
General Review of Blackstone.

SENIOR YEAR.

First Term.—Bishop on Contracts.
Kent's Commentaries, Parts I. to IV.
Heard's Civil Pleadings.
Lectures on Pleadings.

Second Term.—Tiedemann on Real Property.
Kent's Commentaries, Parts V. & VI.
Lectures on International Law.

Third Term.—Cooley on Torts.
Greenleaf on Evidence.
Story's Equity Jurisprudence.

Daily recitations in law are conducted in which students are carefully examined upon their reading, and full explanations given of matters not clearly understood by the class.

The following topics indicate the scope of the lectures mentioned in connection with the Course of Study.

Feudalism in England; Magna Charta; Origin and Growth of Parliament; Title to the Crown Development of English Courts; Nature of the American Constitution; The Federal Judiciary; Impeachment; Relation of State and Federal Governments; General Rules of Pleading Illustrated; The Common Law Actions; Demurrers; Jury trial in Civil Cases; Indictments; Requisites of Deeds; Origin of International Law, etc., etc.

A complete system of Moot Courts is maintained in which students are required to practice, thus giving them thorough training in the conduct of cases before Justices of the Peace, in County, Probate, Circuit and Supreme Courts.

The basis of the instruction is the study of the text-books, with daily recitations to test the degree and accuracy of the student's knowledge, and to give full explanations of the topic under consideration. The superior facilities afforded by Law Schools for acquiring knowledge in the science and practice of law are generally appreciated; and but few are content to pursue their studies in the office of the practitioner, where they are obliged to proceed in an unsystematic manner. One can scarcely hope to obtain a competent knowledge of this most complex science, and acquire a mastery of the most difficult of arts, amid the constant interruptions of business. The training of the schools leads the student to a broader and clearer conception of the law as a system, and imbues him with the principles of ethics as its true foundation. It gives him the valuable habit of attention, teaches him familiar maxims, and offers him the advantages which result from emulation.

In the system of Moot Courts, the students are taught to apply legal remedies according to the common law and chancery systems of practice; to bring suits, to draw papers, pleadings, and take the various steps incident to bringing a cause to trial; then to try it in conformity with the rules of procedure.

The forms and dignity of a trial in court are observed, and a high tone of professional ethics and conduct is required in these exercises.

A thesis on some matter of jurisprudence, and containing at least two thousand words, is required before graduation.

A neatly furnished room is set apart as a study for the students in this Department, where they may read and have the use of books of reference.

AN EVENING LAW SCHOOL

has recently been established at East St. Louis where students receive substantially the same instruction and advantages as those in attendance at the College.

The railroad facilities are such that students residing within a radius of seventy-five miles can attend these evening sessions and return to their homes. Few schools offer equal opportunities to young men who wish to prepare for the profession of law.

All correspondence concerning the Law School should be addressed to or Room 10, No. 121 N. 3rd St., East St. Louis, Ill.

W. W. EDWARDS, LL. B.

Lebanon, Ill.

XI.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

E. B. WAGGONER, PRINCIPAL.

At present a knowledge of the rules and regulations of business life is indispensable, and to meet this demand the following course has been provided. Certificates will be granted to all those who complete the course and pass a satisfactory examination.

First Term.—Grammar, Arithmetic, Book-keeping, Penmanship.

Second Term.—Grammar, Business Correspondence and Forms, Book-keeping, Penmanship.

Third Term.—Commercial Law, Actual Business, Penmanship, and Crayon Work on blackboard.

It is the desire of the Principal to make the certificates of value by making the work thorough. Only those topics in arithmetic will be taught that have direct reference to the department, as, for instance, rapid additions, discount, interest, etc. No extra charge for instruction in this department.

For further particulars, address the Principal.

XII.

THEOLOGICAL CLASS.

For the accommodation of students having the Ministry in view, a Theological Class is organized under the charge of the President.

The Bible, Discipline, Catechism, Church History, and Methodist History, Doctrine and Polity, will receive attention.

XIII.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

DIRECTOR & PROFESSOR OF INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

A complete course has been laid out for those who desire a systematic training in the art of Piano-forte Playing. Only the best authorized methods will be employed, and great pains will be taken in the technical and artistic development of the pupil.

Those entering the regular course, having reached a certain degree of excellence, will be required to perform at the public rehearsals and concerts and various entertainments at the College.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR THE PIANO.

First Grade.—New England Conservatory Method, Part I.; Selections from Plaidy, Scales, Arpeggios, etc.

Second Grade.—New England Conservatory Method, Part II.; Selections from Plaidy, Scales, Arpeggios, etc. Studies from the works of Heller, Bertini, and others; Characteristic Pieces by Schumann, Spindler, and others; Easy Pieces from Schubert, Beethoven, Mozart, Mendelssohn, and modern composers; Pieces for four hands.

Third Grade.—New England Conservatory Method, Part III.; Scales and Arpeggios, continued; Scales in double thirds, sixths, etc.; Studies from the works of Duvernoy, Bertini,

* The effort will be to fill this vacant chair by the selection of a well qualified instructor.

Czerny, Schmidt, Heller, Krause, and others; Pieces by Schumann, Spindler, Mendelssohn, Haydn, and Mozart; Operatic Selections; Selections from modern composers; Duets.

Fourth Grade.—Plaidy's Technical Studies; Duvernoy's Ecole du Mecanisme; Czerny's Etudes de la Velocite; Heller, op. 45; Cramer's Studies; Selections from Bach's French Suites and Clemente's "Grandus ad Parnassum;" Selections from Mendelssohn's "Liede Ohne Worte;" Capricio; Sonatas by Beethoven, Haydn, Mozart, Schubert, and Hummell; Selections from modern composers; Duets, etc.

Fifth Grade.—Czerny's Finishing Studies; Selections from Bach's English Suites, and the well-tempered Clavichord; Chopin's op. 10 and op. 25; Pieces by Thalburg, Liszt, and Mendelssohn; Concertos, etc.; Selections from modern composers; Duets, etc.

The time required to complete the above course will depend upon the talent and diligence of the pupil. Before receiving a certificate the pupil must have taken Harmony and Theory at least two terms, and be able to pass a satisfactory examination in each. He also will be expected to answer general questions in musical history and biography. Special arrangements will be made with all who desire an Elective Course.

ART DEPARTMENT.

MISS ABBIE E. LUPTON, INSTRUCTOR.

This young artist has a growing reputation. Her skill gives promise of success to her students. She will give instruction in Oils, Water Colors, Monochromatics, etc. Facilities will also be afforded for Photography and India Ink Portrait Drawings.

ELOCUTION.

Arrangements will be made, as heretofore, for special instruction in Elocution.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Candidates for admission to the Preparatory Department, or to the business Course, must undergo examination in the common branches to the extent required by the Faculty, and must attain a satisfactory grade in such studies.

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class must be fourteen years of age, and will be examined in the studies of the Preparatory Course leading to the department they wish to enter.

Candidates for admission to other College classes will be examined in the studies which have been pursued by the class which they propose to enter, or in others equivalent to them. In all cases, satisfactory testimonials of good character must be presented, and when one has been a member of another College, a certificate of regular dismission will be required. Enrollment in any class or department will be considered as a pledge to observe all the Rules and Regulations of the College.

EXPENSES.

Elocution (extra),	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	.....
Art Department (extra),	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	12 00

All bills must be paid in advance.

Board can be procured in private families at from $3.00 to $3.50 per week. Students wishing to board themselves can secure rooms at a nominal rent, and with reasonable economy may reduce the cost of living to from $1.25 to $1.50 per week.

Boarding Clubs may be formed, in which the cost of board may be greatly reduced from the ordinary cost in private families.

The Faculty will be glad to assist in securing rooms for self-boarders, or in arranging to accommodate clubs.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

Daily records are kept of the merit and demerit of each student, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his recitations and other College exercises; the latter, the delinquencies and deficiencies of each in his respective duties. The President will furnish an exhibit of these records, in any particular case, when requested by the student or his friends; and, in all cases where private admonition has been given without effect, a statement of demerit will be forwarded to the friends of such delinquent student. (This will be the last step of discipline preceding the final one of suspension or dismissal.) Idleness, dissipation or insubordination will not be tolerated.

FUNDS.

By a resolution of the Board of Trustees, the parent or guardian of each minor is expected to name some person in Lebanon as the guardian, or patron, of his son or ward while in College, with whom his funds shall be deposited, and to whom he shall be accountable for their proper use. All persons are forbidden to trust a minor without the consent of parent or guardian, and are hereby notified that if they do so, it is at their own risk.

EXAMINATIONS.

Two days at the close of each term will be devoted to examination on the studies pursued during the term. No student will be advanced unless he pass a satisfactory examination. The members of the examining committee are solicited to be present at all examinations.

GOVERNMENT.

The discipline of the Institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. An effort will be made to awaken and develop the mental and moral faculties, and thus to secure the true element of progress through life. Transgression of rules and negligence in study may be borne with for a season when signs of amendment are perceived, but no student will be permitted to remain while acting in open disregard of these rules. The daily record of merit and demerit of each student is permanently entered upon the College Record. Five demerits during one term render a student subject to private reproof, ten to severe reprimand, and twenty to suspension or dismissal.

REQUIREMENTS.

Regular and punctual attendance and respectful attention at the morning services in the chapel, at recitations and at church; the strict observance of the hours prescribed for study; the faithful performance of the exercises, studies and duties assigned by the Faculty; a prompt account of the reason for any neglect of duty, tardiness, or absence; the subordination of all other exercises and studies to those required by the Faculty.

Students are required to observe the Sabbath in a manner in keeping with the sacredness of the day, and at all times to abstain from drinking intoxicating beverages, or frequenting or visiting places where intoxicants are sold and drunk, as well as all places of questionable amusements, and to refrain from all unbecoming conduct.

Students desiring to leave town or to be absent from the College at any time during the term, or those desiring to take lessons in any department of study from any person not connected with the Faculty, must first obtain special permission from the President, or in his absence, from the properly accredited officer.

McKendree extends the privileges of the College to all persons of either sex who are qualified for admission. It does not receive patronage, but is itself the patron of those who seek its privileges and its honors. It cannot, however, be the patron of idleness or dissipation. It has no room except for those who assiduously pursue their allotted studies, and are willing to be governed in their conduct by the rules of propriety. Students should be in their places at the opening of the term, as the work of organization is hindered by delay.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

No student is allowed to be absent from College without permission from the President.

The time appropriated to vacation is believed to be ample for the purpose of relaxation from study; and, in view of the unfavorable effect of all absences, either at the commencement or at any other period of the term, upon the standing and proficiency of the student, the Faculty earnestly request that parents and guardians will in no way encourage, or even sanction, such absence without very urgent reasons.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING.

It is aimed to make the religious influence of the College all that parents could desire for their children. The relations of science and religion are made the subject of frequent discussion in the class-room. Science is taught as the product of the Divine mind, and through the truths of science students are led to reverence God as the author of all truth and the center of all force. A prayer-meeting is held each Tuesday evening, which all the students are urged to attend. These meetings are a power for good among the students, prompting to renewed consecration and earnest Christian living.

LIBRARIES.

The Libraries of the College and Literary Societies contain about 7,500 volumes. The College Library is accessible to all students according to rules established by the Joint Board.

The Libraries belonging to the Literary Societies are accessible to the members of the societies according to the rules established by themselves. The recent gift of a number of volumes to the College Library, and many fine specimens to the Museum, through the liberality of Rev. F. O. Blair, of Trinidad, Col., has done much toward raising our expectations that other friends of McKendree will help toward the increase of our facilities.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Three excellent literary societies—the Philosophian and Platonian for gentlemen, and the Clionian for ladies—hold weekly meetings for literary work, and have been of great service to such of the students as have availed themselves of the opportunities and advantages which they offer. In the practice of extempore speech and parliamentary usage, they afford superior advantages. Active membership is restricted to such persons as are enrolled in some department of college work. These societies are governed by rules made by the action of the Trustees, the Faculty, and the Societies themselves.

Every student is advised to seek membership in one of these Societies.

DEGREES CONFERRED.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts will be conferred on those who shall have, in a satisfactory manner, completed the Classical Course.

The degree of Bachelor of Science will be conferred on all those who shall have, in like manner, completed the Scientific Course.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who shall have completed, in a satisfactory manner, the course of study prescribed for that department. Graduation fees must be paid in advance of the final examination.

The degree of Master of Arts, or Master of Science, will be conferred on any Bachelor of three years' standing, who, during the interval, has sustained a good moral character, and has engaged in some literary, professional or scientific pursuit. Graduates of longer standing may receive the Master's degree on the same terms.

At a recent session, the Joint Board directed that hereafter no Master's Degree be conferred in cursu, except on personal application to the President of the College at least three months in advance of the Commencement, with statement of present occupation and nature of work done since graduation; application to be accompanied with a Diploma Fee of $5.00.

The Diploma Fees for all Degrees in cursu shall hereafter be fixed at $5.00.

Diploma Fees for Honorary Degrees will remain as heretofore at $10.00.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President at least sixty days before Commencement, and must be indorsed by at least three persons holding the Degree sought, or a higher one.

STUDY HALL.

The Study Hall, in which each student has his own desk, affords facilities for the improvement of hours not spent in the recitation room. The advantages of this arrangement, especially as regards the younger students, are apparent.

The hall is provided with Dictionaries, Cyclopedias, and other books of reference, to which the student may have access at any time. By such means we hope to greatly assist our students in forming habits of close application and strict attention to duty.

HISTORY.

McKENDREE COLLEGE was founded as an institution of learning February 20, 1828. It was established in consequence of the action of the Illinois Conference at its session at Mt. Carmel, September, 1827. Mr. E. R. Ames, afterwards a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was placed at its head. The population of St. Clair County at that time did not exceed 5,000, and that of the State of Illinois was not more than 140,000. In 1830, Bishop McKendree donated to the College a valuable section of land, and the institution was named in honor of him. It received its charter from the State in 1834. The late venerable Peter Akers, D. D., was shortly afterward chosen President. At the solicitation of the Board of Trustees, the Legislature of the State granted a new charter, January 26, 1839, investing the institution with the powers of a University. It has the active patronage of the Southern Illinois Conference, and some degree of support from the St. Louis Conference. Its Roll of Alumni bears the names of nearly five hundred persons, many of whom are in high offices of trust both in church and state.

McKENDREE COLLEGE DAY.

The first Sunday in August of each year is known as McKENDREE COLLEGE DAY. The purpose is to do honor to Bishop McKendree, and also to receive donations and subscriptions for the benefit of the College. Such amounts are to be applied, first, to the liquidation of the indebtedness, and then to the improvement of the College Property and additions to the Endowment Fund.

The ministers in the patronizing Conferences are requested to preach on the subject of "Christian Education" on McKendree College Day, and direct the attention of the young to the advantages afforded by this institution. Other special services will be held with the same object in view.

LOCATION.

Lebanon, Illinois, the seat of the College, is a quiet village on the Ohio and Mississippi railroad, twenty-four miles east of St. Louis. It is easy of access, and comparatively free from the incentives to vice usual to large cities. The community is remarkable for its intelligence and sobriety, and for its high social character, so that the social and moral requirements of the students while in College are fully met. For this reason, as well as on account of the educational advantages afforded by the school, the attention of parents is invited to McKendree College as a most desirable place for the education of their sons and daughters.

The location of the College is very fine, the sight affording a wide view of a beautiful range of country. The campus in its natural features is rarely equaled.

ALUMNI RECORD.

The Alumni Reunion of June 15, 1892, was one of unusual interest. The resident alumni had wisely planned. In addition to many whose names are found in recent classess, there were present representatives of the classes of '41, '49, '59, '60, '62, '72, '73, '74, '75, '77, '79. The annual address was delivered by Hon. Henry A. Castle, of St. Paul, Minn., of the class of '62, while responses to toasts at the banquet were given by Johnson Pierson of the class of '41, Judge L. Y. Sherman '82 and W. W. Flint '81

As a grand reunion is in prospect for 1893, and as we contemplate issuing a Record of the Alumni and History of McKendree College, we ask for correspondence with alumni, former students and professors, and for sketches of the deceased. These should give information as to the occupations, relations in life, professional attainment and political preference of their subjects.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

The studies in the preceding Courses are distributed among the following Professorships :

I.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

This department includes Psychology, Logic, Moral Philosophy, and Evidences of Christianity ; also Constitutional and International Law, and Political Economy. The thorough examination of approved text-books, accompanied with oral lectures, comprises the instruction proposed. Free discussion on the part of the students is encouraged, and essays on the leading topics are required. Access to the standard authorities in the College Library is afforded to all the classes. The President and Vice President will jointly conduct this department.

II.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

MORRIS L. BARR, A. B.

The studies in this department aim, first, at affording the student a means for the discipline and development of his faculties, which shall serve as a basis for subsequent special studies ; and, secondly, at making him master of the principles and structure of the language, as well as familiar with the standard authors and the literature of the various periods.

In the earlier part of the course Etymology and Syntax receive special attention—stress being laid on written exercises, from English to Greek ; as the student advances, the Mythology, History and Antiquities are progressively introduced, and written translations from Greek into English receive due attention. Essays are also required on the authors and their different characteristics.

The course embraces three terms of Poetry, four of History, two of Philosophy, and one each of Tragedy, Oratory, and Greek Testament.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

EDWARD P BAKER, A. B.

This department aims to familiarize the student with the forms, structure and idioms of the Latin language; with the laws of the different forms of poetical and prose compositions; with the style and characteristics of the best Roman authors; with the historical periods to which the several writers read belong; and with Roman life and civilization as illustrated thereby.

In addition to the daily drill and analysis of words and sentences, written translations are required from English into Latin and from Latin into English; and attention is continually called to the words in our language derived from the Latin; and to the influence and imitation of Roman authors to be traced in our own literature.

One year's study of Latin Composition is required, beginning with the second term of the Senior Preparatory year.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

EDWARD P. BAKER, A. B.

A knowledge of the German language and literature is an essential factor of a liberal education. A two years' course in this language is pursued by candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science, and a more extended course is offered to those desiring to continue their studies along this line.

The aim of this department is to give the student a practical knowledge of this "the most cultivated of modern tongues."

The first year is occupied with the study of the structure of the language, accompanied by thorough drill in composition and in translation of selections from standard prose writers. The second year is devoted more especially to the study of the German classics.

As this is a living language, a conversational knowledge of it is of the utmost importance. Hence, throughout the course, a part of the daily recitation is devoted to conversation in German, and thus a speaking as well as a reading knowledge of the language is acquired.

V.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

ALBERT G. JEPSON, A. M., PH. D.

Instruction in this department extends through the whole College Course.

Mathematics is an essential agent in the transaction of every form of business, and in the development of every department of science.

The Science of Numbers is the golden thread that runs through and binds together all departments of learning and research, uniting all in one harmonious whole. It reaches with its magic touch every life and every truth.

At the same time that the facts are taught, the utility of mathematical study as a mental discipline is duly recognized.

It generates a habit of independent and accurate thought, an increased power of attention, and an enlarged ability for successful effort.

The Science of Mathematics embodies the very soul of Logic, and is, of all studies, the most disciplinary.

This department of study will receive the attention its importance demands, both as a practical business agent and an educational factor.

No substitute for required Mathematics will be accepted.

VI.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCES.

E. B. WAGGONER, A. M.

The motto of this department is, "We learn to do by doing." It is the aim of the instruction to encourage the habit of observation. The student will be guided in his effort, but he must do the work himself.

During the year instruction will be given in the following branches:—

Zoology.—The text-book will be used only as a reference book. Field work, collection of specimens, and essays on various subjects, will be a prominent feature.

Physics.—" We read Nature in the language of experiments" is the motto. The student is taught to manufacture and use simple apparatus, and every possible means is employed to encourage individual effort. Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, Electricity and Magnetism are taught the second term, and the subject is completed the third term.

Chemistry.—This branch is taught the first term. At least two hours each week are spent in the laboratory under the direction of the instructor.

Mineralogy.—This branch, beginning the second term, will be studied about six weeks, and then will give place to Le Conte's Geology, which will be completed the third term. The Museum is well equipped for the study of the above branches, and special advantages are offered.

Physiology.—This branch is well illustrated by means of skeletons, charts, etc. The application of the subject to the preservation of the health is prominently considered.

Botany.—In addition to the regular study of the subject, the analysis, drawing, and mounting of at least twenty specimens, will be required of each student.

Physical Geography.—This branch is an introduction to the sciences, and, as far as possible, the student is drilled in the elementary principles of the same.

The physical and chemical apparatus is quite extensive, and the museum is one of the most complete in the West.

Friends and patrons of the institution are urged to assist in building up this department by contributing specimens and apparatus.

In view of the expense connected with the use of apparatus, students in Natural Philosophy are charged an additional fee of fifty cents, and in Chemistry of one dollar per term.

VII.

THE SHORTHAND AND TYPE-WRITING DEPARTMENT.

The work in this department has been very successful the past year, and students have already expressed a desire to begin the course as soon as the fall term opens, which will be September 12th. Students taking up the study are earnestly requested to take the full course and acquire a rate of speed of 125 words per minute, before taking a position.

The system taught is Cross's Eclectic, the shortest and most practical in use, on account of its having so few word signs (only 22) and being a natural system. Exactly the same principles are involved in writing this system as in writing longhand; and the letter "a" is made up of five of the eclectic shorthand letters.

For full particulars write to the instructor at Lebanon, Ill. Circulars and first lessons on application.

The full course will include Shorthand and Type-writing, and such other branches taught in the college as are necessary to a full mastery of the art.

Tuition for full course,	-	-	-	-	-	$40.00
Shorthand, alone,	-	-	-	-	-	30.00
Type-writing, alone,	-	-	-	-	-	15.00

VIII.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

For the present, the work of this department is distributed. Effort will be made to give thorough, comprehensive, and practical instruction. Increased interest is shown in the study of our noble language.

The work of this department includes English Grammar, Sentential Analysis, Composition, Rhetoric, American and English Literature; also History and related branches. The English Bible will be studied as a classic.

IX.

POST-GRADUATE DEPARTMENT.

REV. T. H. HERDMAN, D. D., DEAN.

For resident and non-resident students, courses of Post-Graduate work leading to the Master's degree and to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, have been arranged. These courses are seven in number: Political Science, History, Philosophy, Physical Science, Mathematics, Greek, Latin.

One year's work in any one of these, with required thesis, examinations and fees, will entitle the student to the Master's degree corresponding to the degree already received. A second year's work in the same course, or in any other of those above specified, will lead to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

The yearly examination fee is $15; the diploma fee $10. For particulars as to authors, order of studies, time and mode of examinations, etc., address the professor in charge of the department.

X.

THEOLOGICAL CLASS.

REV. T. H. HERDMAN, D. D.

For the accommodation of students having the ministry in view, a Theological Class will be organized. The Bible, Discipline, Catechisms, Ecclesiastical History and Methodist Doctrine, Polity and History will receive attention. Opportunity will be given to acquire a knowledge of the elements of Hebrew.

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

Teachers and those intending to qualify themselves for work in the school room are asked to examine the Normal Course. Those who complete it will be prepared to pass examination not only for County but also for State Certificate.

NORMAL COURSE.

FIRST YEAR.

First Term.—Descriptive Geography, Arithmetic, English Composition, Grammar, Penmanship.

Second Term.—Orthography, Arithmetic, Physical Geography, Grammar.

Third Term.—United States History, Arithmetic, Penmanship, Reading.

SECOND YEAR.

First Term.—Latin or German, Elementary Algebra, Physiology, Ancient History.

Second Term.—Latin or German, Elementary Algebra, Mediæval History.

Third Term.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, Botany, Crayon Work on blackboard.

THIRD YEAR.

First Term.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, University Algebra, Natural Philosophy,

Second Term.—Cicero or German, Constitution and Civil Government, University Algebra, Chemistry.

Third Term.—Virgil, Geometry, School Law, Chemistry.

FOURTH YEAR.

First Term.—Geography reviewed, Geometry, Zoology.

Second Term.—United States History reviewed, Pedagogy, Grammar reviewed, Rhetoric.

Third Term.—Arithmetic reviewed, Astronomy, English Literature, General History reviewed.

Students prepared to pass examination on the more elementary branches may complete this course in three years.

The theory and practice of Teaching will receive careful attention. The last year of the course is given largely to reviews, and special opportunity will be afforded for practical work in teaching.

XII.

M'KENDREE LAW SCHOOL.

REV. W. W. EDWARDS, A. M., LL. D., DEAN.

For a number of years a Law Department has been in successful operation. The prime mover in establishing it and the first instructor employed was the late Hon. Augustus C. French, LL. D., formerly Governor of Illinois. In later years students desirous of pursuing a course of study in the law received instruction from Hon. H. H. Horer, A. M., who has been a successful practitioner in Lebanon for many years. The efficiency of the work of this department is shown by the number of its graduates who have attained prominence in the profession.

In 1889 the present dean was placed in charge of the department and at the last session of the Board of Trustees it was re-organized as the McKendree Law School. The course of study is arranged in compliance with the rules of the Supreme Court of Illinois in regard to licensing attorneys and the diploma, accompanied by an affidavit, showing actual attendance upon the school for two years of thirty-six weeks each, is accepted as evidence of qualification for admission to the bar. The degree of Bachelor of Laws is conferred upon those who complete the prescribed course of study.

Applicants for admission are encouraged to give careful attention to their preparatory studies and should be able to pass an examination in the branches required for admission to the Freshman Class in the Scientific Department of the College, except Latin. While a knowledge of the Latin is desirable for every law student it is not indispensable.

The School as now organized consists of three departments:—

- A. The School at Lebanon.
- B. The Night Law School at East St. Louis.
- C. The Correspondence Department.

By the action of the Board of Trustees, the course of study is made the same in departments "A" and "B" and is as follows:

JUNIOR YEAR.

First Term.—Blackstone's Commentaries, Books I and II.

Cooley's Elements of Constitutional Law.

Second Term.—Blackstone's Commentaries, Books III and IV.

Bigelow on Torts.

Washburn's Criminal Law.

Third Term.—Lawson on Contracts.

Gould's Pleadings.

General review of the year's course by written examinations.

SENIOR YEAR.

First Term.—Kent's Commentaries, Parts I–IV.

Greenleaf on Evidence, Vol. I.

Chitty's Pleadings.

Second Term.—Kent's Commentaries, Parts V–VI.

Tiedemann on Real Property.

Heard's Criminal Pleading.

Third Term.—Bispham's Equity.

Benjamin on Sales.

General review of year's course by written examinations.

Lectures will be delivered on the various branches of the law by special lecturers. A more complete announcement will be made within a few weeks containing the names of those who will aid in this department of work.

In department "A" daily recitations are conducted in which students are carefully examined upon their reading of the text-books and explanatory lectures given. Department "B" is a night school at room 9-10, No. 121 North Third Street, East St. Louis, where students receive substantially the same instruction and advantages as in the other department. This school has been quite successful during the past year in securing the patronage of persons whose employment will not permit them to attend school during the day and who appreciate this opportunity to prepare for the practice of law. The superior facilities afforded by law schools for acquiring a knowledge of the science and practice of law are so generally appreciated that few are content to pursue their studies in the office of the practitioner amid the constant interruptions of business. The school first and then the office is the recognized order. The training of the schools leads the student to a broad and clear conception of the law as a system and imbues him with the principles of ethics as its true foundation. It gives him the habit of attention, teaches him familiar maxims, and arouses him to diligence, as a result of emulation.

A system of Moot Courts is maintained in which students are required to practice and thus become familiar with the procedure in the various courts. Students are also given thorough drill in conveying and in all the work pertaining to the office of the practitioner. While no effort is spared to fit the students for practice upon the completion of the regular course, it has been deemed expedient to afford still further opportunities for practice by those desiring a more complete knowledge of procedure in this state by providing a

POST-GRADUATE YEAR IN PRACTICE.

First Term.—Illinois Practice Act.

Civil Procedure.

Text-book—Moore or Puterbaugh.

Second Term.—Administration of Estates.

Text-books—Illinois Statutes.

Homer's Probate Law.

Criminal Procedure.

Text-books—Illinois Criminal Code.

Moore's Criminal Law.

Third Term.—Chancery Practice.

Text-books—Illinois Chancery Code.

Puterbaugh's Chancery Pleading.

Drill will also be given in proceedings in the Appellate Courts.

DEPARTMENT "C."

As the idea of university extension is more generally understood the demand for correspondence schools increases. There are many who cannot attend any law school who wish to pursue the study at their homes, and it is the purpose of this department to aid them. It is not claimed that advantages are to be secured by this method equal to those given in our other departments, but the student will derive great benefit in having some one constantly directing him in his reading.

A class will be organized in this department September 1, 1893, and every two months thereafter, except that there will be no school during July and August. Classes are formed thus frequently that any student who may be hindered by interruptions and whose work is not satisfactory to himself or dean, may be transferred to the next succeeding class and not lose his standing in the school. All the work is conducted by correspondence. Regular lessons are assigned and the study and examinations carried on in a systematic manner. Hundreds of persons are engaged in similar study and the method is no longer an experiment. A course of study covering a period of two years is prescribed.

JUNIOR YEAR.

Blackstone's Commentaries (Abridged).

Cooley's Constitutional Law.

Bigelow on Torts.

Washburn's Criminal Law.

Contracts.            Pleadings.

SENIOR YEAR.

The subjects studied in this year will include :—

Evidence,
Real Property,
Equity,
Negotiable Instruments,
Sales, Etc.

Upon satisfactory completion of the course the dean is authorized to grant a certificate showing that the holder has pursued the study of law for the period of two years.

It is confidently believed that in these various departments the McKendree Law School offers advantages not surpassed elsewhere.

TUITION.							(per term)
Department "A,"	-	-	-	-	-	-	$10.00
"    "B,"	-	-	-	-	-	-	15.00
"    "C,"	-	-	-	-	-	-	12.00

In Departments "A" and "B" the year is divided into three terms.

In Department "C" there are two terms in the year.

Tuition is payable in advance at the opening of each term.

A neat, illustrated prospectus containing fuller information concerning the school and also a directory of attorneys in the Southern Grand Division of Illinois will be ready for distribution within a few days.

The time required to complete the above course will depend upon the talent and diligence of the pupil. Before receiving a certificate, the pupil must have taken Harmony at least five terms, and be able to pass a satisfactory examination.

He will also be expected to answer questions in Musical History and Biography.

Special arrangements will be made with all those who desire an elective course.

ART DEPARTMENT.

MISS ABBIE E. LUPTON, INSTRUCTOR.

This young artist has a growing reputation. Her skill gives promise of success to her students. She will give instruction in Oils, Water Colors, Monochromatics, etc. Facilities will also be afforded for Photography and India Ink Portrait Drawings.

ELOCUTION AND ORATORY.

Ability to express well one's own thought as well as that of others cannot be too highly esteemed, nor too carefully sought. Elocution is rapidly gaining that position in the college curriculum which it justly merits. The aim of instruction in this department is to acquaint the student with the underlying principles of vocal and gestural expression, and to develop in him a natural and effective style of speaking without destroying his individuality or rendering him mechanical. No one should fail to give at least some time and attention to this important branch of academic culture.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Candidates for admission to the Preparatory Department, or to the Business Course, must undergo examination in the common branches to the extent required by the Faculty, and must attain a satisfactory grade in such studies.

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class must be fourteen years of age, and will be examined in the studies of the Preparatory Course leading to the department they wish to enter.

Candidates for admission to other College classes will be examined in the studies which have been pursued by the class which they propose to enter, or in others equivalent to them. In all cases, satisfactory testimonials of good character must be presented, and when one has been a member of another College, a certificate of regular dismission will be required. Enrollment in any class or department will be considered as a pledge to observe all the Rules and Regulations of the College.

All bills must be paid in advance.

Board can be procured in private families at from $3.00 to $3.50 per week. Students wishing to board themselves can secure rooms at a nominal rent, and with reasonable economy may reduce the cost of living to from $1.25 to $1.50 per week.

Boarding clubs may be formed, in which the cost of board may be greatly reduced from the ordinary cost in private families.

The Faculty will be glad to assist in securing rooms for self-boarders, or in arranging to accommodate clubs.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

Daily records are kept of the merit and demerit of each student, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his recitations and other College exercises; the latter, the delinquencies and deficiencies of each in his respective duties. The President will furnish an exhibit of these records, in any particular case, when requested by the student or his friends; and in all cases where private admonition has been given without effect, a statement of demerit will be forwarded to the friends of such delinquent student. (This will be the last step of discipline preceding the final one of suspension or dismissal.) Idleness, dissipation or insubordination will not be tolerated.

FUNDS.

By a resolution of the Board of Trustees, the parent or guardian of each minor is expected to name some person in Lebanon as the guardian, or patron, of his son or ward while in College, with whom his funds shall be deposited, and to whom he shall be accountable for their proper use. All persons are forbidden to trust a minor without the consent of parent or guardian, and are hereby notified that if they do so, it is at their own risk.

EXAMINATIONS.

Two days at the close of each term will be devoted to examination on the studies pursued during the term. No student will be advanced unless he pass a satisfactory examination. The members of the examining committee are solicited to be present at all examinations.

GOVERNMENT.

The discipline of the Institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. An effort will be made to awaken and develop the mental and moral faculties, and thus to secure the true element of progress through life. Transgression of rules and negligence in study may be borne with for a season when signs of amendment are perceived, but no student will be permitted to remain while acting in open disregard of these rules. The daily record of merit and demerit is permanently entered upon the College Record. Five demerits during one term render a student subject to private reproof, ten to severe reprimand, and twenty to suspension or dismissal.

REQUIREMENTS.

Regular and punctual attendance at the morning services in the chapel, at recitations and at church; the strict observance of the hours prescribed for study; the faithful performance of the exercises, studies and duties assigned by the Faculty; a prompt account of the reason for any neglect of duty, tardiness, or absence; the subordination of all other exercises and studies to those required by the Faculty.

Students are required to observe the Sabbath in a manner in keeping with the sacredness of the day, and at all times to abstain from drinking intoxicating beverages, or frequenting or visiting places where intoxicants are sold and drunk, as well as all places of questionable amusements, and to refrain from all unbecoming conduct.

McKendree extends the privileges of the College to all persons of either sex who are qualified for admission. It cannot however be the patron of idleness or dissipation. It has no room except for those who assiduously pursue their allotted studies, and are willing to be governed in their conduct by the rules of propriety. Students should be in their places at the opening of the term, as the work of organization is hindered by delay.

The time appropriated to vacation is believed to be ample for the purpose of relaxation from study; and in view of the unfavorable effect of all absences, either at the commencement or at any other period of the term upon the standing and proficiency of the student, the Faculty earnestly request that parents and guardians will in no way encourage, or even sanction, such absence without very urgent reasons.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING.

It is aimed to make the religious influence of the College all that parents could desire for their children. The relations of science and religion are made the subject of frequent discussion in the class-room. Science is taught as the product of the Divine mind, and through the truths of science students are led to reverence God as the author of all truth and the center of all force. A prayer-meeting is held each Tuesday evening, which all the students are urged to attend. These meetings are a power for good among the students, prompting to renewed consecration and earnest Christian living.

LIBRARIES.

The Libraries of the College and Literary Societies contain about 7,500 volumes. The College Library is accessible to all students according to rules established by the Joint Board. The Libraries belonging to the Literary Societies are accessible to the members of the societies according to the rules established by themselves. The recent gift of a number of volumes to the College Library, and many fine specimens to the Museum, through the liberality of Rev. F. O. Blair, of Trinidad, Col., has done much toward raising our expectations that other friends of McKendree will help toward the increase of our facilities.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Three excellent literary societies—the Philosophian and Platonian for gentlemen, and the Clonian for ladies—hold weekly meetings for literary work, and have been of great service to such of the students as have availed themselves of the opportunities and advantages which they offer. In the practice of extempore speech and parliamentary usage they afford superior advantages. Active membership is restricted to such persons as are enrolled in some department of college work. These societies are governed by rules made by the action of the Trustees, the Faculty and the Societies themselves.

Every student is advised to seek membership in one of these Societies.

DEGREES CONFERRED.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts will be conferred on those who shall have, in a satisfactory manner, completed the Classical Course.

The degree of Bachelor of Science will be conferred on all those who shall have, in like manner, completed the Scientific Course.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who have completed, in a satisfactory manner, the course of study prescribed for that department. Graduation fees must be paid in advance of the final examination.

The degree of Master of Art, or Master of Science, will be conferred on any Bachelor of three years' standing, who, during the interval, has sustained a good moral character, and has engaged in some literary, professional or scientific pursuit. Graduates of longer standing may receive the Masters' degree on the same terms. In all cases application must be made to the President of the College at least three months in advance of the Commencement, with statement of present occupation and nature of work done since graduation; application to be accompanied with a Diploma Fee of $5.00.

The Diploma Fees for all Degrees in cursu shall hereafter be fixed at $5.00.

Diploma Fees for Honorary Degrees will remain as heretofore at $10.00.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President at least sixty days before Commencement, and must be indorsed by at least three persons holding the Degree sought, or a higher one.

STUDY HALL.

The Study Hall, in which each student has his own desk, affords facilities for the improvement of hours not spent in the recitation room. The advantages of this arrangement, especially as regards the younger students, are apparent.

The Hall is provided with Dictionaries, Cyclopedias, and other books of reference, to which the student may have access at any time. By such means we hope to greatly assist our students in forming habits of close application and strict attention to duty.

HISTORY.

McKENDREE COLLEGE was founded as an institution of learning February 20, 1828. It was established in consequence of the action of the Illinois Conference at its session at Mt. Carmel, September, 1827. Mr. E. R. Ames, afterwards a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church was placed at its head. The population of St. Clair County at that time did not exceed 5,000, and that of the State of Illinois was not more than 140,000. In 1830, Bishop McKendree donated to the college a valuable section of land, and the institution was named in honor of him. It received its charter from the State in 1834. The late venerable Peter Akers, D. D., was shortly afterward chosen President. At the solicitation of the Board of Trustees, the Legislature of the State granted a new charter January 26, 1839, investing the institution with the powers of a University. It has the active patronage of the Southern Illinois Conference, and some degree of support from the St. Louis Conference. Its Roll of Alumni bears the names of nearly five hundred persons, many of whom are in high offices of trust both in church and state.

LOCATION.

Lebanon, Ill., the seat of the College, is a quiet village on the Ohio and Mississippi railroad, twenty-four miles east of St. Louis. It is easy of access, and comparatively free from incentive to vice usual to larger cities. The community is remarkable for its intelligence and sobriety, and for its high social character, so that the social and moral requirements of the students while in college are fully met. For this reason as well as on account of the educational advantages afforded by the school, the attention of parents is invited to McKendree College as a most desirable place for the education of their sons and daughters.

The location of the College is very fine, the site affording a wide view of a beautiful range of country. The campus in its natural features is rarely equalled.

ALUMNI RECORD.

As a grand reunion is in prospect for 1894, and as we contemplate issuing a Record of the Alumni and History of McKendree College, we ask for correspondence with alumni, former students and professors, and for sketches of the deceased. These should give information as to the occupations, relations in life, professional attainment and political preferment of their subjects.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

The studies in the preceding Courses are distributed among the following Professorships:—

I.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

McKENDREE HYPES CHAMBERLIN, A. M., LL.B.

This department includes Psychology, Logic, Moral Philosophy and Evidences of Christianity; also Constitutional and International Law, and Political Economy. The thorough examination of approved text-books, accompanied with oral lectures, comprises the instruction proposed. Free discussion on the part of the students is encouraged, and essays on the leading topics are required. Access to the standard authorities in the College Library is afforded to all the classes.

II.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

WILLIAM C. WALTON, M. A.

The studies in this department aim, first, at affording the student a means for the discipline and development of his faculties, which shall serve as a basis for subsequent special studies; and, secondly, at making him master of the principles and structure of the language, as well as familiar with the standard authors and the literature of the various periods.

In the earlier part of the course Etymology and Syntax receive special attention—stress being laid on written exercises, from English to Greek; as the student advances, the Mythology, History and Antiquities are progressively introduced, and written translations from Greek into English receive due attention. Essays are also required on the authors and their different characteristics.

The course embraces three terms of Poetry, four of History, two of Philosophy, and one each of Tragedy, Oratory, and Greek Testament.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

EDWIN P. BAKER, A. B.

This department aims to familiarize the student with the forms, structure and idioms of the Latin Language; with the laws of the different forms of poetical and prose compositions; with the style and characteristics of the best Roman authors; with the historical periods to which the several writers read belong; and with Roman life and civilization as illustrated thereby.

In addition to the daily drill and analysis of words and sentences, written translations are required from English into Latin and from Latin into English; and attention is continually called to the words in our language derived from the Latin; and to the influence and imitation of Roman authors to be traced in our own literature.

One year's study of Latin Composition is required, beginning with the Senior Academic year.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

EDWIN P. BAKER, A. B.

A knowledge of the German language and literature is an essential factor of a liberal education. A three years' course in this language is pursued by candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science, and a more extended course is offered to those desiring to continue their studies along this line.

The aim of this department is to give the student a practical knowledge of this, the most cultivated of modern tongues.

The first year is occupied with the study of the structure of the language, accompanied by thorough drill in composition and in translation of selections from standard prose writers. The second and third years are devoted more especially to the study of the German classics.

As this is a living language, a conversational knowledge of it is of the utmost importance. Hence, throughout the course, a part of the daily recitation is devoted to conversation in German, and thus a speaking as well as a reading knowledge of the language is acquired.

V.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

ALBERT G. JEPSON, A. M., PH. D.

Mathematics is at the base of every system of education. Upon no other branch of science are the practical demands so frequent, or so important.

It is an essential agent in the transaction of every form of business, and in the development of every other science. It is the most perfect application of logic known, and as a disciplinary study has no equal, in cultivating the ability for accurate and independent thought, and for original investigation in the search after new truths.

No substitute will be accepted for required mathematics.

VI.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCES.

EDWARD B. WAGGONER, A. M.

"We learn to do by doing," is the motto of this department. The aim of the instruction is to encourage the habit of observation. The student will be guided in his effort but he must do the work himself. During the year instruction will be given in the following branches;—

Zoology.—The text-book is used only for reference. Field work, the collection and dissection of specimens, and essays on various subjects will be prominent features.

Physics.—"We read Nature in the language of experiment," is the motto. Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, Electricity and Magnetism are studied the second term and the subject is completed the third. Special stress is placed upon the manufacture and use of simple and inexpensive apparatus.

Chemistry.—This branch is taught according to modern methods. Most of the work is done in the laboratory under the direction of the instructor.

Mineralogy.—The terminology of the science is first studied, then twenty-five minerals are determined by blowpipe analysis, after which the student is taught to recognize at sight all the common forms of rocks and minerals.

Geology.—The truth, that the world was made for man, that it was from the first designed to be the habitation of the human race, is kept prominently in view.

The museum is well equipped for the study of the last two branches, and the configuration of the country about Lebanon is also helpful.

Physiology.—This branch is well illustrated by charts, skeleton, etc. Narcotics and Hygiene receive careful attention.

Botany.—The description, drawing and mounting of at least twenty specimens is required, as is also a thesis upon some subject of original research.

Special attention is called to the æsthetic nature of the science.

Physical Geography.—This subject is taught as an introduction to the sciences.

Recognizing the advantage of having the museum, laboratory and science room under one roof, Study Hall has been arranged for the science department.

Friends and patrons of the school are urged to contribute for the equipment of the new museum and physical and chemical laboratory.

In view of the expenses connected with the use of apparatus an additional fee of $1.00 is charged in Physics and Chemistry.

VII.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

E. B. WAGGONER, PRINCIPAL.

At present a knowledge of the rules and regulations of business life is indispensable, and to meet this demand the following course has been provided.

First Term.—Grammar, Arithmetic, Book-keeping, Penmanship.

Second Term.—Grammar, Business Correspondence and Forms, Book-keeping, Penmanship.

Third Term.—Commercial Law, Actual Business, Penmanship, and Crayon Work on blackboard.

It is the desire of the Principal to make the certificates of value by making the work thorough. Only those topics in arithmetic will be taught that have direct reference to the department, as, for instance, rapid additions, discount, interest, etc. No extra charge for instruction in this department. Certificates will be granted to all those who complete the course and pass a satisfactory examination.

For further particulars, address the Principal.

VIII.

STENOGRAPHY AND TYPEWRITING.

W. L. CUNNINGHAM, INSTRUCTOR.

Good stenographers are in demand. The art of "Shorthand" is a labor saving system of writing. Every business man with a large correspondence must have a stenographer. Every professional man finds numberless times when a knowledge of stenography would be of almost invaluable service.

The instruction in this department aims to fit the student for all kinds of shorthand reporting. The system taught is Crosse's Eclectic, the shortest and most practical in use, there being so few word-signs (only twenty-two). The same principles are involved as in writing "long-hand."

We use the Remington Standard Typewriter.

The full course includes Stenography and Typewriting, and such other branches taught in the College as are necessary to a full mastery of the art.

TERMS.

Tuition for full course . . . . .	$10 00
Stenography alone . . . . .	30 00
Typewriting alone . . . . .	15 00

Write for circular and first lesson.

IX.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

For the present, the work of this department is distributed. Effort will be made to give thorough, comprehensive, and practical instruction.

The work of this department includes English Grammar, Sentential Analysis, Composition, Rhetoric, American and English Literature; also History and related branches. The English Bible will be studied as a classic.

X.

POST-GRADUATE DEPARTMENT.

REV. T. H. HERDMAN, D. D., DEAN.

For resident and non-resident students, the Board of McKendree College has authorized the announcement of nine courses of post-graduate work—one of them conditionally—leading to the Master's degree and to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. These courses are—Political Science, History, Philosophy, Physical Science, Mathematics, Greek, Latin, English Literature, and one designated Eclectic. This last has Philosophy for major study throughout, and History, Political Science and English Literature as minors. English Literature is the course conditionally established.

One year's work in any one of these with required thesis, satisfactory examination and payment of prescribed fee, will entitle the student to the Master's degree corresponding to the degree already received. A second year's work in the same course, or in any other of those specified will lead to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The only exception to this is in connection with the Eclectic Course, which, if undertaken, must be completed.

The Board recommends every Bachelor to pursue post-graduate studies to the extent of at least one year's work. After 1898, no Master's degree, in course, will be conferred, except upon examination in post-graduate studies.

The student may enter upon work at any time during the year, but a candidate for a degree at the next commencement must have all specified work completed by May 20. The yearly examination fee is $15, payable in installments. The diploma fee is $10.00. For further information as to authors, order of studies, amount of work, time and mode of examination, etc., address the Dean of Post-Graduate Department.

XI.

THEOLOGICAL CLASS.

REV. T. H. HERDMAN, D. D.

For the accommodation of students having the ministry in view, a Theological class will be organized. The Bible, Discipline, Catechism, Homiletics, Ecclesiastical History and Methodist Doctrine, Polity and History will receive attention. Studies required of Local Preachers in their gradation, and of candidates for admissions to the annual conference, will pass in review. Opportunity will be given on special conditions, for one year's work in Hebrew.

XII.

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

Teachers and those intending to qualify themselves for work in the school room are asked to examine the Normal Course. Those who complete it will be prepared to pass examination not only for County but also for State Certificate.

NORMAL COURSE.

FIRST YEAR.

First Term.—Descriptive Geography, Arithmetic, English Composition, Grammar, Penmanship.

Second Term.—Orthography, Arithmetic, Physical Geography, Grammar.

Third Term.—United States History, Arithmetic, Penmanship, Reading.

SECOND YEAR.

First Term.—Latin or German, Elementary Algebra, Physiology, Ancient History.

Second Term.—Latin or German, Elementary Algebra, Mediaeval History.

Third Term.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, Botany, Crayon Work on blackboard.

THIRD YEAR.

First Term.—Cæsar or German, Modern History, University Algebra, Natural Philosophy.

Second Term.—Cicero or German, Constitution and Civil Government, University Algebra, Chemistry.

Third Term.—Virgil, or German Geometry, School Law, Chemistry.

FOURTH YEAR.

First Term.—Geography reviewed, Geometry, Zoology.

Second Term.—United States History reviewed, Pedagogy, Grammar reviewed, Rhetoric.

Third Term.—Arithmetic reviewed, Astronomy, English Literature, General History reviewed.

Students prepared to pass examination on the more elementary branches may complete this course in three years.

The theory and practice of Teaching will receive careful attention. The last year of the course is given largely to reviews, and special opportunity will be afforded for practical work in teaching.

XIII.

MCKENDREE LAW SCHOOL.

FACULTY.

MCKENDREE HYPES CHAMBERLIN, A. M., LL.B.,

President.

WILLIAM W. EDWARDS, A. M., LL.B.,

Dean and Lecturer on Elementary Law and Equity.

WILLIAM H. KROME, A. M.,

Lecturer on Domestic Relations and Common Law Pleading and Practice.

H. CLAY HORNER, ESQ.,

Lecturer on Descent and Wills.

W. F. L. HADLEY, A. M.,

Lecturer on Real Property.

WILLIAM P. BRADSHAW, M. S.,

Lecturer on Criminal Law.

W. J. N. MOYERS, ESQ.,

Lecturer on Corporations.

ROBERT J. BROWN, LL.B.,

Lecturer on Contracts.

WALTER F. MACGINNITIE, LL.B.,

Lecturer on Torts and Negligence.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

HON. B. H. CANBY, East St. Louis.

HON. R. D. W. HOLDER, Belleville.

HON. J. J. BROWN, Vandalia.

The Law School has for years been an important department of the college. From its organization under the direction of Hon. Augustus C. French, LL.D., its graduates have proven the excellence of the training of the school by their qualifications for efficient practice in the courts. The old method of studying by private reading and an apprenticeship in a lawyer's office, has almost disappeared before the demand for the more thorough discipline of the school. The views of the profession upon the subject have been expressed by the American Bar Association, which declares that "the verdict of the best informed is in favor of the law schools. They afford the student an acquaintance with general principles difficult, if not impossible, to be otherwise obtained. They give him the valuable habit of attention, teach him familiar maxims and offer him the priceless opportunities which result from contact and generous emulation. Disputing, reasoning, reading and discussing, become his constant exercises."

Only those who are thoroughly grounded in the fundamental principles of law can hope for any marked degree of success at the bar. It is a knowledge of these principles and the reason of the law that the school aims to impart.

ADMISSION AND MODES OF INSTRUCTION.

While no examination for admission is required, it must be borne in mind that no one should undertake professional studies without considerable previous preparation.

A good common school education is an indispensable requisite and whenever practicable the applicant should have taken a full collegiate course. The students are required to carefully read and study the text-books included in the course, and daily recitations upon lessons previously assigned are conducted to test the pupil's knowledge and explain the various topics as may be necessary to their being properly understood.

The dean devotes his entire time to the work of teaching, and besides the methods of instruction already mentioned, will lecture to the classes with blackboard outlines of the subjects discussed.

The students are required to prepare analyses of the books read, and written examinations are frequent.

SPECIAL LECTURES.

Arrangements have been perfected by which the students will have the benefit of special lectures each week by a number of prominent attorneys. These gentlemen are all in active practice of the law and bring to the lecture room the fruits of their experience in the office and the courts, placing before the classes the most recent views and interpretations of the law.

MOOT COURTS.

It is intended that a complete system of moot courts shall be maintained in which students are required to practice and thus fit them to act upon given cases and to know what to do. Included in this practice are not only pleadings but also issuing various writs, returns thereon, entries in court records, etc. Instruction is also given in conveyancing and all work pertaining to the office of the practitioner.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Junior Year.

Blackstone's Commentaries, Elements of Constitutional Law (Cooley), Real Property (Tiedemann), Contracts (Lawson or Bishop), Torts (Pollock, Cooley or Bigelow), Bills and Notes (Bigelow), Common Law Pleadings (Gould), Domestic Relations (Schouler).

Senior Year.

Kent's Commentaries, Evidence (Greenleaf, Vol. 1), Common Law Pleadings (Chitty, Vol. 1), Equity (Bispham), Equity Pleadings (Story), Agency (Meacham), Bailments (Schouler), Corporations.

POST-GRADUATE COURSE.

While no effort is spared to fit the students for practice upon the completion of the regular course, an opportunity is given by an additional year's study to become thoroughly familiar with the practice in this State. During this course students will read the Statutes of Illinois, and practitioners' works on Civil and Criminal Practice, Administration of Estates, etc.

NIGHT SCHOOL AT EAST ST. LOUIS.

Some two years ago a night school was opened at 121 North Third street, East St. Louis, and has met with favor among persons whose employment will not permit them to attend school during the day. The sessions are held in the evening between the hours of seven and ten o'clock and the students receive substantially the same instruction and advantages as those in attendance at the college, so far as the work of the dean is concerned. The same text-books are studied and like methods of instruction employed. It is expected that arrangements may also be made for a course of special lectures in this department.

THE CORRESPONDENCE DEPARTMENT.

There are many who cannot attend any law school, and yet wish to pursue the study at their homes. It is the purpose of this department to aid them. It is not claimed that this can fully take the place of actual attendance upon school, but the student will derive benefit in having some one constantly directing him in his reading. Correspondence schools are no longer experiments; many are successfully pursuing studies by this method. Regular lessons are assigned and the study and examinations conducted systematically.

A regular class will be organized Sept. 1, 1894, and every two months thereafter so that students who are hindered by interruptions may be transferred to the next succeeding class and continue the work regularly. A course of study embracing the same topics as included in the regular course is pursued, and upon its completion an appropriate certificate is granted by the dean. Complete information will be furnished on application.

SCHOLARSHIP PRIZES.

As an incentive to diligence there is offered to the student making the highest grades in the Junior course, a scholarship covering one-half the cost of tuition for the Senior year; and to the student making the highest grades in the Senior Course a scholarship covering the cost of tuition for the year of post-graduate study.

This offer applies to each department of the law school, and the cash value of the prizes is from $12.50 to $22.50.

GRADUATION.

The degree of LL.B. is conferred upon those who have been in actual attendance upon the school for two years of thirty-six weeks each and who have passed a satisfactory examination in the prescribed course of study.

The diploma secures admission to the bar in this State.

Persons who have attended other law schools or who have been admitted to the bar on examination, may upon the presentation of proper certificates be admitted to advanced standing.

No degree is conferred upon the Correspondence Course.

TUITION.

The charges for tuition in the Undergraduate Course will be $45 per year, payable in three installments of $15 each, at the opening of each term.

Tuition for the Post-Graduate Course, one-half of the regular tuition.

Tuition in the Correspondence Department, $25 per year of ten months payable half-yearly in advance.

All correspondence in reference to the law school should be addressed to the dean.

XIV.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

FRED PESOLD.

A complete course has been laid out for those who desire a systematic training in the art of Piano-forte playing. Only the best authorized methods will be employed, and great pains will be taken in the technical and artistic development of the pupil.

Those entering the regular course, having reached a certain degree of excellence, will be required to perform at public rehearsals and concerts and various entertainments at the college.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR PIANO.

First Grade.—New England Conservatory Method, Part First; A. D. Turner's Scales, Arpeggios, etc.

Second Grade.—New England Conservatory Method, Part Second; A. D. Turner's Scales, Arpeggios; Selections from the works of Koehler, op. 50, Heller op. 47. Schumann, Kuhlau's Sonatinas, Gurlitt; and from Clementi's Sonatinas, op. 36; playing at sight; pieces for four hands.

Third Grade.—New England Conservatory Method, Part Three; A. D. Turner's Scales, Arpeggios, etc.; Turner's Octave Studies; Selections from the works of Krause op. 2, Loeschorn op. 65, Hasert op. 50, Heller op. 46, Berens op. 61, Bach's Little Preludes and Fugues; Cramer, Bk. 1; Selections from Mendelssohn's Songs Without Words; Pieces, Duets, and playing at sight.

Fourth Grade.—New England Conservatory Method, Book Three: Turner's Scales, Arpeggios; Cramer's Studies, Bks. two and three, Schmidt op. 16; Bach's Two-Part Inventions; Selections from Clementi's Gradus ad Parnassum; Bach's Three-Part Inventions; Neupert's Octave Studies; Selections from Mozart, Hadyn and Beethoven's Sonatas; Pieces, Duets, playing at sight.

Fifth Grade.—Book Four, New England Conservatory Method; Scales, Arpeggios, etc., continued; Tansig's Daily Studies; Kullak's Octave Studies; Selections from Bach's well-tempered Clavichord; Mendelssohn's Preludes and Studies; Chopin's Preludes and Studies; Selections from Schumann's op. 15 and op. 2, Beethoven's Sonatas; Selections from Chopin's Nocturnes, Waltzes; Pieces, Duets, playing at sight.

Sixth Grade.—Continuation of Scales, Arpeggios, etc.; Koehler op. 120; Chopin op. 10 and 15; Bach's French and English Suites, with selections from the well-tempered Clavichord; Selected Studies from Moscheles op. 95, and Bendel op. 27; Henselt op. 2 and op. 5; Concertos from Mendelssohn, Beethoven and others, with the more difficult Sonatas; Duets; playing at sight.

The time required to complete the above course will depend upon the talent and diligence of the pupil. Before receiving a certificate, the pupil must have taken Harmony at least five terms, and be able to pass a satisfactory examination in Musical History and Biography.

Special arrangements will be made with all those who desire an elective course.

XV.

ART DEPARTMENT.

MISS ABBIE E. LUPTON, INSTRUCTOR.

This young artist has a growing reputation. Her skill gives promise of success to her students. She will give instruction in Oils, Water Colors, Monochromatics, etc. Facilities will also be afforded for Photography and India Ink Portrait Drawings.

XVI.

ELOCUTION AND ORATORY.

Ability to express well one's own thought, as well as that of others, cannot be too highly esteemed, nor too carefully sought. Elocution is rapidly gaining that position in the college curriculum which it justly merits. The aim of instruction in this department is to acquaint the student with the underlying principles of vocal and gestural expression, and to develop in him a natural and effective style of speaking without destroying his individuality or rendering him mechanical. No one should fail to give some time and attention to this important branch of academic culture.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Candidates for admission to the Preparatory Department, or to the Business Course, must undergo examination in the common branches to the extent required by the Faculty, and must attain a satisfactory grade in such studies.

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class must be fourteen years of age, and will be examined in the studies of the Preparatory Course leading to the department they wish to enter.

Candidates for admission to other College classes will be examined in the studies which have been pursued by the class which they propose to enter, or in others equivalent to them. In all cases, satisfactory testimonials of good character must be presented, and when one has been a member of another College, a certificate of regular dismissal will be required. Enrollment in any class or department will be considered as a pledge to observe all the Rules and Regulations of the College.

EXPENSES.

Term fee . . . . .	$10 00
For music (extra) . . . . .	12 00
Library fee . . . . .	1 00
Elocution (extra) . . . . .
Art Department (extra) . . . . .	12 00

All bills must be paid in advance.

Board can be procured in private families at from $3.00 to $3.50 per week. Students wishing to board themselves can secure rooms at a nominal rent, and with reasonable economy may reduce the cost of living to from $1.25 to $1.50 per week.

Boarding clubs may be formed, in which the cost of board may be greatly reduced from the ordinary cost in private families.

The Faculty will be glad to assist in securing rooms for self-boarders, or in arranging to accommodate clubs.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

Daily records are kept of the merit and demerit of each student, the former denoting the excellences of each in his recitations and other College exercises; the latter, the delinquencies and deficiencies of each in his respective duties. The President will furnish an exhibit of these records, in any particular case, when requested by the student or his friends; and in all cases where private admonition has been given without effect, a statement of demerit will be forwarded to the friends of such delinquent student. (This will be the last step of discipline preceding the final one of suspension or dismissal.) Idleness, dissipation or insubordination will not be tolerated.

FUNDS.

By a resolution of the Board of Trustees, the parent or guardian of each minor is expected to name some person in Lebanon as the guardian, or patron, of his son or ward while in College, with whom his funds shall be deposited, and to whom he shall be accountable for their proper use. All persons are forbidden to trust a minor without the consent of parent or guardian, and are hereby notified that if they do so, it is at their own risk.

EXAMINATIONS.

Two days at the close of each term will be devoted to examination on the studies pursued during the term. No student will be advanced unless he pass a satisfactory examination. The members of the examining committee are solicited to be present at all examinations.

GOVERNMENT.

The discipline of the institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. An effort will be made to awaken and develop the mental and moral faculties, and thus to secure the true element of progress through life. Transgression of rules and negligence in study may be borne with for a season when signs of amendment are perceived, but no student will be permitted to remain while acting in open disregard of these rules. The daily record of merit and demerit is permanently entered upon the College Record. Five demerits during one term render a student subject to private reproof, ten to severe reprimand, and twenty to suspension or dismissal.

REQUIREMENTS.

Regular and punctual attendance at the morning services in the chapel, at recitations and at church; the strict observance of hours prescribed for study; the faithful performance of the exercises, studies and duties assigned by the Faculty; a prompt account of the reason for any neglect of duty, tardiness or absence; the subordination of all other exercises and studies to those required by the Faculty.

Students are required to observe the Sabbath in a manner in keeping with the sacredness of the day, and at all times to abstain from drinking intoxicating beverages, or frequenting or visiting places where intoxicants are sold and drunk, as well as all places of questionable amusements, and to refrain from all unbecoming conduct.

McKendree extends the privileges of the College to all persons of either sex who are qualified for admission. It cannot, however, be the patron of idleness or dissipation. It has no room except for those who assiduously pursue their allotted studies, and are willing to be governed in their conduct by the rules of propriety. Students should be in their places at the opening of the term, as the work of organization is hindered by delay.

The time appropriated to vacation, is believed to be ample for the purpose of relaxation from study; and in view of the unfavorable effect of all absences, either at the commencement or at any other period of the term upon the standing and proficiency of the student, the Faculty earnestly request that parents and guardians will in no way encourage, or even sanction, such absence without very urgent reasons.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING.

It is aimed to make the religious influence of the College all that parents could desire for their children. The relations of science and religion are made the subject of frequent discussion in the class-room. Science is taught as the product of the Divine mind, and through the truths of science students are led to reverence God as the author of all truth and the center of all force. A prayer meeting is held each Tuesday evening, which all the students are urged to attend. These meetings are a power for good among the students, prompting to renewed consecration and earnest Christian living.

LIBRARIES.

The Libraries of the College and Literary Societies contain about 7,500 volumes. The College Library is accessible to all students according to rules established by the Joint Board. The Libraries belonging to the Literary Societies are accessible to the members of the societies according to the rules established by themselves. The recent gift of a number of volumes, the College Library, and many fine specimens to the Museum, through the liberality of Rev. F. O. Blair, of Trinidad, Col., has done much toward raising our expectations that other friends of McKendree will help toward the increase of our facilities.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Three excellent literary societies — the Philosophian and Platonian for gentlemen, and the Clonian for ladies — hold weekly meetings for literary work, and have been of great service to such of the students as have availed themselves of the opportunities and advantages which they offer. In the practice of extempore speech and parliamentary usage they afford superior advantages. Active membership is restricted to such persons as are enrolled in some department of college work. These societies are governed by rules made by the action of the Trustees, the Faculty and the Societies themselves.

Every student is advised to seek membership in one of these Societies.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Literature will be conferred on any who may have completed in a satisfactory manner the prescribed Course of Study leading to such degree.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who may satisfactorily complete the Course of Study prescribed for the Law

Department, and this degree will admit the holder to the Bar of the State without further examination.

By recent action of the Board of Trustees, students to secure graduation must needs be present in their classes at least two-thirds of the last two years of their course.

After 1898 the Master's Degree will be conferred only upon the completion of a course of post-graduate study to be hereafter prescribed.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President at least sixty days before the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, and must be indorsed by at least three persons holding either the degree sought or one of more honorable rank.

All diploma fees for degrees in course are fixed at $5.00 and for Honorary Degrees at $10.00.

Any graduate of McKendree pursuing Post-Graduate Studies, and taking the Master's Degree on the same within three years of graduation, will be charged a Diploma Fee of $5.00. All other Post-Graduate Diploma Fees are fixed at $10.00.

HISTORY.

By action of the Illinois conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Lebanon Seminary was established in 1828, and E. R. Ames, afterward Bishop of the church, was placed at its head.

Six years later, in 1834, it secured from the Legislature its first charter as a College of Liberal Arts. In 1839 its charter was revised, changing its name from McKendrian College to McKendree College. By this revised charter it received full University powers.

The College has had an honorable history and reckons among its alumni the names of many distinguished men, who have adorned every walk and profession in life.

LOCATION.

Lebanon, Ill., the seat of the College, is a quiet village on the Baltimore and Ohio South Western railroad, twenty-four miles east of St. Louis. It is easy of access, and comparatively free from incentives to vice so common to larger cities. The community is remarkable for its intelligence and sobriety, and for its high social character, so that the social and moral requirements of the students while in college are fully met. For this reason as well as on account of the educational advantages afforded by the school, the attention of parents is invited to McKendree College as a most desirable place for the education of their children.

The location of the College is very fine, the site affording a wide view of a beautiful range of country. The campus in its natural features is rarely equaled.

ALUMNI RECORD.

We print this year in connection with our Year Book an Alumni Record.

It is our desire to make this record in the future more complete than it now is. To this end we invite correspondence from our Alumni, giving their present address, and all facts of general interest concerning themselves.

Does any one see any errors or omissions in the present issue we will esteem it a favor to be informed of them. Such communications may be addressed either to the President of the College or to Prof. E. B. Waggoner, Alumni Historian.

HISTORICAL.

McKendree College, first organized in 1828, as "Lebanon Seminary," is the oldest institution of learning in the west, dedicated to higher education. Indeed, there is but one other in the United States,—“Dickinson College”—connected with the University Senate, the origin of which, under like auspices, antedates McKendree.

The pioneer settlers interested in this early educational movement were among the most progressive citizens from the older states, as is attested by the course of study prescribed, in the original articles of organization, which, after naming the ordinary branches taught at that time in Seminaries, also provided for the philosophies, the higher mathematics, and “Greek and Latin”

The broad and thorough spirit of this educational movement early attracted the attention of Bishop McKendree—the first American Bishop of his church—and in 1830, by a resolution of the Board of Managers of “Lebanon Seminary,” the name of the institution was changed to McKendree College.

Taking the institution under his fostering care, his Illinois landed possessions were disposed of in the interest of McKendree College by a committee composed of the Board of Bishops, of the then undivided Methodist Episcopal Church—Roberts, Hedding, Andrews, Waugh, Morris and Soule—appointed by the patron Bishop, as trustees in the premises.

The original subscription to the fund for founding “Lebanon Seminary” is still preserved and shows an aggregate of $1,385.

The first Principal employed was “Mr. E. R. Ames,” subsequently the great diplomatic Bishop of the church, “at $25 per month.”

In 1834, the institution was chartered by the Illinois Legislature as the “McKendrian College,” which being a slight error as to name, was corrected by act of the Legislature, in 1839, to McKendree College.

The charter is one conferring the largest University privileges and was drawn and pushed through the Legislature by no less a person than Abraham Lincoln. The first President of the College was Rev. Peter Akers, D. D., one of the most distinguished men of his time in ecclesiastical circles.

More than 8,000 students have been educated at McKendree, nearly 700 of which number have taken degrees.

The heavy debt, which has so long hampered the prosperity of this institution, has recently been removed, to the great encouragement of its friends throughout the west, and plans are now being matured to raise the necessary means for its ample endowment, and to establish it with the full University privileges contemplated in its unusually liberal charter.

LOCATION.

Lebanon, Illinois, the seat of McKendree College is one of the most healthful and handsome little inland cities in the west.

It is situated on the Baltimore, Ohio & Southwestern Railway, 24 miles from the city of St. Louis. The location is a high rolling table land, beautifully shaded, and its elevation is such that its approach from all quarters is in the truest sense picturesque in character.

On the east and west are two live creeks, which unite south of the town, and flow into the Kaskaskia river. These two streams form a delta of several hundred acres of land, under which—at a depth of from 40 to 60 feet—is an inexhaustible supply of pure water sufficient to meet the requirements of a city of many thousand population.

Perfect drainage, and an abundant supply of water—the two most desirable features for communities of large proportions—coupled with the new movement being inaugurated for endowing and enlarging the usefulness of the college, is now attracting unusual attention, and the indications point to the conclusion that Lebanon will soon be made the great educational suburb of St. Louis.

As might be expected, in a locality which has been the seat of an institution of learning for nearly seventy years, the people of the community are refined and social, while the moral surroundings are of such a character as to make it an inviting place to parents desirous of having their children under proper influences, while in pursuit of an education.

The Baptist, Catholic, German Evangelical, Methodist, and Presbyterian churches all have flourishing organizations in Lebanon.

PROSPECTUS FOR THE YEAR 1895.—96.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

The studies in the preceeding Courses are arranged to meet the requirements of the "University Senate" and are distributed among the following Professorships:—

I.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

MCKENDREE HYPES CHAMBERLIN, A. M., LL. B.

This department includes Psychology, Logic, Moral Philosophy and Evidences of Christianity; also Constitutional and International Law, and Political Economy. The thorough examination of approved text-books, followed by oral lectures, comprises the instruction proposed in this department. Free discussion on the part of the students is encouraged, and essays on the leading topics are required. Access to the standard authorities in the College Library is afforded to all the classes.

II.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REV. WILLIAM C. WALTON, A. M.

The studies in this department aim, first, at affording the student a means for the discipline and development of his faculties, which shall serve as a basis for subsequent special studies; and, secondly, at making him master of the principles and structure of the language, as well as familiar with the standard authors and the literature of the various periods of Greek History.

In the earlier part of the course Etymology and Syntax receive special attention—stress being laid on written exercises, from English to Greek; as the student advances, the Mythology, History and Antiquities are progressively introduced, and written translations from Greek into English receive due attention. Essays are also required on the authors and their different characteristics.

The course embraces three terms of Poetry, four of History, two of Philosophy, and one each of Tragedy, Oratory, and Greek Testament.

III

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

EDWIN P. BAKER, A. B.

This department aims to familiarize the student with the forms, structure and idioms of the Latin Language, with the laws of the different forms of poetical and prose compositions; with the style and characteristics of the best Roman authors; with the historical periods to which the several writers read belong; and with Roman life and civilization as illustrated thereby.

In addition to the daily drill and analysis of words and sentences, written translations are required from English into Latin and from Latin into English; and attention is continually called to the words in our language derived from the Latin; and to the influence and imitation of Roman authors to be traced in our own literature.

One year's study of Latin Composition is required, beginning with the Senior Academic year.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

EDWIN P. BAKER, A. B.

A knowledge of the German language and literature is an essential factor of a liberal education. A three year's course in this language is pursued by candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science, and a more extended course is offered to those desiring to continue their studies along this line.

The aim of this department is to give the student a practical knowledge of this the most cultivated of modern tongues.

The first year is occupied with the study of the structure of the language, accompanied by thorough drill in composition and in translation of selections from standard prose writers. The second and third years are devoted more especially to the study of the German classics.

As this is a living language, a conversational knowledge of it is of the utmost importance. Hence, throughout the course, a part of the daily recitation is devoted to conversation in German, and thus a speaking as well as a reading knowledge of the language is acquired.

V.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

ALBERT G. JEPSON, A. M., PH. D.

Mathematics is at the base of every system of education. Upon no other branch of science are the practical demands so frequent, or so important.

It is an essential agent in the transaction of every form of business, and in the development of every other science. It is the most perfect application of logic known and as a disciplinary study has no equal, in cultivating the ability for accurate and independent thought, and for original investigation in the search after new truths.

VI.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCES.

EDWARD B. WAGGONER, A. M.

"We learn to do by doing," is the motto of this department. The aim of the instruction is to encourage the habit of observation. The student will be guided in his effort but he must do the work himself. During the year instruction will be given in the following branches:

Zoology.—The text-book is used only for reference. Field work, the collection and dissection of specimens, and essays on various subjects will be prominent features.

Physics.—" We read Nature in the language of experiment," is the motto. Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, Electricity and Magnetism are studied the second term and the subject is completed the third. Special stress is placed upon the manufacture and use of simple and inexpensive apparatus.

Chemistry.—This branch is taught according to modern methods. Most of the work is done in the laboratory under the direction of the instructor.

Mineralogy.—The terminology of the science is first studied, then twenty-five minerals are determined by blowpipe analysis, after which the student is taught to recognize at sight all the common forms of rocks and minerals.

Geology.—The truth, that the world was made for man, that it was from the first designed to be the habitation of the human race, is kept prominently in view.

The museum is well equipped for the study of the last two branches, and the configuration of the country about Lebanon is also helpful.

Physiology.—This branch is well illustrated by charts, skeleton, etc. Narcotics and Hygiene receive careful attention.

Botany.—The description, drawing and mounting of at least twenty specimens is required, as is also a thesis upon some subject of original research.

Special attention is called to the æsthetic nature of the science.

Physical Geography.—This subject is taught as an introduction to the sciences.

Recognizing the advantage of having the museum, laboratory and science room under one roof, Study Hall has been arranged for the science department.

Friends and patrons of the school are urged to contribute for the equipment of the new museum and physical and chemical laboratory.

VII.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

J. RUSSELL MILLER, A. B.

The work of this department includes English Grammar, Sentential Analysis, Composition, Rhetoric, American and English Literature; also History and related branches. The English Bible will be studied as a classic.

Familiar talks on literature, and the discussion of the comparative merits of standard authors, will be made a feature of instruction in this department, and the more advanced students will be expected to prepare essays on particular subjects as the same may be assigned to them, from time to time.

VIII.

ELOCUTION AND ORATORY.

Ability to express well one's own thought, as well as that of others, cannot be too highly esteemed, nor too carefully sought. Elocution is rapidly gaining that position in the college curriculum which it justly merits. The aim of instruction in this department is to acquaint the student with the underlying principles of vocal and gestural expression, and to develop in him a natural and effective style of speaking without destroying his individuality or rendering him mechanical. No one should fail to give some time and attention to this important branch of academic culture. Special provision will be made for a teacher in this department.

IX.

POST-GRADUATE DEPARTMENT.

REV. T. H. HERDMAN, D. D., DEAN.

For resident and non-resident students, the Board of McKendree College has authorized the announcement of nine courses of post-graduate work—leading to the Master's degree and to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. These courses are—Political Science, History, Philosophy, Physical Science, Mathematics, Greek, Latin, English Literature, and one designated Eclectic. This last has Philosophy for major study throughout, and History, Political Science and English Literature as minors.

One year's work in any one of these with required thesis, satisfactory examination and payment of prescribed fee, will entitle the student to the Master's degree corresponding to the degree already received. A second year's work in the same course, or in any other of those specified will lead to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The only exception to this is in connection with the Eclectic Course, which, if undertaken must be completed.

The Board recommends every Bachelor to pursue post-graduate studies to the extent of at least one year's work. After 1898, no Master's degree in course, will be conferred, except upon examination in post-graduate studies. By action of the Board degrees will not be conferred merely as a foundation on which to pursue post-graduate studies.

The student may enter upon work at any time during the year, but a candidate for a degree at the next commencement must have all specified work completed by May 20. Matriculation fee, $5.00; yearly examination fee is $20, payable in installments. The diploma fee is $10.00. For further information as to authors, order of studies, amount of work, time and mode of examination, etc., address the Dean of the Post-Graduate Department.

X.

THEOLOGICAL STUDIES.

For the accommodation of students having the Ministry in view, a Theological class, if desired, will be organized, and the Bible, Discipline, Catechism, Homiletics, Ecclesiastical History, Methodist Doctrine, Polity and History, will receive attention. Studies required of Local Preachers in their graduation, and of candidates for admissions to the annual conference, will pass in review. Opportunity will be given, on special conditions, for one year's work in Hebrew, under the tuition of Rev. T. H. Herdman, D. D.

XI.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

E. B. WAGGONER, PRINCIPAL.

At present a knowledge of the rules and regulations of business life is indispensable, and to meet this demand the following course has been provided.

First Term.—Grammar, Arithmetic, Book-keeping, Penmanship.

Second Term.—Grammar, Business Correspondence and Forms. Book-keeping, Penmanship.

Third Term.—Commercial Law, Actual Business, Penmanship, and Crayon Work on blackboard.

It is the desire of the Principal to make the certificates of value by making the work thorough. Only those topics in arithmetic will be taught that have direct reference to the department, as, for instance, rapid additions, discount, interest, etc. No extra charge for instruction in this department. Certificates will be granted to all those who complete the course and pass a satisfactory examination. For further particulars address the Principal.

XII.

STENOGRAPHY AND TYPEWRITING.

W. L. CUNNINGHAM, INSTRUCTOR.

Good stenographers are in demand. The art of "Shorthand" is a labor saving system of writing. Every business man with a large correspondence must have a stenographer. Every professional man finds numberless times when a knowledge of stenography would be of almost invaluable service.

The instruction in this department aims to fit the student for all kinds of shorthand reporting. The system taught is Crosse's Eclectic, the shortest and most practical in use, there being so few word-signs (only twenty-two). The same principals are involved as in writing "longhand."

We use the Remington Standard Typewriter.

The full course includes Stenography and Typewriting, and such other branches taught in the College as are necessary to a full mastery of the art.

TERMS.

Tuition for full course . . . . .	$40 00
Stenography alone . . . . .	30 00
Typewriting alone . . . . .	15 00

Write for circular and first lesson.

XIII.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

PROF. FRED. PESOLD, DIRECTOR.

OTILIE PESOLD, ASSISTANT.

A complete course of musical instruction, in pursuance of the new Goldbeck Method, has been laid out, and will be employed in the training of pupils, and great pains will be taken for their technical and artistic development.

Pupils entering the regular course, when a certain degree of excellence is attained, will be required to perform in public rehearsals, concerts, and various entertainments given at the College.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR THE PIANO.

The course consists of three degrees, or departments, each degree embracing seven grades. A grade, with the average pupil, contemplates one term of twenty lessons.

FIRST DEGREE, OR PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

First, Second, and Third Grades: Goldbeck's Primary Method.

Fourth Grade: Part I. of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing.

Fifth and Sixth Grades: Part II. of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing.

Seventh Grade: Technical Foundation of Piano Playing Finished.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this Degree, or Department, will give a recital, and receive certificates for having accomplished the work of this department.

---

SECOND DEGREE, OR INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT.

First and Second Grades: Part III. of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Preparatory Octave Studies.

Third Grade: Part I. of Goldbeck's twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes. General Piano Technics; Scales for Velocity.

Fourth Grade: Part II. of Goldbeck's Twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes. General Piano Technics; the Scales.

Fifth and Sixth Grades: General Piano Technics; The Arpeggio.

Seventh Grade: General Piano Technics; The Octaves.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this Department, give recitals, and receive their second certificate of qualification.

THIRD DEGREE, OR COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

First Grade: Octave Studies Continued; Deux Etudes d'Extension. Second and Third Grades: General Piano Technics; The Thirds and Fifths: Selected Etudes from Chopin, Liszt, etc.

Fourth and Fifth Grades: General Piano Technics; The Trill. Selected Etudes, Continued.

Sixth and Seventh Grades: Memorizing and completing Repertoire required before graduation.

Pupils completing this department satisfactorily will have attained a degree of proficiency as intelligent musicians, and artistic performers, that will fit them for favorable comparison with the graduates of the best European colleges of music.

In connection with the constant drill incident to the studies laid down, well chosen selections of music will be made, in the execution of which the principles taught will be constantly applied, giving variety and zest to the pupil, in the routine work connected with the complete mastery of the course.

The completion of the above course implies that pupils have taken, for at least two terms, instruction in theory and harmony, and that they will be prepared to pass satisfactory examinations, after which the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be conferred.

Prof Pesold is well-known to the western public, as an accomplished musician, with twenty-five years of experience as a teacher, while Miss Pesold completed a course of study, cum laude, under the personal tuition of Goldbeck himself.

VOCAL MUSIC.

PROF. M. EDWIN JOHNSON, INSTRUCTOR.

The most thorough vocal training is given in this Department, and special attention is paid to the capabilities of each student with reference to his or her adaptability to given parts in choruses.

The training of Soloists, Duets, Quartetes and Chorouses will also receive careful attention.

Tuition on cornet, and other like instruments, will be given by the Instructor in this Department.

For particulars and terms, address Prof. M. Edwin Johnson.

XIV.

ART DEPARTMENT.

MISS ABBIE E. LUPTON, INSTRUCTOR.

Miss Lupton's accomplishments as an artist, and skill as a teacher has commended her so effectually to the public, that her school is constantly increasing in numbers and influence.

She will give instruction in Oils, Water Colors, Monochromatics, etc. Facilities will also be afforded for Photography and India Ink Portrait Drawings.

XV.

McKENDREE LAW SCHOOL.

FACULTY.

McKENDREE HYPES CHAMBERLIN, A. M., LL. B.,
President.

GEORGE C. WORTH, LL. B.,
Dean and Lecturer on Elementary Law and Equity.

JUDGE WILLIAM H. KROME, A. M.,
Lecturer on Domestic Relations and Common Law Pleading and Practice.

HON. W. F. L. HADLEY, A. M.,
Lecturer on Real Property.

HON WILLIAM P. BRADSHAW, M. S.,
Lecturer on Criminal Law.

The Law School has for years been an important department of the College. From its organization under the direction of Hon. Augustus C. French, LL. D., its graduates have proven the excellence of the training of the school by their qualifications for efficient practice in the courts. The old method of studying by private reading and an apprenticeship in a lawyer's office has almost disappeared before the demand for the more thorough discipline of the school. The views of the profession upon the subject have been expressed by the American Bar Association, which declares that "the verdict of the best informed is in favor of the law schools. They afford the student an acquaintance with general principles difficult, if not impossible, to be otherwise obtained. They give him the valuable habit of attention, teach him familiar maxims and offer him the priceless opportunities which result from contact and generous emulation. Disputing, reasoning, reading and discussing, become his constant exercises."

Only those who are thoroughly grounded in the fundamental principles of law can hope for any marked degree of success at the bar. It is a knowledge of these principles and the reason of the law that the school aims to impart.

ADMISSIONS AND MODES OF INSTRUCTION.

While no examination for admission is required, it must be borne in mind that no one should undertake professional studies without considerable previous preparation.

A good common school education is an indispensable requisite and whenever practicable the applicant should have taken a full collegiate course. The students are required to carefully read and study the text books included in the course, and daily recitations upon lessons previously assigned are conducted to test the pupil's knowledge and explain the various topics as may be necessary to their being properly understood.

The Dean devotes his entire time to the work of teaching, and besides the methods of instruction already mentioned, will lecture to the classes with blackboard outlines of the subjects discussed.

The students are required to prepare analyses of the books read, and written examinations are frequent.

SPECIAL LECTURES.

Arrangements have been perfected by which the students will have the benefit of special lectures each week by a number of prominent attorneys. These gentlemen are all in active practice of the law and bring to the lecture room the fruits of their experience in the office and the courts, placing before the classes the most recent views and interpretations of the law.

MOOT COURTS.

It is intended that a complete system of moot courts shall be maintained in which students are required to practice and thus fit them to act upon given cases and to know what to do. Included in this practice are not only pleadings but also issuing various writs, returns thereon, entries in court records, etc. Instruction is also given in conveyancing and all work pertaining to the office of the practitioner.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Junior Year.

Blackstone's Commentaries, Elements of Constitutional Law (Cooley), Real Property (Tiedemann), Contracts (Lawson or Bishop), Torts (Pollock, Cooley or Bigelow), Bills and Notes (Bigelow), Common Law Pleadings (Gould), Domestic Relations (Schouler).

Senior Year.

Kent's Commentaries, Federal Jurisprudence (Foster's Federal Practice), Evidence (Greenleaf, Vol. I), Common Law Pleadings

(Chitty, Vol. I), Equity (Bispham), Equity Pleadings (Story), Agency (Meacham), Bailments (Schouler), Corporations,

POST-GRADUATE COURSE.

While no effort is spared to fit the students for practice upon the completion of the regular course, an opportunity is given by an additional year's study to become thoroughly familiar with the practice in this State. During this course students will read the Statutes of Illinois, and practitioners' works on Civil and Criminal Practice, Administration of Estates, etc.

NIGHT SCHOOL AT EAST ST. LOUIS.

Some two years ago a night school was opened in the city of East St. Louis, and has met with favor among persons whose employment will not permit them to attend school during the day. The sessions are held in the evening between the hours of seven and ten o'clock and the students receive substantially the same instruction and advantages as those in attendance at the college, so far as the work of the Dean is concerned. The same text-books are studied and like methods of instruction employed. It is expected that arrangements may also be made for a course of special lectures in this department.

THE CORRESPONDENCE DEPARTMENT.

There are many who cannot attend any law school, and yet wish to pursue the study at their homes. It is the purpose of this department to aid them. It is not claimed that this can fully take the place of actual attendance upon school, but the student will derive benefit in having some one constantly directing him in his reading. Correspondence schools are no longer experiments; many are successfully pursuing studies by this method. Regular lessons are assigned and the study and examinations conducted systematically.

A regular class will be organized September 2, 1895, and every two months thereafter, so that students who are hindered by interruptions may be transferred to the next succeeding class and continue the work regularly. A course of study embracing the same topics as included in the regular course is pursued, and upon its completion an appropriate certificate is granted by the Dean. Complete information will be furnished on application.

SCHOLARSHIP PRIZES.

As an incentive to diligence there is offered to the student making the highest grades in the Junior Course, a scholarship covering one-half the cost of tuition for the Senior year; and to the student making the highest grades in the Senior Course a scholarship covering the cost of tuition for the year of Post-Graduate Study.

This offer applies to each department of the law school, and the cash value of the prizes is from $12.50 to $22.50.

GRADUATION.

The degree of LL. B. is conferred upon those who have been in actual attendance upon the school for two years of thirty-six weeks each and who have passed a satisfactory examination in the prescribed course of study.

The diploma secures admission to the bar in this State.

Persons who have attended other law schools or who have been admitted to the bar on examination, may upon the presentation of proper certificates be admitted to advanced standing.

No degree is conferred in the Correspondence Course.

TUITION.

The charges for tuition in the Undergraduate Course will be $45 per year, payable in three installments of $15 each, at the opening of each term.

Tuition for the Post-Graduate Course, one-half of the regular tuition.

Tuition in the Correspondence Department, $25 per year of ten months payable half-yearly in advance.

All correspondence in reference to the law school should be addressed to the Dean.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Good moral character is a necessary prerequisite for admission to any of the Departments connected with the College. The place to be occupied by candidates for enrollment, in the various courses of study, will be determined by their attainments, satisfactory evidence of which must be furnished, to the faculty, prior to enrollment as students. The grades of good schools and colleges will be received as evidence of the attainments of candidates, and the grades of colleges of like standing with this will be recognized as satisfactory to determine the position of the applicant in the curriculum. The graduates of such High Schools, in this and other States, as have courses of study to warrant will be admitted into the Collegiate Department.

Where an applicant for enrollment has been a student in some other college, a certificate of honorable dismissal may be required before he will be permitted to enter.

Enrollment in any class, or Department, will be considered a pledge to observe all Rules and Regulations of the College

GOVERNMENT AND RULES.

The government of the Institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. Candidates for College honors are received as ladies and gentlemen, and, as a result, a long list of repressive rules are regarded as unnecessary. Pride of character on the part of the student is relied upon to secure the most satisfactory government. Since, however, every aggregation of individuals must have certain formal rules, for the convenience and better understanding of all the parties interested in attaining a common object, the following regulations have been established:

Good moral character, a prerequisite for entrance; all bills to be paid prior to entrance; students to be faithful and punctual at morning chapel service, recitations, and all other duties assigned them by the Faculty; to attend service twice each Sabbath, at some one, or more, of the various churches in the city, and to assign, promptly, excuses for absence from, or neglect of, duty to such member of the Faculty before whom such duty should have been performed.

Scholastic training being the object to be attained, satisfactory recitations will be held as evidence of studious habits, while a failure in recitations will be taken as prima facie evidence of idleness, and students will be held to account for deficiencies in the recitation room.

It is almost unnecessary to state that the drinking of intoxicants, the frequenting of saloons, or other places of questionable character, are strictly forbidden.

A permanent record of both merits and demerits is kept, a transcript of which will be furnished the student, or his parents, and an accumulation of demerits may lead to such discipline as will result in the dismissal or expulsion of the delinquent.

At the close of each term, two days will be devoted to examinations. Students making a term grade of 90 will be exempt from such examinations.

The importance of entering promptly on the opening day of each term—that no time may be lost in studies—is urged upon students, and the attention of parents is specially directed to this feature of promptness.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS CULTURE.

While the College is denominational, it is in no sense sectarian. It welcomes those of other creeds and beliefs to its benefits and privileges, as also those who have no established denominational predilections. Good moral character, as elsewhere stated, is the only prerequisite for entrance. To those having denominational preferences the various churches established here afford young men and women who come as students ample opportunity to choose their places of worship. A college prayer meeting, led by a member of the Faculty, is held every Tuesday evening to which all are cordially invited. These meetings have proven very effectual in encouraging those of religious inclination to higher attainments in Christian life.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are three excellent Literary Societies—the Philosophian, Platonian and Clonian, the latter for ladies—which hold weekly sessions, and where splendid work is done among their members, along the various lines of literary labor. They are under the exclusive control of the students belonging to them, subject to certain regulations of the Board of Trustees, and Faculty. Active membership is confined to such students as are actually enrolled in some of the Departments connected with the College.

Regular requirements are made upon the membership in the form of essay writing, debate, declamation, and oratorical effort, which are of the most helpful character to the aspiring student. They are governed by parliamentary usage, and the generous and spirited rivalry, to excel each other and win public favor, proves a most wholesome stimulus in bringing out the latent faculties of all connected therewith. Many persons, throughout the country, who have won distinction as platform speakers, attribute their success to their early training in these Societies. It is recommended that all students identify themselves with one or the other of these organizations.

The initiation fee to either of the gentleman's societies is $5; the ladies' society, $3. The dues in each of the gentlemen's societies is 25 cents per term; in the ladies' society 50 cents per term.

LIBRARIES.

The Libraries of the College, and Literary Societies contain about 8000 vols. The College Library is accessible to all students, under rules established by the Board of Trustees. The Libraries belonging to the Literary Societies are available to the members of the societies, under rules of their own making. During the past year, by the bequest of the late Dr. S. H. Deneen some 250 volumes were added to the College Library. Also from other sources smaller donations of valuable books have been received.

The authorities of the College cordially appreciate the thoughtful helpfulness of all such as hold the Library of the College in remembrance by the donation of valuable books, for the reason that no more effective way can be adopted to do lasting good to the youthful student, than by placing within his reach the best of authorities on all questions of public interest.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Literature will be conferred on any who may have completed in a satisfactory manner the prescribed Courses of study leading to such degrees, and students, to secure graduation, must needs be present in their classes at least two-thirds of the last two years of their course.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who may satisfactorily complete the Course of Study prescribed for the Law Department, and this degree will admit the holder to the Bar of the State without further examination.

After 1898 the Master's Degree will be conferred only upon the completion of a course of Post-Graduate Study.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President at least sixty days before the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, and must be endorsed by at least three persons holding either the degree sought, or one of more honorable rank.

All Diploma fees for degrees in course are fixed at $5.00, and for Honorary Degrees. $10.00.

Any graduate of McKendree pursuing Post-Graduate Studies, and taking the Master's Degree, within three years of graduation, will be charged a Diploma Fee of $5.00. All other Post-Graduate Diploma Fees are fixed at $10.00.

EXPENSES.

The tuition fee charged for entrance into the Pre-Academic, Academic and Collegiate Courses is $12 per term. This includes also the Commercial Course. The incidental fees for Library and Scientific Departments are abolished—only $12 per term now being the net charge for tuition.

Fees in other Departments are as follows:

Law School, tuition, per term. ....	$15 00
Instrumental Music, tuition, per term. ....	12 00
Art, tuition, per term. ....	12 00
Post-Graduate, matriculation fee. ....	5 00
Post-Graduate, yearly examination fee. ....	20 00
Full Course Stenography and Typewriting. ....	40 00

HISTORICAL.

McKendree College, first organized in 1828, as "Lebanon Seminary," is the oldest institution of learning in the West, dedicated to higher education. Indeed, there is but one other in the United States—Dickinson College—connected with the University Senate, the origin of which, under like auspices, antedates McKendree.

The pioneer settlers interested in this early educational movement were among the most progressive citizens from the older states, as is attested by the course of study prescribed in the original articles of organization, which, after naming the ordinary branches taught at that time in Seminaries, also provided for the philosophies, the higher mathematics, and "Greek and Latin."

The broad and thorough spirit of this educational movement early attracted the attention of Bishop McKendree—the first American Bishop of his church—and in 1830, by a resolution of the Board of Managers of the "Lebanon Seminary," the name of the institution was changed to McKendree College.

Taking the institution under his fostering care, his Illinois landed possessions were disposed of in the interest of McKendree College by a committee composed of the Board of Bishops, of the then undivided Methodist Episcopal Church—Roberts, Hedding, Andrew, Waugh, Morris and Soule—appointed by the patron Bishop, as trustees in the premises.

The original subscription to the fund for founding "Lebanon Seminary" is still preserved and shows an aggregate of $1,385.

The first principal employed was "Mr. E. R. Ames," subsequently the great diplomat Bishop of the church, "at $25 per month."

In 1834 the institution was chartered by the Illinois Legislature as the "McKendrian College," which being a slight error as to name, was corrected by act of the Legislature, in 1839, to McKendree College.

The charter is one conferring the largest University privileges and was drawn and pushed through the Legislature by no less a personage than Abraham Lincoln. The first President of the College was Rev. Peter Akers, D. D., one of the most distinguished men of his time in ecclesiastical circles.

More than 8,000 students have been educated at McKendree, nearly 700 of which number have taken degrees.

Since the payment of the heavy debt which so long hampered the College, several thousand dollars have been spent in improvements on the grounds and buildings, and plans are now being matured to raise the necessary means for its ample endowment, and to establish it with the full University privileges contemplated in its unusually liberal charter.

LOCATION.

Lebanon, Illinois, the seat of McKendree College, is one of the most healthful and handsome little inland cities in the west.

It is situated on the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railway, 24 miles from the city of St. Louis. The location is a high rolling table land, beautifully shaded, and its elevation is such that its approach from all quarters is in the truest sense picturesque in character.

On the east and west are two live creeks, which unite south of the town, and flow into the Kaskaskia river. These two streams form a delta of several thousand acres of land, under which—at a depth of from 40 to 70 feet—is an inexhaustible supply of pure water, sufficient to meet the requirements of a city of many thousand population.

Perfect drainage, and an abundant supply of water—the two most desirable features for communities of large proportions—coupled with the new movement being inaugurated for endowing and enlarging the usefulness of the college, is now attracting unusual attention, and the indications point to the conclusion that Lebanon will soon be made the great educational suburb of St. Louis.

As might be expected, in a locality which has been the seat of an institution of learning for nearly seventy years, the people of the community are refined and social, while the moral surroundings are of such a character as to make it an inviting place to parents desirous of having their children under proper influences, while in pursuit of an education.

The Baptist, Catholic, German Evangelical, Methodist, and Presbyterian churches all have flourishing organizations in Lebanon.

DEPARTMENTS OF INSTRUCTION.

The studies in the preceding Courses are arranged to meet the requirements of the "University Senate" and are embraced in the following Departments:

I.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

This department includes Psychology, Logic, Moral Philosophy and Evidences of Christianity; also Constitutional and International Law, and Political Economy. Since much of the subject matter considered in this department is, in a large sense, speculative, the attention of the student will be directed by a series of short lectures, to the various views entertained on unsettled questions, and a course of reading indicated which will aid the hearers in reaching the better conclusions on all questions of debatable character. Students will be encouraged to ask questions, and the class room will be held as a place for the freest interchange of conscientious opinions between teacher and student.

II.

GREEK LANGUAGES AND LITERATURE.

The studies in this department aim, first, at affording the student a means for the discipline and development of his faculties, which shall serve as a basis for subsequent special studies; and, secondly, at making him master of the principles and structure of the language, as well as familiar with the standard authors and the literature of the various periods of Greek History.

Short talks will be given by the instructor, on biography and history, as helps toward interesting the pupil in his investigations.

In the study of this Language and Literature, so rich in Poetry, Oratory, History and Philosophy, is found that which distinguishes the classical from the other courses of study. In the true sense of the term it is a thoroughly practical study, for the reason that the mental discipline incident to its mastery is of the highest order; while it must not be forgotten that it is the vehicle in which is conveyed to the world the best Philosophies of the Pagan world, to say nothing of the more important doctrines of the Gospel, which are the basis of our present civilization.

III.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

This department aims to familiarize the student with the forms, structure and idioms of the Latin Language, with the laws of the different forms of poetical and prose compositions; with the style and characteristics of the best Roman authors; with the historical periods in which the several writers read belong; and with Roman life and civilization as illustrated thereby.

When it is remembered that so large a portion of the English Language has its parentage in the Latin tongue, it is difficult to overestimate the value of the study of the latter. Every hour of study devoted to the Latin Language is an exercise in English derivations. So that the individual who would be an accomplished English scholar can find no better means of reaching that result than by a mastery of the Latin.

IV.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

A knowledge of the German language and literature is an essential factor of a liberal education. A three year's course in this language is pursued by candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science, and a more extended course is offered to those desiring to continue their studies along this line.

The aim of this department is to give the student a practical knowledge of this the most cultivated of modern tongues.

The first year is occupied with the study of the structure of the language, accompanied by thorough drill in composition and in translation of selections from standard prose writers. The second and third years are devoted more especially to the study of the German classics.

As this is a living language, a conversational knowledge of it is of the utmost importance. Hence, throughout the course, a part of the daily recitation is devoted to conversation in German, and thus a speaking as well as a reading knowledge of the language is acquired.

V.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

Mathematics is at the base of every system of education. Upon no other branch of science are the practical demands so frequent or so important.

It is an essential agent in the transaction of every form of business, and in the development of every other science. It is the most perfect application of logic known and as a disciplinary study has no equal, in cultivating the ability for accurate and independent thought, and for original investigation in the search after new truths.

VI.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCES.

"We learn to do by doing." is the motto of this department. The aim of the instruction is to encourage the habit of observation. The student will be guided in his effort but he must do the work himself. During the year instruction will be given in the following branches:

Zoology.—The text book is used only for reference. Field work.

the collection and dissection of specimens, and essays on various subjects will be prominent features.

Physics.—"We read Nature in the language of experiments," is the motto. Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, Electricity and Magnetism are studied the second term and the subject is completed the third. Special stress is placed upon the manufacture and use of simple and inexpensive apparatus.

Chemistry.—The study will begin the first term, during which time the elements of inorganic chemistry will be pursued, and organic chemistry and qualitative analysis during the first half of the second term.

Mineralogy.—The terminology of the science is first studied, then twenty-five minerals are determined by blowpipe analysis, after which the student is taught to recognize at sight all the common forms of rocks and minerals.

Geology.—The truth, that the world was made for man, that it was from the first designed to be the habitation of the human race, is kept prominently in view.

The museum is well equipped for the study of the last two branches, and the configuration of the country about Lebanon is also helpful.

Physiology.—This branch is well illustrated by charts, skeletons, etc. Narcotics and Hygiene receive careful attention.

Botany.—A term and a half will be devoted to this study, commencing the middle of the second term, when the technical characteristics of the study will be pursued, and the whole of the third term will be devoted to analysis of plant life, and herbarium work.

Physical Geography.—This subject is taught as an introduction to the sciences.

Recognizing the advantage of having the museum, laboratory and science room under one roof, Study Hall has been arranged for the science department.

VII.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

The work of this department includes English Grammar, Sentential Analysis, Composition, Rhetoric, American and English Literature; also History and related branches. The English Bible will be studied as a classic.

Familiar talks on literature, and the discussion of the comparative merits of standard authors, will be made a feature of instruction in this department, and the more advanced students will be expected to prepare essays on particular subjects as the same may be assigned to them, from time to time.

VIII.

ELOCUTION AND ORATORY.

Ability to express well one's own thought, as well as that of others, cannot be too highly esteemed, nor too carefully sought. Elocution is rapidly gaining that position in the college curriculum which it justly merits. The aim of instruction in this department is to acquaint the student with the underlying principles of vocal and gestural expression, and to develop in him a natural and effective style of speaking without destroying his individuality or rendering him mechanical.

IX.

POST-GRADUATE DEPARTMENT.

For resident and non-resident students, the Board of McKendree College has authorized the announcement of nine courses of post-graduate work—leading to the Master's degree and to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. These courses are—Political Science, History, Philosophy, Physical Science, Mathematics, Greek, Latin, English Literature, and one designated Eclectic. This last has Philosophy for major study throughout and History, Political Science and English Literature as minors.

One year's work in any one of these with required thesis, satisfactory examination, which must be undergone at the seat of the college, and payment of prescribed fees will entitle the student to the Master's degree corresponding to the degree already received. A second year's work in the same course, or in any other of those specified will lead to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The only exception to this is in connection with the Eclectic Course, which, if undertaken, must be completed.

The Board recommends every Bachelor to pursue post-graduate studies to the extent of at least one year's work. After 1898 no Master's degree in course will be conferred, except upon examination in post-graduate studies. By action of the Board, degrees will not be conferred merely as a foundation on which to pursue post-graduate studies.

The student may enter upon work at any time during the year, but a candidate for a degree at the next commencement must have all specified work completed by May 20. Matriculation fee, $5.00; yearly examination fee is $20, payable in installments. The diploma fee is $10.00. For further information as to authors, order of studies, amount of work time and mode of examination, etc., address the Dean of the Post-Graduate Department.

X.

BUSINESS COURSE.

Arrangements will be made, on request, for instruction in such studies as are usually contemplated in a Commercial Course, by adding such of those as are not already found in other departments of the College. Students, however, are advised not to undertake these Commercial studies until they have mastered a course of study equal to that contemplated in our Academic course, from the fact that the demands of the commercial world are now such that a mere knowledge of book-keeping and technical forms leaves the candidate with but little hope of remunerative employment.

XI.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

A complete course of musical instruction, in pursuance of the new Goldbeck Method, has been laid out and will be employed in the training of pupils, and great pains will be taken for their technical and artistic development.

Pupils entering the regular course, when a certain degree of excellence is attained, will be required to perform in public rehearsals, concerts, and various entertainments given at the College.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR THE PIANO.

The course consists of three degrees or departments, each degree embracing seven grades. A grade, with the average pupil, contemplates one term of twenty lessons.

FIRST DEGREE, OR PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

First, Second, and Third Grades: Goldbeck's Primary Method.

Fourth Grade: Part I of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing.

Fifth and Sixth Grades: Part II of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing.

Seventh Grade: Technical Foundation of Piano Playing Finished.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this Degree, or Department, will give a recital, and receive certificates for having accomplished the work of this department.

SECOND DEGREE, OR INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT.

First and Second Grades: Part III of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Preparatory Octave Studies.

Third Grade: Part I of Goldbeck's twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes; General Piano Technics; Scales for Velocity.

Fourth Grade: Part II of Goldbeck's Twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes; General Piano Technics; the Scales.

Fifth and Sixth Grades: General Piano Technics; The Arpeggio.

Seventh Grade: General Piano Technics: The Octaves.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this Department, give recitals, and receive their second certificate of qualification.

THIRD DEGREE, OR COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

First Grade: Octave Studies Continued; Deus Etudes d' Extension. Second and Third Grades: General Piano Technique; The Thirds and Fifths: Selected Etudes from Chopin, Liszt, etc.

Fourth and Fifth Grades: General Piano Technique; the Trill; Selected Etudes Continued.

Sixth and Seventh Grades: Memorizing and completing Repertoire required before graduation.

Pupils completing this department satisfactorily will have attained a degree of proficiency as intelligent musicians, and artistic performers, that will fit them for favorable comparison with the graduates of the best European colleges of music.

In connection with the constant drill incident to the studies laid down, well chosen selections of music will be made, in the execution of which the principles taught will be constantly applied, giving variety and zest to the pupil, in the routine work connected with the complete mastery of the course.

The completion of the above course implies that pupils have taken, for at least two terms, instruction in theory and harmony, and that they will be prepared to pass satisfactory examinations, after which the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be conferred.

For particulars address Prof. F. Pesold.

XII.

VOCAL MUSIC.

The most thorough vocal training is given in this Department, and special attention is paid to the capabilities of each student with reference to his or her adaptability to given parts in choruses. The training of Soloists, Duets, Quartets and Choruses will also receive careful attention.

Tuition on cornet, and other like instruments, will be given by the Instructor in this Department.

For particulars and terms, address Prof. M. Edwin Johnson.

XIII.

ART DEPARTMENT.

This department contemplates instruction in oil and water colors, monochromatics, etc. During the year the work of the pupils are held subject to the inspection of the public, and at the Commencement Anniversary the Art rooms are decorated with the work of the pupils, past and present, making a display of most creditable character.

XIV.

McKENDREE LAW SCHOOL.

The Law School has for years been an important department of the College. From its organization under the direction of Hon. Augustus C. French, LL. D., its graduates have proven the excellence of the training of the school by their qualifications for efficient practice in the courts. The old method of studying by private reading and apprenticeship in a lawyer's office has almost disappeared before the demand for the more thorough discipline of the school. The views of the profession upon the subject have been expressed by the American Bar Association, which declares that "the verdict of the best informed is in favor of the law schools. They afford the student an acquaintance with general principles difficult, if not impossible, to be otherwise obtained. They give him the valuable habit of attention, teach him familiar maxims and offer him the priceless opportunities which result from contact and generous emulation. Disputing, reasoning, reading and discussing, become his constant exercises."

Only those who are thoroughly grounded in the fundamental principles of law can hope for any marked degree of success at the bar. It is a knowledge of these principles and the reason of the law that the school aims to impart.

ADMISSION AND MODES OF STUDY.

While no examination for admission is required, it must be borne in mind that no one should undertake professional studies without considerable previous preparation.

A good common school education is an indispensable requisite and whenever practicable the applicant should have taken a full collegiate course. The students are required to carefully read and study the text books included in the course, and recite upon lessons previously assigned.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Junior Year.

Blackstone's Commentaries, Elements of Constitutional Law (Cooley), Real Property (Tiedemann), Contracts (Lawson or Bishop), Torts (Pollock, Cooley or Bigelow), Bills and Notes (Bigelow), Common Law Pleadings (Gould), Domestic Relations (Schouler).

Senior Year.

Kent's Commentaries, Evidence (Greenleaf, Vol. 1), Common Law Pleadings (Chitty, Vol. 1), Equity (Bispham), Equity Pleadings (Story), Agency (Meacham), Bailments (Schouler), Corporations.

Students are expected to furnish their own text books.

NIGHT SCHOOL AT EAST ST. LOUIS.

A night school has been maintained in the city of East St. Louis for a number of years, and has met with favor among persons whose employment will not permit them to attend school during the day.

The sessions are held in the evening between the hours of seven and ten o'clock and the students receive substantially the same instruction and advantages as those in attendance at the college, so far as the work of the Dean is concerned. The same text-books are studied and like methods of instruction employed.

MOOT COURTS.

A moot court will be maintained, wherein the students will receive great benefit in the matter of preparing briefs, abstracts, etc., whereby they will gain a good knowledge of the methods observed in actual practice before the courts. It is the intention to prepare students for the practice of the Law immediately after leaving school.

GRADUATION.

The degree of LL. B. is conferred upon those who have been in actual attendance upon the school for two years of thirty-six weeks each and who have passed a satisfactory examination in the prescribed course of study.

The diploma secures admission to the bar in this State.

Persons who have attended other law schools or who, on examination, have shown themselves competent, may be admitted to advanced standing.

TUITION.

The charges for tuition will be $15 per term, payable at the opening of each term.

All correspondence in reference to the law school should be addressed to R. A. Mooneyham, LL.B., Dean of the Law School.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Good moral character is a necessary prerequisite for admission to any of the Departments connected with the College. The place to be occupied by candidates for enrollment in the various courses of study will be determined by their attainments, satisfactory evidence of which must be furnished to the faculty prior to enrollment as students. The grades of good schools and colleges will be received as evidence of the attainments of candidates, and the grades of colleges of like standing with this will be recognized as satisfactory to determine the position of the applicant in the curriculum. The graduates of such High Schools, in this and other States, as have courses of study to warrant, will be admitted into the Collegiate Department without examination.

Where an applicant for enrollment has been a student in some other college, a certificate of honorable dismission may be required before he will be permitted to enter.

Enrollment in any class or Department, will be considered a pledge to observe all Rules and Regulations of the College.

GOVERNMENT AND RULES.

The government of the Institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. Candidates for College honors are received as ladies and gentlemen, and, as a result, a long list of repressive rules are regarded as unnecessary. Pride of character on the part of the student is relied upon to secure the most satisfactory government. Since, however, every aggregation of individuals must have certain formal rules, for the convenience and better understanding of all the parties interested in attaining a common object, the following regulations have been established:

Good moral character, a prerequisite for entrance; all bills to be paid prior to entrance; students to be faithful and punctual at morning chapel service, recitations, and all other duties assigned them by the Faculty; to attend two services each Sabbath, at some one of the various churches in the city, and to assign, promptly, excuses for absence from, or neglect of duty to the member of the Faculty before whom such duty should have been performed.

Scholastic training being the object to be attained, satisfactory recitations will be held as evidence of studious habits, while a failure in recitations will be taken as prima facie evidence of idleness, and students will be held to account for deficiencies in the recitation room.

It is almost unnecessary to state that the drinking of intoxicants, the frequenting of saloons or other places of questionable character, are strictly forbidden.

A permanent record of both merits and demerits is kept, a transcript of which will be furnished the student, or his parents, on request, and an accumulation of demerits may lead to such discipline as will result in the dismissal or expulsion of the delinquent.

At the close of each term, two days will be devoted to examinations. Students making a term grade of 90 will be exempt from such examinations.

The importance of entering promptly on the opening day of each term—that no time may be lost in studies—is urged upon students, and the attention of parents is specially directed to this requirement.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS CULTURE.

While the College is denominational, it is in no sense sectarian. It welcomes those of other creeds and beliefs to its benefits and privileges, as also those who have no established denominational predilections. Good moral character, as elsewhere stated, is the only prerequisite for matriculation. To those having denominational preferences, the various churches established here afford young men and women who come as students ample opportunity to choose their places of worship. A college prayer meeting, under the supervision of some member of the Faculty, is held every Tuesday evening, to which all are cordially invited. These meetings have proven very effectual in encouraging those of religious inclination to higher attainments in Christian life, while their influence in leading others to consider the spiritual side of life has been of the most salutary character.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are three excellent Literary Societies—the Philosophian, Platonian and Clionian, the latter for ladies—which hold weekly sessions, and where splendid work is done among their members, along the various lines of literary labor. They are under the exclusive control of the students belonging to them, subject to certain regulations of the Board of Trustees and Faculty. Active membership is confined to such students as are actually enrolled in some of the Departments connected with the College.

Regular requirements are made upon the membership in the form of essay writing, debate, declamation, and oratorical effort, which are of the most helpful character to the aspiring student. They are governed by parliamentary usage, and the generous and spirited rivalry to excel each other and win public favor proves a most wholesome stimulus in bringing out the latent faculties of all connected therewith. Many persons throughout the country, who have won distinction as platform speakers, attribute their success to their early training in these Societies. It is recommended that all students identify themselves with one or the other of these organizations.

The initiation fee in either of the gentlemen's societies is $5; the ladies' society, $3. The dues in each of the gentlemen's societies is 25 cents per term; in the ladies' society, 50 cents per term.

LIBRARIES.

The Libraries of the College and Literary Societies contain about 8000 volumes. The College Library is accessible to all students, under rules established by the Board of Trustees. The Libraries belonging to the Literary Societies are available to the members of the societies, under rules of their own making. Some very valuable additions have been made to the Library during the year—notably from Col. J. B. McCullagh, LL. D., of the Globe-Democrat, while Judge W. C. Jones, LL. D., of St. Louis, has made generous donations to the Libraries of the Literary Societies. The College also announces, with much satisfaction, the promise of a donation of 1500 volumes by the Hon. W. A. J. Sparks, of Carlyle, Illinois. Also from other sources smaller donations of valuable books have been received.

The authorities of the College cordially appreciate the thoughtful helpfulness of all such as hold the Library of the College in remembrance by the donation of valuable books, for the reason that no more effective way can be adopted to do lasting good to the youthful student than by placing within his reach the best of authorities on all questions of public interest.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Literature, will be conferred on any who may have completed, in a satisfactory manner, the prescribed Courses of study leading to such degrees, and students, to secure graduation, must needs be present in their classes at least two-thirds of the last two years of their course.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who may satisfactorily complete the Course of Study prescribed for the Law Department, and this degree will admit the holder to the Bar of the State without further examination.

After 1898 the Master's Degree in Course will not be conferred. After that date candidates for that degree will be required to pursue a course of Post-Graduate Study.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President at least sixty days before the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, and must be endorsed by at least three persons holding either the degree sought, or one of more honorable rank.

All Diploma fees for degrees in course are fixed at $5.00, and for Honorary Degrees, $10.00.

Any Graduate of McKendree pursuing Post-Graduate Studies, and taking the Master's Degree within three years of graduation, will be charged a Diploma Fee of $5.00. All other Post-Graduate Diploma Fees are fixed at $10.00.

EXPENSES.

The tuition fee charged for entrance into the Pre-Academic, Academic and Collegiate Courses is $12 per term. The incidental fees for Library and Scientific Departments are abolished—only $12 per term now being the net charge for tuition.

Fees in other Departments are as follows:

Law School, tuition, per term	$15 00
Instrumental Music, tuition, per term	12 00
Art, tuition, per term	12 00
Post-Graduate, matriculation fee	5 00
Post-Graduate, yearly examination fee	20 00

DIPLOMA FEES.

Diploma fee, Collegiate Graduates	$ 5 00
Diploma fee, Law Graduates	5 00

Diploma fee, Musical Graduates .....	5 00
Diploma fee, Post-Graduate .....	10 00
Diploma fee, Honorary Degrees .....	10 00

Collegiate and Honorary Degree fees to be paid the President: the Law and Post-Graduate Diploma fees to be paid the Deans of their respective departments. Diploma fee in the Musical Department to be paid the Musical Instructor.

Good board in private families, fuel, lights, care of room included, at from $3 to $3.50 per week. In clubs the expense can be materially reduced, while some students board themselves at from $1.25 to $1.50 per week.

Students furnish their own text books, which can be procured here from the College bookseller.

THE McCULLAGH PRIZE.

Dr. McCullagh, managing editor of the Globe Democrat, offers prizes to the students of McKendree College on the following terms: "I propose to give three prizes of $50, $30 and $20 respectively, for the best three condensations of a public speech to be selected by the president, a speech of 10,000 words to be put into 2,500 words. Those competing to imagine themselves to be reporters sent to listen to the speech and to report it in the space named. The report to be in the third person—not the first."

The award of prizes shall be made before the public on Commencement day, and all competitors, not later than sixty days prior to Commencement, shall report their names to the president, into whose hands the work of the competitors shall be placed for submittal to the judges not later than fifteen days before Commencement.

ELOCUTIONARY CONTEST.

On the last Friday evening of each year preceding Commencement day there will be held a public contest in elocution, wherein not less than six nor more than eight contestants will be allowed. A first and second prize will be awarded, the former in the sum of $15 and the latter $10.

The merits of the performers will be passed upon by three judges whose award will be made public at the close of the entertainment.

Members of the senior class and former successful competitors shall be ineligible as contestants, and those desiring to compete shall make known their purpose to the president not later than thirty days prior to the date of the contest.

HISTORICAL.

McKendree College, first organized in 1828, as "Lebanon Seminary," is the oldest institution of learning in the West dedicated to higher education. Indeed, there is no other, in the United States, connected with the University Senate, the origin of which, under like auspices, antedates McKendree.

The pioneer settlers interested in this early educational movement were among the most progressive citizens from the older states, as is attested by the course of study prescribed in the original articles of organization, which, after naming the ordinary branches taught at that time in Seminaries, also provided for the philosophies, the higher mathematics, and Greek and Latin.

The broad and thorough spirit of this educational movement early attracted the attention of Bishop McKendree—the first American Bishop of his church—and in 1830, by a resolution of the Board of Managers of the "Lebanon Seminary," the name of the institution was changed to McKendree College.

Taking the institution under his fostering care, his Illinois landed possessions were disposed of in the interest of McKendree College by a committee composed of the Board of Bishops of the then undivided Methodist Episcopal Church—Roberts, Hedding, Andrew, Waugh, Morris and Soule—appointed by the patron Bishop, as trustees in the premises.

The original subscription to the fund for founding "Lebanon Seminary" is still preserved and shows an aggregate of $1,385.

The first principal employed was "Mr. E. R. Ames," subsequently the great diplomat Bishop of the church, "at $25 per month."

In 1834 the institution was chartered by the Illinois Legislature as the "McKendrian College," which being a slight error as to name was corrected by act of the Legislature, in 1839, to McKendree College.

The charter is one conferring the largest University privileges and was drawn and pushed through the Legislature by no less a personage than Abraham Lincoln. The first President of the College was Rev. Peter Akers, D. D., one of the most distinguished men of his time in ecclesiastical circles.

More than 8,000 students have been educated at McKendree, over 700 of which number have taken degrees.

During the past three years the long-standing and burdensome debt against the institution has been wholly liquidated, several thousand dollars of improvements have been made, including a thorough steam heat plant, which has modernized the building, and has placed the College in line with the best in the State in the matter of both comfort and convenience.

Plans are now being matured for the means to generously endow the College of Liberal Arts, and to enlarge the usefulness of the institution by establishing such additional departments as will bring it up to university proportions, as provided in its exceptionally liberal charter.

LOCATION.

Lebanon, Illinois, the seat of McKendree College, is one of the most healthful and handsome little inland cities in the West.

It is situated on the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway, 24 miles from the city of St. Louis. The location is a high rolling table land, beautifully shaded, and its elevation is such that its approach from all quarters is in the truest sense picturesque in character.

On the east and west are two live creeks, which unite south of the town, and flow into the Kaskaskia river. These two streams form a delta of several thousand acres of land, under which—at a depth of from 40 to 70 feet—is an inexhaustible supply of pure water, sufficient to meet the requirements of a city of many thousand population.

Perfect drainage and an abundant supply of water—the two most desirable features for communities of large proportions—coupled with the new movement being inaugurated for endowing and enlarging the usefulness of the College, is now attracting unusual attention, and the indications point to the conclusion that Lebanon will soon be made the great educational suburb of St. Louis.

As might be expected, in a locality which has been the seat of an institution of learning for nearly seventy years, the people of the community are refined and social, while the moral surroundings are of such a character as to make it an inviting place to parents desirous of having their children under proper influences, while in pursuit of an education.

The Baptist, Catholic, German Evangelical, Methodist, and Presbyterian churches all have flourishing organizations in Lebanon.

DEPARTMENTS OF INSTRUCTION.

I.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

This department includes Psychology, Logic, Moral Philosophy and Sociology; also Constitutional and International Law, and Political Economy. Since much of the subject matter considered in this department is, in a large sense, speculative, the attention of the student will be directed by a series of short lectures, to the various views entertained on unsettled questions, and a course of reading indicated which will aid the inquirer in reaching the better conclusions on all questions of debatable character. Students will be encouraged to ask questions, and the class room will be held as a place for the freest interchange of conscientious opinions between teacher and student.

II.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The studies in this department aim, first, at affording the student a means for the discipline and development of his faculties, which shall serve as a basis for subsequent special studies; and, secondly, at making him master of the principles and structure of the language, as well as familiar with the standard authors and the literature of the various periods of Greek History.

Short talks will be given by the instructor, on biography and history, as helps toward interesting the pupil in his investigations.

In the study of this language and literature, so rich in poetry, oratory, history and philosophy, is found that which distinguishes the classical from the other courses of study. In the true sense of the term it is a thoroughly practical study, for the reason that the mental discipline incident to its mastery is of the highest order; while it must not be forgotten that it is the vehicle in which is conveyed to the world the best Philosophies of the Pagan world, to say nothing of the more important doctrines of the Gospel, which are the basis of our present civilization.

III.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

This department aims to familiarize the student with the forms, structure and idioms of the Latin language, with the laws of the different forms of poetical and prose compositions; with the style and characteristics of the best Roman authors; with the historical periods to which the several writers read belong; and with Roman life and civilization as illustrated thereby.

When it is remembered that so large a portion of the English language has its parentage in the Latin tongue, it is difficult to overestimate the value of the study of the latter. Every hour of study devoted to the Latin language is an exercise in English derivations. Thus the individual who would be an accomplished English scholar can find no better means of reaching that result than by a mastery of the Latin.

IV.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

A knowledge of the German language and literature is an essential factor of a liberal education. A three year's course in this language is pursued by candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science, and a more extended course is offered to those desiring to continue their studies along this line.

The aim of this department is to give the student a practical knowledge of this most cultivated of modern tongues.

The first year is occupied with the study of the structure of the language, accompanied by thorough drill in composition, and in translation of selections from standard prose writers. The second and third years are devoted more especially to the study of the German classics.

As this is a living language, a conversational knowledge of it is of the utmost importance. Hence, throughout the course, a part of the daily recitation is devoted to conversation in German, and thus a speaking as well as a reading knowledge of the language is acquired.

V.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

The importance of this field of study is well understood.

All educators hold that mathematical study is peculiarly adapted to the development of the mind in two respects which are essential to true scholarship, viz.: the power to reason closely and logically, and, the confidence that enables the student to trust his own conclusions.

The course in mathematics is designed with three ends in view:

First—To give a thorough and practical training in the elementary and fundamental principles of mathematical study.

Second—To introduce the student into what is commonly termed "Higher Mathematics" in such a way as to augment his interest in the subject and assist him in doing accurate and original thinking.

Third—To place those minds which have natural ability and taste for the subject in a position to pursue with advantage courses more advanced than those contained in an undergraduate course of study.

VI.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCES.

"We learn to do by doing," is the motto of this department. The aim of the instruction is to encourage the habit of observation. The student will be guided in his effort but must do the work himself. During the year instruction will be given in the following branches:

Zoology.—The text book is used only for reference. Field work, the collection and dissection of specimens, and essays on various subjects will be prominent features.

Physics.—"We read Nature in the language of experiments," is the motto. Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, Electricity and Magnetism are studied the second term and the subject is completed the third. Special stress is placed upon the manufacture and use of simple and inexpensive apparatus.

Chemistry.—The study will begin the first term, during which time the elements of inorganic chemistry will be pursued, and organic chemistry and qualitative analysis during the first half of the second term.

Mineralogy.—The terminology of the science is first studied, then twenty-five minerals are determined by blowpipe analysis, after which the student is taught to recognize at sight all the common forms of rocks and minerals.

Geology.—The truth, that the world was made for man, that it was from the first designed to be the habitation of the human race, is kept prominently in view.

The museum is well equipped for the study of the last two branches, and the configuration of the country about Lebanon is also helpful.

Physiology.—This branch is well illustrated by charts, skeletons, etc. Narcotics and Hygiene receive careful attention.

Botany.—A term and a half will be devoted to this study, commencing the middle of the second term, when the technical characteristics of the study will be pursued, and the whole of the third term will be devoted to analysis of plant life, and herbarium work.

Physical Geography.—This subject is taught as an introduction to the sciences.

VII.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

The work of this department includes English Grammar, Sentential Analysis, Composition, Rhetoric, American and English Literature; also History and related branches. The English Bible will be studied as a classic.

Familiar talks on literature, and the discussion of the comparative merits of standard authors, together with syllabi on outlined courses of reading, will be made a feature of instruction in this department, and the more advanced students will be expected to prepare essays on particular subjects as the same may be assigned to them, from time to time.

VIII.

THE SPANISH LANGUAGE.

The Board of Trustees, at its late session, recognizing the growing importance of this language, have authorized its introduction into the course, and its acceptance as a substitute for certain of the texts in the college course marked thus* on page 25. It may be taken independently, or in connection with other studies. Students not advanced to college grade may take this study and apply their grades made in the Spanish, in substitution for the indicated studies, when reached in regular course. The historic value of the language, coupled with the growing demands which Mexico and the South American Republics are making upon our commerce, is emphasizing its importance to a marked degree, and it is purposed to enlarge this field of investigation by giving special attention to the tongue which is, practically speaking, the language of one half the Western Hemisphere. The natural, or colloquial, method of instruction will be used, giving special care to grammatical construction, nothing but the pure Castilian being used in the class room. Students who matriculate for full work in the Academic or College courses will have free tuition in the Spanish, while a charge of $10 per term will be made to those taking Spanish only.

ELOCUTION.

One hour of each week will be given to the study of Elocution, without extra charge by a most competent instructor, wherein the elementary principles will be thoroughly taught. For such students as may desire to take further or advanced instruction, special arrangements may be made with the professor of this department at reasonable rates.

Standard literature, in both prose and poetry, will be used as texts, the object being to give mind, body and voice such habits that a ready response to the best things in literature will be the result of this training.

The general principles of elocution will be presented in informal lectures, followed by individual application of those principles, both instructor and pupils, in and out of class, holding the maxim that all practice should tend toward the realization of high ideals.

POST-GRADUATE DEPARTMENT.

X.

For resident and non-resident students, the Board of Trustees has authorized the announcement of nine courses of Post-Graduate work—leading to the Master's degree and to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. These courses are—Political Science, History, Philosophy, Physical Science, Mathematics, Greek, Latin, English Literature, and one designated Eclectic. The last has Philosophy for major study throughout, and History, Political Science and English Literature as minors.

One year's work in any one of these with required thesis, and satisfactory examination, which must be undergone at the seat of the College, and payment of prescribed fees, will entitle the student to the Master's degree corresponding to the degree already received. A second year's work in the same course, or in any other of those specified, will lead to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The only exception to this is in connection with the Eclectic Course, which, if undertaken, must be completed.

The Board recommends every Bachelor to pursue post-graduate studies to the extent of at least one year's work. After 1898 no Master's degree in course will be conferred, except upon examination in Post-Graduate Studies.

The student may enter upon work at any time during the year, but a candidate for a degree at the next commencement must have all specified work completed by May 20. Matriculation fee, $5.00; yearly examination fee, $20.00, payable in installments. The diploma fee is $10.00. For further information as to authors, order of studies, amount of work, time and mode of examination, etc., address the Dean of the Post-Graduate Department.

XI.

MCKENDREE LAW SCHOOL.

The Law School has for years been an important department of the College. From its organization under the direction of Hon. Augustus C. French, LL. D., its graduates have proven the excellence of the training of the school by their qualifications for efficient practice in the courts. The old method of studying by private reading and apprenticeship in a lawyer's office has almost disappeared before the demand for the more thorough discipline of the school. The views of the profession upon the subject have been expressed by the American Bar Association, which declares that "the verdict of the best informed is in favor of law schools. They afford the student an acquaintance with general principles, difficult, if not impossible, to be otherwise obtained. They give him the valuable habit of attention, teach him familiar maxims and offer him the priceless opportunities which result from contact and generous emulation. Disputing, reasoning, reading and discussing, become his constant exercise."

Only those who are thoroughly grounded in the fundamental principles of law can hope for any marked degree of success at the bar. It is a knowledge of these principles and the reason of the law that the school aims to impart.

ADMISSION AND MODES OF STUDY.

While no examination for admission is required, it must be borne in mind that no one should undertake professional studies without considerable previous preparation.

A good common school education is an indispensable requisite and whenever practicable the applicant should have taken a full collegiate course. The students are required to carefully read and study the text books included in the course, and recite upon lessons previously assigned.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Junior Year.

Blackstone's Commentaries, Elements of Constitutional Law (Cooley), Real Property (Tiedemann), Contracts (Lawson or Bishop), Torts (Pollock, Cooley or Bigelow), Bills and Notes (Bigelow), Common Law Pleadings (Gould), Domestic Relations (Schouler).

Senior Year.

Kent's Commentaries, Evidence (Greenleaf, Vol. 1), Common Law Pleadings (Chitty, Vol. 1), Equity, (Bispham), Equity Pleadings (Story), Agency (Meacham), Bailments (Schouler), Corporations.

Students are expected to furnish their own text books.

NIGHT SCHOOL AT EAST ST. LOUIS.

A night school has been maintained in the city of East St. Louis for a number of years, and has met with favor among persons whose employment will not permit them to attend school during the day. The sessions are held in the evening between the hours of seven and ten o'clock and the students receive substantially the same instruction and advantages as those in attendance at the college, so far as the work of the Dean is concerned. The text-books are studied and like methods of instruction employed.

MOOT COURTS.

A moot court will be maintained, wherein the students will receive great benefit in the matter of preparing briefs, abstracts, etc., whereby they will gain good knowledge of the methods observed in actual practice before the courts. It is the intention to prepare students for the practice of the Law immediately after leaving school.

GRADUATION.

The degree of LL. B. is conferred upon those who have been in actual attendance upon the school for two years of thirty-six weeks each and who have passed a satisfactory examination in the prescribed course of study.

The diploma secures admission to the bar in this State.

Persons who have attended other law schools or who, on examination have shown themselves competent, may be admitted to advanced standing.

TUITION.

The charges for tuition will be $15 per term, payable at the opening of each term.

All correspondence in reference to the law school should be addressed to the President.

XII.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

INSTRUMENTAL DEPARTMENT.

A complete course of musical instruction, in pursuance of the new Goldbeck Method, has been laid out and will be employed in the training of pupils, and great pains will be taken for their technical and artistic development.

Pupils entering the regular course, when a certain degree of excellence is attained, will be required to perform at public rehearsals, concerts and various entertainments given at the College.

The course consists of three degrees or departments, each degree embracing seven grades. A grade with the average pupil, contemplates one term of twenty lessons.

FIRST DEGREE OR PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

First, Second and Third Grades: Goldbeck's Primary Method.

Fourth Grade: Part I of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing,

Fifth and Sixth Grades: Part II of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing.

Seventh Grade: Technical Foundation of Piano Playing Finished.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this Degree, or Department, will give a recital, and receive certificates for having accomplished the work of this department.

SECOND DEGREE OR INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT.

First and Second Grades: Part III of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Preparatory Octave Studies.

Third Grade: Part I of Goldbeck's twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes; General Piano Technics; Scales for Velocity.

Fourth Grade: Part II of Goldbeck's Twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes; General Piano Technics; the Scales.

Fifth and Sixth Grades: General Piano Technics; The Arpeggio.

Seventh Grade: General Piano Technics; The Octaves.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this Department give recitals, and receive their second certificate of qualification.

THIRD DEGREE OR COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

First Grade: Octave Studies Continued; Deus Etudes d' Extension. Second and Third Grades: General Piano Technics; The Thirds and Fifths; Selected Etudes from Chopin, Liszt, etc.

Fourth and Fifth Grades: General Piano Technics; the Trill; Selected Etudes Continued.

Sixth and Seventh Grades: Memorizing and completing Repertoire required before graduation.

Pupils completing this department satisfactorily will have attained a degree of proficiency as intelligent musicians, and artistic performers, that will fit them for favorable comparison with the graduates of the best European colleges of music.

In connection with the constant drill incident to the studies laid down, well chosen selections of music will be made, in the execution of which the principles taught will be constantly applied, giving variety and zest to the pupil, in the routine work connected with the complete mastery of the course.

The completion of the above course implies that pupils have taken, for at least two terms, instruction in theory and harmony, and that they will be prepared to pass satisfactory examinations, after which the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be conferred.

For particulars address Prof. F. Pesold.

XIII.

VOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Under the efficient direction, for the past two years, of Prof. M. Edwin Johnson, the Vocal Department has assumed proportions which admit of laying down a systematic course of instruction involving two years of study and practice, as follows:

FIRST YEAR.

Randegger's Voice Builder.
Concone, arranged by Randegger.
Bonaldi's Exercises.
Easy Solos, etc.

SECOND YEAR.

Concone's Second Lessons.
Bordogna's Exercises.
Concone's Third Lessons.
Panotka's Voice Work.
Classical Solos, in languages.

The completion of this course of study will entitle the student to the degree of Bachelor of Music, as may be directed by the Board of Trustees.

Special attention given to the study of Harmony, as also the training of choruses. In the latter marked success has been attained, as illustrated in the College Glee Club, which has achieved decided public distinction.

The Director of this department will also give instructions on the cornet.

For particulars and terms address Prof. M. Edwin Johnson.

XIV.

ART DEPARTMENT.

This department contemplates instruction in oil and water colors, monochromatics, etc. During the year the work of the pupils are held subject to the inspection of the public, and at the Commencement Anniversary the Art rooms are decorated with the work of the pupils, past and present, making a display of a most creditable character.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Good moral character is a necessary prerequisite for admission to any of the Departments connected with the College. The place to be occupied by candidates for enrollment in the various courses of study will be determined by their attainments, satisfactory evidence of which must be furnished to the Faculty prior to enrollment as students. The grades of good schools and colleges will be received as evidence of the attainments of candidates, and the grades of colleges of like standing with this will be recognized as satisfactory to determine the position of the applicant in the curriculum. The graduates of such High Schools, in this and other States, as have courses of study to warrant, will be admitted into the Collegiate Department without examination.

Where an applicant for enrollment has been a student in some other college, a certificate of honorable dismissal may be required before he will be permitted to enter.

Enrollment in any class or Department will be considered a pledge to observe all Rules and Regulations of the College.

GOVERNMENT AND RULES.

The government of the institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. Candidates for College honors are received as ladies and gentlemen, and, as a result, a long list of repressive rules are regarded as unnecessary. Pride of character on the part of the student is relied upon to secure the most satisfactory government. Since, however, every aggregation of individuals must have certain formal rules, for the convenience and better understanding of all the parties interested in attaining a common object, the following regulations have been established:

Good moral character, a prerequisite for entrance; all bills to be paid prior to entrance; students to be faithful and punctual at morning chapel service, recitations, and all other duties assigned them by the Faculty; to attend two services each Sabbath, at some one of the various churches in the city, and to assign, promptly, excuses for absence from or neglect of duty to the member of the Faculty before whom such duty should have been performed.

Scholastic training being the object to be attained, satisfactory recitations will be held as evidence of studious habits, while a failure in recitations will be taken as prima facie evidence of idleness, and students will be held to account for deficiencies in the recitation room.

It is almost unnecessary to state that the drinking of intoxicants, the frequenting of saloons or other places of questionable character, are strictly forbidden.

Students entering for work during any college term, and who are prompt in the attendance at recitations from the opening to the closing of such term, will have their standing determined by the grades made in daily recitations, and without examination at the close of the term.

The grade of "100" as a maximum shall, as heretofore, be the standard, and will be used during the term, by the various professors, for determining the standing of the students during such term, and a grade of "70" will be required to pass a student in any study.

All students having absences during the term, and who fail to make up the defaulted recitations occasioned by such absences, will be required to stand an examination before they are passed or advanced; while such students as leave before having completed the term's work will, on their return, be required to stand examination before being passed, or advanced and for such examination, outside the term in which such studies are pursued, a fee shall be charged by the professor conducting the examination, provided such fee shall not exceed $1.50 for each study on which an examination has been conducted.

Any student falling short of the passing grade shall be notified from time to time, by the professor to whom he recites, and on failure to at once make amends in his grades, he shall be reported to the Faculty, and may be dropped from the class wherein he falls short of attaining a passing grade.

Prompt attendance at chapel and church will be required. All unexcused absences therefrom shall be held as "demeanor marks." Demeanor marks, however, shall be entered in the permanent records of the college, together with the study grades, and on application of parents or others, desiring to know the standing of students, a statement of the demeanor as well as scholarship of any student of whom inquiry may be made, shall be furnished by the authorized officer of the Faculty.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS CULTURE.

While the College is denominational, it is in no sense sectarian. It welcomes those of other creeds and beliefs to its benefits and privileges, as also those who have no established denominational predilections. Good moral character, as elsewhere stated, is the only prerequisite for matriculation. To those having denominational preferences, the various churches established here afford young men and women who come as students ample opportunity to choose their places of worship. A college prayer meeting, under the supervision of some member of the Faculty, is held every Tuesday evening, to which all are cordially invited. These meetings have proven very effectual in encouraging those of religious inclination to higher attainments in Christian life, while their influence in leading others to consider the spiritual side of life has been of the most salutary character.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are three excellent literary societies—the Philosophian, Platonian and Clonian, the latter for ladies,—which hold weekly sessions, and where splendid work is done among their members along the various lines of literary labor. They are under the exclusive control of the students belonging to them, subject to certain regulations of the Board of Trustees and Faculty. Active membership is confined to such students as are actually enrolled in some of the departments connected with the College.

Regular requirements are made upon the membership in the form of essay writing, debate, declamation, and oratorical effort, which are of the most helpful character to the aspiring student. They are governed by parliamentary usage, and the generous and spirited rivalry to excel each other and win public favor proves a most wholesome stimulus in bringing out the latent faculties of all connected therewith. Many persons throughout the country, who have won distinction as platform speakers, attribute their success to their early training in these societies. It is recommended that all students identify themselves with one or the other of these organizations.

The initiation fee in either of the gentlemen's societies is $5; the ladies' society, $3. The dues in each of the gentlemen's society is 25 cents per term; in the ladies' society, 50 cents per term.

LIBRARIES.

The libraries of the College and literary societies contain about 8,000 volumes. The College library is accessible to all students, under rules established by the Board of Trustees. The libraries belonging to the literary societies are available to the members of the societies, under rules of their own making. Some very valuable additions have been made to the library during the year—notably from Col. Chas. W. Knapp, managing editor of the St. Louis Republic. Also from other sources smaller donations of valuable books have been received.

The authorities of the College cordially appreciate the thoughtful helpfulness of all such as hold the library of the College in remembrance by the donations of valuable books, for the reason that no more effective way can be adopted to do lasting good to the youthful student than by placing within his reach the best of authorities on all questions of public interest.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Literature, will be conferred on any who may have completed, in a satisfactory manner, the prescribed courses of study leading to such degrees, and students, to secure graduation, must needs be present in their classes at least two-thirds of the last two years of their course.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who may satisfactorily complete the course of study prescribed for the Law Department, and this degree will admit the holder to the Bar of the State without further examination.

After 1898 the Master's Degree in cursu will not be conferred. After that date candidates for that degree will be required to pursue a course of Post-Graduate study.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President at least sixty days before the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, and must be endorsed by at least three persons holding either the degree sought, or one of more honorable rank.

All diploma fees for degrees in course are fixed at $5.00, and for Honorary Degrees, $10.00.

Any graduate of McKendree pursuing Post-Graduate Studies, and taking the Master's Degree within three years of graduation, will be charged a diploma fee of $5.00. All other Post-Graduate diploma fees are fixed at $10.00.

EXPENSES.

The tuition fee charged for entrance into the Pre-Academic, Academic and Collegiate Courses is $12.00 per term. The incidental fees for library and Scientific Department are abolished—only $12 00 per term now being the net charge for tuition.

Fees in other departments are as follows:

Law School, tuition, per term .....	$15 00
Instrumental Music, tuition, per term .....	12 00
Art, tuition, per term .....	12 00
Post-Graduate, matriculation fee .....	5 00
Post-Graduate, yearly examination fee .....	20 00

DIPLOMA FEES.

Diploma fee, Collegiate Graduates .....	$ 5 00
Diploma fee, Law Graduates .....	5 00
Diploma fee, Musical Graduates .....	5 00
Diploma fee, Post-Graduate .....	10 00
Diploma fee, Honorary Degrees .....	10 00

Collegiate and Honorary Degree fees to be paid the President; the Law and Post-Graduate diploma fees to be paid the Deans of their respective departments; diploma fee in the Musical Department to be paid the Musical Instructor.

Good board in private families, fuel, lights, care of room included, at from $3 to $3.50 per week. In clubs the expense can be materially reduced, while some students board themselves at from $1.25 to $1 50 per week.

Students furnish their own text books, which can be procured here from the College bookseller.

THE McCULLAGH PRIZE.

This prize was established last year by the late Dr. J. B. McCullagh, managing editor of the Globe-Democrat. He proposed making it perpetual, but his sudden and accidental death left the matter unprovided for; but, for the coming year, certain of his friends have arranged for its repetition, by the end of which time it is hoped the permanent characteristics will be given to it contemplated by the author and in his name.

The offer is as follows: "I propose to give three prizes of $50, $30 and $20, respectively, for the best three condensations of a public speech to be selected by the President, a speech of 10,000 words to be put into 2,500 words. Those competing to imagine themselves to be reporters sent to listen to the speech and to report it in the space named. The report to be in the third person—not the first."

The award of prizes shall be made before the public on Commencement day, and all competitors, not later than sixty days prior to Commencement, shall report their names to the President, into whose hands the work of the competitors shall be placed for submittal to the judges not later than fifteen days before Commencement.

BRYAN MEDAL.

This prize is established by Hon. William Jennings Bryan, A. M., LL. D., in honor of his distinguished father, Judge Silas Lillard Bryan, A. M., who graduated at this institution in 1849. The following extract from the letter of Mr. Bryan explains the basis on which the prize is to be awarded:

"I offer to give to McKendree College $250 to be invested and the annual proceeds used for a medal to be awarded for the best essay on the theory of government, all details to be arranged by the Faculty or Trustees of the College.

"I will ask that the medal be known as the Silas Lillard Bryan Medal, in honor of my father, whose connection with the College will thus be preserved."

ELOCUTIONARY CONTEST.

On the last Friday evening of each year preceding Commencement day there will be held a public contest in elocution, wherein not less than six nor more than eight contestants will be allowed. A first and second prize will be awarded, the former in the sum of $15 and the latter $10.

The merits of the performers will be passed upon by three judges whose award will be made public at the close of the entertainment.

Members of the senior class and former successful competitors shall be ineligible as contestants, and those desiring to compete shall make known their purpose to the President not later than thirty days prior to the date of contest.

ALUMNI ROSTER.

Herewith, and for the first time, an alphabetical list of the Alumni is published. Heretofore, at irregular intervals, in the Annual Catalogue, a list has been published chronicling the members of the Association in classes, according to the years of their graduation. This form was very inconvenient for the reason that such a list involved a knowledge of the year in which any particular person graduated to conveniently find his or her name. The list as it now stands is imperfect. Many of those whose names are given are without citation as to their present location.

It is desired that the Alumni and friends assist in perfecting the record by furnishing us with all data of interest relating to its members, and we therefore ask that such as may discover omitted names or may have knowledge of the residence of any not given in this list will notify the President of the facts. It is the purpose in the next Catalogue, if practicable, to present a perfect list, with a brief biographical record of each member.

Any one observing mistakes or omissions, or who will aid us in perfecting the roster will perform a kind office by informing the President of the same.

Names in small caps represent deceased members.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE

The work of this department is Philosophy in its broadest sense. Since much of the subject matter is largely speculative, the student will be directed to the various views entertained on unsettled questions, and a course of reading will be indicated by the instructor which will aid the inquirer in reaching the better conclusions on all questions of debatable character. Students will be encouraged to ask questions, and the class-room will be held as a place for the freest interchange of conscientious opinion between teacher and student. In these studies one good text book will be taken as the basis of study and others will be used as reference books.

The following texts are used: Psychology, Brooks; Moral Philosophy, Winslow; Logic, Jevons; Sociology, Crafts; Political Economy, Ely; International Law, Woolsey; History of Philosophy, Haven.

The Bible is studied as a text book, both historically and critically.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The Course in Greek comprises thirteen terms' work. The aim is to give the student a good reading knowledge of the language, and as thorough an acquaintance as possible with Greek Literature and its relation to modern culture.

This study begins with the second year of the Academic Course.

FIRST YEAR—White's Beginner's Greek Book, and selections from Xenophon's Anabasis. Five hours a week. Collateral reading first year, Pennell's Ancient Greece and Grant's Life of Xenophon.

SECOND YEAR—One term in Xenophon's Anabasis and two in Homer, including selections from both the Iliad and Odyssey. Five hours a week, except last term.

Lectures on Greek Poetry and the Beginnings of Greek Literature.

THIRD YEAR—Xenophon's Memorabilia one term, three hours a week. Greek Oratory—Lysias' Orations one term, three hours a week, followed later in the course by Demosthenes, together with a comparative study of Attic Orators.

FOURTH YEAR—Greek Historians, two terms, reading selections from Herodotus and the seventh book of Thucydides.

LATIN LANGUAGES AND LITERATURE.

The study of Latin begins with the Academic Course and runs through sixteen terms. In this time, it is believed that a student can gain not only a knowledge of the structure of the language, but also an acquaintance with the best parts of the literature and its influence upon modern thought and literary activity. Throughout the course, careful attention is given to the study as a drill of the intellectual powers.

The Roman pronunciation is used.

1. In the Junior Academic, the student is made familiar with the parts of speech, paradigms and syntax, and acquires sufficient vocabulary to do easy translating. In the spring term, either the Viri Romae, Caesar or Nepos will be taken up. Fifteen chapters in the first book of Caesar, or an equivalent will be required.

The student must read privately Pennell's History of Ancient Rome, and Shakespeare's Julius Caesar.

2. During the Middle Year, four books of Caesar and six orations of Cicero will be read. One lesson a week will be devoted to Prose Composition. Lectures on Roman oratory and on Cicero's personal character will be delivered at suitable times.

3. Vergil will constitute the study of the fall and winter terms of the Senior Academic year, to be followed by Ovid in the spring term. Six books of the Aeneid and 1500 lines of Ovid will be the requirement. Prosody will be taught and illustrated in the daily readings. The student will be required to read privately Guerber's Myths of Greece and Rome.

4. The fall and winter terms of the Freshman year will be devoted to Livy. Books XXI and XXII will be read. Sight reading in Book I. Prose composition weekly. In the spring term, Horace will be taken up and selections will be read from the odes, satires and epistles. Lectures on Roman lyric poetry will be given. The private reading of Simcox's Roman Literature will be required.

5. The Minor Latin Poets will form the study of the fall term of the Sophomore year. Selections will be read from Catullus, Tibullus, Phaedrus, Seneca and Martial. During the latter part of the year, Cicero's philosophical writings will be taken up. Four plays of Terence or Plautus may be offered as a substitute.

A course of lectures on Roman life and literature will be delivered, illustrated, as far as practicable, by the use of the stereopticon.

6. Junior Course (elective). The winter term will be devoted to the study of Tacitus' Histories, as illustrating the higher qualities of the Roman historical style. Lectures will be delivered on the sources of historical material, etc.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The work in this department covers a period of four years, three of which are required in the scientific course, the fourth, or Junior year, being elective.

The following schedule indicates approximately the work done. Different texts are used from year to year, hence this schedule is subject to variation, but represents fairly the quantity and quality of the work:

German Grammar, with exercises, in translation and composition—two terms.

Brandt's German Reader—two terms.

Keller's Bilder aus der deutschen Literatur—one term.

Schiller's Wilhelm Tell and Jungfrau von Orleans—one term.

Modern German Novelists—one term.

Die Journalisten and some other play by Freytag—one term.

Lessing's Nathan der Weise—one term.

In the fourth year the character of the work will be decided largely by the requirements of students taking the same. It will consist of the analytical study of masterpieces, such as Goethe's Faust: also sufficient scientific German will be offered to give a good vocabulary in that field of work.

Opportunities will be presented for acquiring proficiency in speaking this language. The ability to read readily and pronounce correctly will be insisted upon as one condition of promotion from first year.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

1. A pre-academic course is provided for students who are poorly versed in the elementary principles of English grammar. Students coming from other schools should be familiar with the parts of speech and their inflections and uses, and be able to analyze moderately difficult sentences.

2. Junior Academic Course, Advanced English Grammar. Parsing and analysis, as well as regular practice in writing compositions will be required. Not so much attention will be given to the technical knowledge of the grammar as to the ability to understand and read intelligently and correctly the easier authors, and to write with accuracy the English language. For the year 1898-99 the student will be expected to read the following: Fall term, Robinson Crusoe, Evangeline; winter term, Scottish Chiefs, Tom Brown at Rugby; spring term, Swiss Family Robinson, Vision of Sir Launfal.

3. Middle Academic Course, Rhetoric and Composition. The student will be required to prepare frequent exercises upon subjects taken, in part, from a well selected course of reading. The topics will be so distributed as to illustrate the various types of discourse. The principles of sentential structure, paragraphing and outlining will receive strong emphasis. The reading of authors in the class and the drilling of the student in correct expression and interpretation will form a notable part of this course. The following readings are required for the year 1898-99: Fall term, The Last of the Mohicans, Hiawatha; winter term, Twice Told Tales; spring term, The Sketch Book, David Copperfield.

(4. Senior Academic Course. English Literature will comprise the study of the fall and winter terms. Emery's notes on English Literature will serve as a guide. Lectures will be delivered on the development of the literature and its distinctive phases in the various epochs. Extensive readings will be required. The end in view will be a correct taste and sympathetic regard for the best literature. Required readings for 1898-99: Chaucer's, The Knight's Tale, or Dryden's Palamon and Arcite; Milton's Paradise Lost, Books I and II; Pope's Iliad, Books I, VI, XXII and XXIV; The Sir Roger de Coverley Papers; The Vicar of Wakefield; Ivanhoe; Revolt of the Tartars.

The spring term will be devoted to the study of American literature. Watkin's American Literature will be used as a guide. Required readings: Orations of Clay, Calhoun and Webster; Holmes' Poems, or Longfellow's Poems; Hawthorne's The House of Seven Gables; Sidney Lanier's Poems.

5. Advanced Rhetoric will be the study of all Freshman students. A strong emphasis will be put upon the study of the fundamental principles of correct English styles. Theory and practice will be combined. Frequent themes will be required. The courses of reading will be extended, and will furnish material analysis. Special attention will be given to the study of the English Essay. For 1898-99, the the course of reading will be as follows: Macaulay's Essays on Milton, History, and Bacon; Emerson's Essays on Compensation and Heroism; DeQuincey's Confessions of an Opium Eater, Carlyle's Essays on Burns and Johnson; Arnold's Essay on The Function of Criticism.

MATHEMATICS.

The required courses in this department are: Algebra, Plane and Solid Geometry, Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Analytical Geometry and Conic Sections, Theory of Equations, and Astronomy. Differential and Integral Calculus is elective.

The work in this department is carried on by text-books and lectures: great stress being given to discipline in mathematical invention.

Algebra—Four terms, including theory of exponents, logarithms, chance, variation, binomial theorem and general theory of algebraic equations.

Geometry, Plane—Two terms. Special attention given to original propositions.

Geometry, Solid—One term. Wentworth's Geometry and Exercise Book.

Trigonometry, Plane and Spherical—Two terms, including the principles of Analytical Trigonometry with applications to solution of triangles, plane and spherical. Wheeler's Trigonometry, and lectures.

Analytical Geometry and Conic Sections—Two terms. Special attention given to plotting loci. The Conics are studied from the basis of the general equation of the second degree. Text book—Bailey and Woods,

Theory of Equations—One term. This course is a more extended study of the Algebraic equation; also Determinants and Invariants. This course is mainly lectures.

Calculus, Differential and Integral—Two terms. Application to problems in Mechanics. Theory of Limits. Byerly's Calculus, and lectures.

Astronomy—Two terms. This course gives a general knowledge of Mathematical Descriptive and Physical Astronomy. Young's General Astronomy.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCES.

"We learn to do by doing" is the motto of this department. The aim of the instruction is the habit of observation.

THE ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT.

Physiology, elementary and advanced and Physical Geography are taught the first year. The subject of Physiology is well illustrated by charts and skeletons, and Narcotics and Hygiene receive careful attention. Any reliable text book will answer the purpose the first term. Applied Physiology, by Overton, is used the third term.

FRESHMAN YEAR.

Physics begins the second term and is completed the third term. Student's Manual of Physics, by Cooley, is the text book used. From one to two hours per week are required in the laboratory. Special stress is placed upon the construction and use of simple and inexpensive apparatus.

SOPHOMORE YEAR.

Chemistry begins the first term and continues during the year. The third term is elective. The subject is presented by lecture and outline. At least three hours per week will be required in the laboratory the first term.

Botany begins the second term and is completed in the third term. "Botanist and Florist," by Woods, will be studied the second term, and the student will be required to analyze and mount twenty-five specimens the third term. Floriculture and horticulture are emphasized in connection with the text book study.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR YEARS.

Zoology—A published outline gives direction to this branch, and Holder's Zoology is recommended for reference. Field work, dissection and essays on various subjects are required.

Mineralogy—Twenty-five specimens are examined by blow-pipe analysis, and the subject is presented as a preparation for Geology.

Geology—The museum is well equipped for the study of this subject, and the text book used is Le Conte.

THE SPANISH LANGUAGE.

The two years during which this language and literature have been taught, have proven the wisdom of its introduction into the course, and it is to be noted that other western colleges are following the example. The historic value of the language, coupled with the growing demands which Mexico and the South American Republics are making upon our commerce, is emphasizing its importance to a marked degree, and it is purposed to enlarge this field of investigation by giving special attention to the tongue which is, practically speaking, the language of one-half the Western Hemisphere. The natural, or colloquial, method of instruction will be used, giving special care to grammatical construction. Nothing but the pure Castilian is used in the class room.

ELOCUTION.

Instruction equivalent to one hour each week during the college year will be given to all students, free of charge.

For such students as may desire to take further or advanced instruction, special arrangements may be made with the professor of this department at reasonable rates.

Standard literature, in both prose and poetry, will be used as texts, the object being to give mind, body and voice such habit that a ready response to the best things in literature will be the result of this training.

The general principles of elocution will be presented in informal lectures, followed by individual application of those principles, both instructor and pupils, in and out of class, holding the maxim that all practice should tend toward the realization of high ideals.

GRADUATE COURSES.

Students doing graduate work leading to the Master's degree, as also that of Doctor of Philosophy, must hold Bachelor's degrees from this institution or some other whose courses of study are equivalent to those of McKendree College. A Master's degree, corresponding to the Bachelor's degree, held by any candidate, will be conferred upon the student who successfully pursues the required course of study for one year, and presents a satisfactory original thesis of not less than 4,000 words upon some fitting and accepted theme.

Those pursuing the course an additional year, upon passing the required examinations and presenting thesis, which must give evidence of independent research in like manner as required for first year, if he shows a sufficiently high degree of scholarly attainment, may receive the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. It is to be understood that the degree of Doctor of Philosophy is not given for the mere reason of faithful study for a prescribed time, or on completion of any given course of study, but on the ground of long study and high attainments in a special branch of learning.

Application for matriculation shall be made to the President of the College, and accompanied with a fee of five dollars ($5.00). The examination fees are ($20.00) for each year's study, and the diploma fee for each degree taken is ten dollars ($10.00).

All theses shall be type written and presented to the President of the College not less than thirty days before Commencement day, and shall be passed upon by a committee from the Faculty, and then retained in the Library as the property of the College.

All candidates for degrees must stand personal examinations at the seat of the institution, where they shall spend not less than three months of the year prior to graduation in resident study.

The studies appear in sets under Roman numerals. Three sets of a course comprise a year's work. These courses, with the exceptions of B and H, comprise two years' work each, and must be taken as a whole.

Courses B and H articulate with each other.

COURSE E.—LATIN.

I

Roman Philosophy—As seen in Cicero and Lucretius. Selections will be read from Cicero's De Finibus, Academica and De Natura Deorum, and Lucretius' De Natura Rerum. Attention will be given to the literary value of these works and their systems of philosophy with relation to modern thought.

II

Roman Satire—As developed by Ennius, Pacuvius, Horace, Juvenal and Persius. Horace will be made the basis of comparative study. The influence of the Roman upon the English satirists will be noted.

III.

Development of the Roman Drama—Seneca's Tragedies will form the basis of study. Attention will also be given to the comic writers of the earlier period. Points of attack: the plot, character drawing, style, vocabulary, versification and ante-classical forms and constructions.

IV.

Roman Oratory—Based on Cicero's Brutus. Additional readings, Cicero's De Oratore, Tacitus' Dialogus and Quintilian's Institutes.

V.

Early Latin—Based on Allen's Remnant's of Early Latin, Merry's Fragments of Roman Poetry and Smith's Selections. This course will be studied from a philological as well as from a literary point of view.

VI.

Early Christian Literature—The writings of Tertullian and Augustine will be used as a guide to the prose literature.

Latin Christian Hymnology.

This course will place special emphasis on the decline of Pagan literature as seen in the syntax, vocabulary and general style; and the intellectual growth of Christianity as shown in writings of the first three Christian centuries.

Suggested Collateral Reading—Teuffel's History of Roman Literature, Sellar's Poets of the Republic.

For Course III—Klein's History of Roman Drama and Schlegel's Lectures on Dramatic Literature.

For Course VI—Milman's History of Latin Christianity.

COURSE F—ENGLISH.

I.

Development of the English Drama—Special attention will be given to the Elizabethan and Jacobean Epochs. The student must examine the sources of Shakespearean plots, and trace the growth of the Drama from the time of the first regular comedy and tragedy down to the closing of the theatres in 1642. Required readings from Marlowe, Chapman, Beaumont and Fletcher, Ford and Massinger; all the plays of Shakespeare.

II.

Growth of the English Novel—A survey of the field of English fiction must be made from Richardson and Fielding to the novelists of the nineteenth century. The distinguishing features, plots, characters, philosophies, and ethics must be considered.

Suggested Collateral Readings—Raleigh's English Novel, and Sidney Lanier's English Novel.

III.

English Romanticism—Influence of the Romantic school upon English Literature. Studies in the writings of Burns, Cowper, Byron, Shelley and other Romanticists of the Hanoverian era.

IV.

Critical Study of Tennyson and Browning—The characteristic poems of the two great Victorian poets will be read with a view of tracing "the growth of the mind and art" of each. The comparative study of their metaphysical teachings will be dwelt upon. How each handles the machinery of the long poem; the technical skill: the versification to be carefully noted.

Mrs. Orr's Life of Browning and Waugh's Life of Tennyson are suggested as collateral readings.

V.

Comparative Philosophy—A study of the principles of linguistic science, as set forth by Max Muller, Whitney and others. Reference is made to Prof. Max Muller's Science of Language, Dr. Whitney's Life and Growth of Language and The Study of Language, and Giles' Manual of Comparative Philology.

VI.

Study of Poetics—Based on:

Defense of Poesy. (Sidney, Shelley.)

What is Poetry? (Hunt.)

Aristotle's Poetics. (Newman.)

Primer of English Verse. (Corson.)

COURSE G.—MATHEMATICS.

I.

Differential and Integral Calculus—Advanced—This course presupposes at least two terms' study.

II.

Analytic Mechanics.

Theory of Equations—Determinants—Invariants.

This course requires a knowledge of the subject such as is found in the best college algebras.

III.

Modern Methods in Geometry:

Systems of Point and Line Co-ordinates. Projection, Inversion, etc.

This course requires a thorough knowledge of Geometry and Analytic Geometry.

IV.

Theory of Higher Plane Curves—Applications to Cubic and Quartic.

This course is based on Salmon's Higher Plane Curves.

V.

Infinite Series and Products:

A knowledge of Course I is necessary.

History of Mathematics. (Ball.)

VI.

Theory of Functions of Real and Complex Variables.

Knowledge of Courses I and IV is necessary.

COURSE H.—PHYSICAL SCIENCE.

I.

Popular Science Lectures. (Helmholtz.)

Conservation of Energy. (Stewart.)

The Human Species. (Quatrefages.)

The Vegetable World. (Figuier.)

II.

Sound. (Blaserna.)

Lectures on Light. (Tyndall.)

Volcanoes. (Judd.)

III.

The New Chemistry. (Cooke.)

Electricity and Magnetism. (Thompson.)

Earthquakes. (Winchell.)

Lives of Eminent Scientists. (Tait.)

MCKENDREE LAW SCHOOL.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The design of the school is to afford such a training in the fundamental principles of the Common Law as to fit the student for practice wherever those principles prevail. In the study of these general principles, any changes made in them by legislation or the method of their application to particular cases arising in the courts of Illinois, are noticed and explained. To furnish the basis for such instruction, the following course is pursued:

FIRST YEAR.

Fall Term—

Fishback's Manual.
Torts—Webb's Pollock.
Blackstone's Commentaries.
Domestic Relations—Schouler.

Winter Term—

Blackstone's Commentaries.
Walker's American Law.
Lawson on Contracts.
Gould on Pleading.

Spring Term—

Blackstone's Commentaries.
Personal Property.
Benjamin's Principles, with Tiedeman on Sales.
Bailments—Lawson.

SECOND YEAR.

Fall Term—

Kent's Commentaries.
Real Property—Tiedeman.
Torts—Cooley, with Cases.
Common Law Pleading—Stephen and Chitty.
Evidence.

Winter Term—

Kent's Commentaries.
Real Property—Tiedeman.
Equity Jurisprudence—Bispham.
Torts—Cooley, with Cases.
Illinois Practice.
Moot Court.

Spring Term—

Kent's Commentaries.
Bills and Notes—Tiedeman.
Real Property.
Equity Pleading and Practice—Story.

THIRD YEAR.

Fall Term—

Constitutional Law—Cooley, with the Constitutions of the United States and Illinois.
Corporations—Elliott.
Criminal Law and Procedure.
Review of work in preceding two years.

Winter Term—

Wills and the Law of Administrations.
Principal and Agent.
Practice and Preparation of Records.
Legal Ethics.
Reviews.

Spring Term—

Law of Damages.
Partnerships—Study of Cases—Wambaugh.
Practice.
Reviews.

In addition to the work to be studied and recited upon in the class, a course of supplementary reading will be required. These courses are as follows: For the first year, the Lectures of Judge Wilson on Jurisprudence and Political Science, (Andrew's Edition) and Dillon's Laws and Jurisprudence of England and America.

For the second year, Lectures on the Common Law, by Judge Oliver Wendell Holmes; Ancient Law, by H. S. Maine, and Holland's Elements of Jurisprudence. Upon these courses of supplementary reading examinations will be held, and sound knowledge of same required in order to graduation.

PRIZES.

The Edward Thompson Company will give a set of their American and English Encyclopedia of Law, or of Practice and Pleading to the student preparing the best thesis on a subject assigned by the faculty, under rules prescribed by the faculty.

MOOT COURT.

During the course a Moot Court is conducted, where the student is required to begin and prosecute suits through all their stages as in actual practice. It is the constant effort to develop in the student habits of thinking in a judicial way. Time has come when the man who enters upon the practice of the law must lay his foundation deep in its rudiments. He must know the law as it is and possess a knowledge of its repositories. It is the purpose of this school to render such aid as schools can for the attainment of this end.

PRIVILEGES OF STUDENTS.

All law students have the benefit of the two excellent literary societies of McKendree College upon the same terms as other students. In this way they are brought in contact with young gentlemen of the best character and moved by the highest incentives. The faculty of debate and the habit of concise thought and good language, so essential to the highest attainments, are developed. Students also have free access to the library of the University and may pursue, free of further charge, special studies taught in the college. These studies must be such as can be pursued without detriment to the law studies and in strict conformity with the rules of the College.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION.

The method of instruction is by recitation from the text assigned, or by recitation upon subjects specifically assigned for investigation. This instruction is supplemented by lectures by the Dean or instructors upon the subjects studied and upon special topics by gentlemen of recognized ability selected on account of their peculiar fitness. A course of instruction is given upon the method of using decided cases in practice and the principles of criticism of cases cited as authority.

DEGREES.

The Degree of LL. B. will be conferred upon those students who have been in actual attendance upon the school for three full years of thirty-six weeks each, and who shall have passed a satisfactory examination in the prescribed course of study and supplementary reading. Persons who have attended other law schools, or who have for one or two years read in the office of a lawyer or firm of lawyers engaged in actual practice may, upon satisfactory proof of that fact be admitted to advanced standing, and by passing a satisfactory examination upon the three years' course will be entitled to the degree. Provided: Such students must attend the school for one year of thirty-six weeks.

BOOKS.

Students furnish their own books. They should bring with them Hurd's or Starr & Curtiss' Statutes of Illinois, Puterbaugh's or Shinn's Common Law and Chancery Practice, and a good Law Dictionary. It will be well for students also to bring with them any good text-book they may have for references. Arrangements have been made by which books can be bought at the very lowest prices.

EXPENSES.

Tuition is $15 per term in advance. Five dollars will be charged for the diploma. Good board can be had at from $2.25 to $3.50 per week.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

---

PIANO COURSE.

A complete course of musical instruction, in pursuance of the new Goldbeck Method, has been laid out and will be employed in the training of pupils, and great pains will be taken for their technical and artistic development.

Pupils entering the regular course, when a certain degree of excellence is attained, will be required to perform at public rehearsals, concerts and various entertainments given at the College.

The course consists of three degrees or departments, each degree embracing seven grades. A grade with the average pupil, contemplates one term of twenty lessons.

FIRST DEGREE OR PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

First, Second and Third Grades: Goldbeck's Primary Method.

Fourth Grade: Part I of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing.

Fifth and Sixth Grades: Part II of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing.

Seventh Grade: Technical Foundation of Piano Playing Finished.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this degree or department, will give a recital, and receive certificates for having accomplished the work of this department.

SECOND DEGREE OR INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT.

First and Second Grades: Part III of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Preparatory Octave Studies.

Third Grade: Part I of Goldbeck's Twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes; General Piano Technics; Scales for Velocity.

Fourth Grade: Part II of Goldbeck's Twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes; General Piano Technics; the Scales.

Fifth and Sixth Grades: General Piano Technics: The Arpeggio.

Seventh Grade: General Piano Technics; The Octaves.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this department, give recitals, and receive their second certificate of qualification.

THIRD DEGREE OR COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

First Grade: Octave Studies Continued; Deus Etudes d' Extension.

Second and Third Grades: General Piano Technics: The Thirds and Fifths: Selected Etudes from Chopin, Liszt, etc.

Fourth and Fifth Grades: General Piano Technics: the Trill: Selected Etudes Continued.

Sixth and Seventh Grades. Memorizing and Completing Repertoire before graduation.

Pupils completing this department satisfactorily will have attained a degree of proficiency as intelligent musicians and artistic performers, that will fit them for favorable comparison with the graduates of the best European colleges of music.

In connection with the constant drill incident to the studies laid down, well chosen selections of music will be made, in the execution of which the principles taught will be constantly applied, giving variety and zest to the pupil, in the routine work connected with the complete mastery of the course.

The completion of the above course implies that pupils have taken, for at least two terms, instruction in theory and harmony, and that they will be prepared to pass satisfactory examinations, after which the degree of Bachelor of Music may be conferred.

ORCHESTRA COURSE.

VIOLIN, MANDOLIN, CORNET, FLUTE, ETC.

First Grade: Hohmann's Violin School, Books 1, 2 and 3. Julius Weiss' easy duets and progressive studies.

Second Grade: Hohmann's Violin School, Books 4 and 5. Studies by Dancla, Mazas, Kayser, and pieces by modern composers.

Third Grade: Studies by Dancla, Rode, Mazas and Hermann. Sonatas by Haydn and Mozart. Kreutzer's Etudes. Exercises from Spohr and Rode. Fantasies by Bohm and Vieuxtemps.

Fourth Grade: Concertos by Ernst, Kreutzer, De Beriot and Viotti, Spohr, Bach.

Pupils who expect to graduate in orchestra must also take the course in Piano and Theory of Music.

VOICE COURSE.

First Grade: Lessons in deep breathing. Tone work for placing the voice supplemented by exercises in uniting the registers. Elementary exercises and vocalizations, selected from Marchesi, Concone and Abt.

---

Second Grade: Continuation of first grade work, with more advanced study of scales, arpeggios and trills. Vocalises with syllables and words. Italian studies of Vaccai and Marchesi. Songs from the best English, German and French composers. Part singing and choral work.

Third Grade: Progressive work in studies for flexibility. Advanced studies of Abt, Marchesi, Sieber and others. Study of easy arias from the operas and oratorios. Special attention will be given to the enunciation of the english words, and to the pronunciation of the Italian.

Fourth Grade: More advanced work in the studies named. Arias from the Italian and German operas and standard oratorios. Special attention will be given to sacred music, both hymns and solos.

Candidates for graduation must have completed the third grade of the intermediate department of the piano course, Goldbeck's Elements of Harmony and Outlines of History of Music, supplemented by readings selected by the instructor. Class work in choral and sight-singing is required throughout the course.

In these courses, students may enter at any time, their term opening with the first lesson. A term consists of twenty full hour lessons.

Tuition is payable strictly in advance. No deduction made for absences except in case of protracted illness.

Students who have no musical instruments at home may arrange for practice at the Conservatory at reasonable rates.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Good moral character is a necessary prerequisite for admission to any of the Departments connected with the College. The place to be occupied by candidates for enrollment in the various courses of study will be determined by their attainments, satisfactory evidence of which must be furnished to the Faculty prior to enrollment as students. The grades of good schools and colleges will be received as evidence of the attainments of candidates, and the grades of colleges of like standing with this will be recognized as satisfactory to determine the position of the applicant in the curriculum. The graduates of such High Schools, in this and other states, as have courses of study to warrant, will be admitted into the Collegiate Department without examination.

Where an applicant for enrollment has been a student in some other college, a certificate of honorable dismissal may be required before he will be permitted to enter.

Enrollment in any class or Department will be considered a pledge to observe all Rules and Regulations of the College.

GOVERNMENT AND RULES.

The government of the institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. Students enrolling are received as ladies and gentlemen, and, as a result, a long list of repressive rules is regarded as unnecessary. Pride of character on the part of the student is relied upon to secure the most satisfactory government. Since, however, every aggregation of individuals must have certain formal rules, for the convenience and better understanding of all the parties interested in attaining a common object, the following regulations have been established:

Good moral character, prerequisite for entrance; all bills to be paid prior to entrance; students to be faithful and punctual at morning chapel service, recitations, and all other duties assigned them by the Faculty; to attend two services each Sabbath, at some one of the various churches in the city, and to assign, promptly, excuses for absence from or neglect of duty to the member of the Faculty before whom such duty should have been performed.

Scholastic training being the object to be attained, satisfactory recitations will be held as evidence of studious habits, while a failure in recitations will be taken as prima facie evidence of idleness, and students will be held to account for deficiencies in the recitation room.

It is almost unnecessary to state that the drinking of intoxicants, the frequenting of saloons or other places of questionable character, are strictly forbidden.

Students entering for work during any college term, and who are prompt in the attendance at recitations from the opening to the closing of such term, will have their standing determined by the grades made in daily recitations, and without examination at the close of the the term.

All students not entering at the beginning of each term, or having unexcused absences during the term, will be required to stand an examination before they are passed or advanced; while such students as leave before having completed the term's work will, on their return, be required to stand examination before being passed, or advanced, and for such examination, outside the term in which such studies are pursued, a fee shall be charged by the professor conducting the examination, provided such fee shall not exceed $1.50 for each study on which an examination has been conducted.

Any student falling short of the passing grade of 70 per cent shall be notified from time to time, by the professor to whom he recites, and on failure to at once make amends in his grades, he shall be reported to the Faculty, and may be dropped from the class wherein he falls short of attaining a passing grade.

Any person not regularly enrolled in college, and desiring examinations, shall be charged regular tuition fees, and if such examination be special, an extra fee of $1.50 shall be charged.

Application for such examination shall be made to the Professor in charge not less than ten days before examination.

Prompt attendance at chapel and church will be required. All unexcused absences therefrom shall be held as "demeanor marks." Demeanor marks, however, shall be entered in the permanent records of the college, together with the study grades, and on application of parents or others, desiring to know the standing of students, a statement of the demeanor as well as scholarship of any student of whom inquiry may be made, shall be furnished by the Secretary of the Faculty.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS CULTURE.

While the college is denominational, it is in no sense sectarian. It welcomes those of other creeds and beliefs to its benefits and privileges, as also those who have no established denominational predilections. Good moral character, as elsewhere stated, is the only prerequisite for matriculation. To those having denominational preferences, the various churches established here afford young men and women who come as students ample opportunity to choose their places of worship.

A college Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. have been established in connection with the institution, and each hold weekly prayer meetings. These meetings have proven an efficient means of grace and a potent influence for religious culture among the students.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are three excellent literary societies—the Philosophian, Platonian and Clonian, the latter for ladies—which hold weekly sessions, and where splendid work is done among their members along the various lines of literary labor. They are under the exclusive control of the students belonging to them, subject to certain regulations of the Board of Trustees and Faculty.

No person shall be permitted to become a member of the college societies until he shall have regularly matriculated with the President of the college, or identified himself with some department of the college and by the head of that department been certified over to the President as a bona fide student in regular attendance at the seat of the college.

Regular requirements are made upon the membership in the form of essay writing, debate, declamation, and oratorical effort, which are of the most helpful character to the aspiring student. They are governed by parliamentary usage, and the generous and spirited rivalry to excel each other and win public favor proves a most wholesome stimulus in bringing out the latent faculties of all connected therewith. Many persons throughout the country, who have won distinction as platform speakers, attribute their success to their early training in these societies. It is recommended that all students identify themselves with one or the other of these organizations.

By order of the Board of Trustees no person shall be allowed to appear a second time in performance in response to an encore, at any entertainment given under the auspices of the college or any of its societies.

The initiation fee in either of the gentlemen's societies is $5; the ladies' society, $3. The dues in each of the gentlemen's society is 25 cents per term; in the ladies' society, 50 cents per term.

LIBRARIES.

The libraries of the college and literary societies contain about 8,000 volumes. The college library is accessible to all students, under the rules established by the Board of Trustees. The libraries belonging to the literary societies, are available to the members of the societies under rules of their own making. Some very valuable additions have been made to the library during the year—notably, a gift of 800 volumes from Hon. W. A. J. Sparks, of St. Louis, and one from Rev. Joseph Harris, of St. Louis, of 174 volumes, together with a large consignment of periodicals. Also from other sources smaller donations of valuable books have been received.

The authorities of the college cordially appreciate the thoughtful helpfulness of all such as hold the library of the college in remembrance by the donations of valuable books, for the reason that no more effective way can be adopted to do lasting good to the youthful student than by placing within his reach the best of authorities on all questions of public interest.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science will be conferred on any person who may have completed, in a satisfactory manner, the prescribed courses of study leading to such degrees, and students, to secure such graduation, must needs be present in their classes at least two-thirds of the last two years of their course.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who may satisfactorily complete the course of study prescribed for the Law Department, in pursuance of the recent ruling of the Illinois Supreme Court.

The degree of Bachelor of Music will be conferred upon all who may satisfactorily complete the course of study prescribed for the Department of Music.

Concerning degree of Master of Arts or Science or Doctor of Philosophy see Graduate Department.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President at least sixty days before the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, and must be endorsed by at least three persons holding either the degree sought, or one of more honorable rank.

EXPENSES.

The tuition fee charged for entrance into the Pre-Academic, Academic and Collegiate Courses is $12.00 per term. The incidental fees for Library and Scientific Department are abolished—only $12.00 per term now being the net charge for tuition.

Fees in other departments are as follows:

BRYAN MEDAL.

This prize is established by Hon. William Jennings Bryan, A. M., LL. D., in honor of his distinguished father, Judge Silas Lillard Bryan, A. M., who graduated at this institution in 1849. The following extract from the letter of Mr. Bryan explains the basis on which the prize is to be awarded:

"I offer to give to McKendree College $250 to be invested, and the annual proceeds used for a medal to be awarded for the best essay on the theory of government, all details to be arranged by the Faculty or Trustees of the college.

"I will ask that the medal be known as the Silas Lillard Bryan Medal, in honor of my father, whose connection with the college will thus be preserved."

ELOCUTIONARY CONTEST.

On the last Friday evening of each year preceding Commencement day, there will be held a public contest in elocution, wherein not less than six nor more than eight contestants will be allowed. A first and second prize will be awarded. the former in the sum of $15, and the latter $10.

The merits of the performers will be passed upon by three judges, whose award will be made public at the close of the entertainment.

Members of the senior class and former successful competitors shall be ineligible as contestants, and those desiring to compete shall make known their purpose to the President not later than thirty days prior to the date of contest.

ORATORICAL PRIZES.

The Perry School of Oratory, of St. Louis, offers two prizes to successful competitors from among McKendree students for the composition and delivery of orations. The first prize will be $15, and the second, $5. Rules governing the award to be given out at least three months prior to the contest, which will occur near the close of the third term.

ALUMNI ROSTER.

This Alumni list is alphabetically reproduced to the end that further corrections may be made to perfect it as to the address of parties whose whereabouts is still unknown. It will be observed that the present location of many of its members has been discovered by reason of its publication last year. It is hoped that all members will interest themselves in this matter that a perfect roster may be secured as a preliminary to the publication of biographical sketches of all the members of the association.

HISTORICAL.

McKendree College, first organized in 1828, as "Lebanon Seminary," is the oldest institution of learning in the West dedicated, from its inception, to higher education. Indeed, there is no other in the United States, connected with the "University Senate," the origin of which, under like auspices, antedates McKendree.

The pioneer settlers interested in this early educational movement, were among the most progressive citizens from the older States, as is attested by the course of study prescribed in the original articles of organization, which, after naming the ordinary branches usually taught at that time in Seminaries, also provided for the philosophies, the higher mathematics, Greek and Latin.

The broad and thorough spirit of this educational movement early attracted the attention of Bishop McKendree—the first American Bishop of his church—and in 1830, by a resolution of the Board of Managers of the "Lebanon Seminary," the name of the institution was changed to "McKendree College."

Taking the institution under his fostering care, his Illinois landed estate was disposed of in the interest of McKendree College by a committee composed of the Board of Bishops of the then undivided Methodist Episcopal Church—Roberts, Hedding, Andrew, Waugh, Morris, and Soule—appointed by patron the Bishop, to execute the trust.

The original subscription to the fund for founding "Lebanon Seminary" is still preserved, and shows an aggregate of $1,385.

The first principal employed was "Mr. E. R. Ames," subsequently the great diplomat Bishop of the church "at $25 per month." His assistant was Miss McMurphy whose great excellence as a teacher is attested by a resolution of the Board of Trustees entered of record—probably the first lady teacher connected with college work in the history of education.

In 1835 the institution was chartered by the Illinois Legislature as the "McKendrian College," which being a slight error as to name, was corrected to "McKendree College" in a new charter granted by the Legislature in 1839.

The charter is one conferring the largest University privileges, and was pressed through the Legislature by no less a personage than Abraham Lincoln. The first President of the College was Rev. Peter Akers, D. D., one of the most distinguished men of his time in ecclesiastical circles.

More than 8,000 students have been educated at McKendree, over 700 of which number have taken degrees.

Recently the long-standing and burdensome debt against the institution has been wholly liquidated, several thousand dollars of improvements, including a complete steam heat plant, have been made thereby modernizing the buildings, placing the College in line with the best in the State in the matter of both comfort and convenience.

Plans are now matured for the means to generously endow the College of Liberal Arts, and to enlarge the usefulness of the institution by establishing such additional departments as will bring it up to university proportions, as provided in its exceptionally liberal charter.

LOCATION.

Lebanon, Illinois, the seat of McKendree College, is one of the most healthful and handsome little inland cities in the West.

It is situated on the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway, 24 miles from the city of St. Louis. The location is a high rolling table land, beautifully shaded, and its elevation is such that its approach from all quarters is in the truest sense picturesque in character.

The city is lighted with electricity, and a movement is now being agitated for putting in water works and the construction of a trolley line to connect the seat of the institution with the city of St. Louis.

On the east and west are two live creeks, which unite south of the town, and flow into the Kaskaskia river. These two streams form a delta of several thousand acres of land, under which — at a depth of from 40 to 70 feet — is an inexhaustible supply of pure water, sufficient to meet the requirements of a city of many thousand population.

Perfect drainage and an abundant supply of water — the two most desirable features for communities of large proportions — coupled with the new movement being inaugurated for endowing and enlarging the usefulness of the College, is now attracting unusual attention, and the indications point to the conclusion that Lebanon will soon be made the great educational suburb of St. Louis.

As might be expected, in a locality which has been the seat of an institution of learning for more than seventy years, the people of the community are refined and social, while the moral surroundings are of such a character as to make it an inviting place to parents desirous of having their children under proper influences, while in pursuit of an education.

The Baptist, Catholic, German Evangelical, Methodist, and Presbyterian churches all have flourishing organizations in Lebanon.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

The work of this department is Philosophy in its broadest sense. Since much of the subject-matter is largely speculative, the student will be directed to the various views entertained on unsettled questions, and a course of reading will be indicated by the instructor which will aid the inquirer in reaching the better conclusions on all questions of debatable character. Students will be encouraged to ask questions, and the class-room will be held as a place for the freest interchange of conscientious opinion between teacher and student. In these studies one good text-book will be taken as the basis of study and others will be used as reference books.

The following texts are used: Psychology, Brooks; Moral Philosophy, Hyslop; Logic, Jevons; Sociology, Crafts; Political Economy, Ely; International Law, Woolsey; History of Philosophy, Haven.

The Bible is studied as a text-book, both historically and critically.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The course in Greek comprises thirteen terms' work. The aim is to give the student a thorough structural knowledge of the language, and as complete an acquaintance as possible with Greek Literature and its relation to modern culture.

This study begins with the second year of the Academic Course.

FIRST YEAR — White's Beginner's Greek Book, and selections from Xenophon's Anabasis; five hours a week. Collateral reading, Pennell's Ancient Greece and Grant's Life of Xenophon.

SECOND YEAR — One term in Xenophon's Anabasis and two in Homer, including selections from both the Iliad and Odyssey. Five hours a week, except last term.

Lectures on Greek Poetry and the Beginnings of Greek Literature.

THIRD YEAR — Xenophon's Memorabilia one term, three hours a week. Greek Oratory — Lysias' Orations one term, three hours a week, followed later in the course by Demosthenes, together with a comparative study of Attic Orators.

FOURTH YEAR — Greek Historians, two terms, reading selections from Herodotus and the seventh book of Thucydides.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The study of Latin begins with the Academic Course and runs through sixteen terms. In this time, it is believed that a student can gain not only a knowledge of the structure of the language, but also an acquaintance with the best parts of the literature and its influence upon modern thought and literary activity. Throughout the course, careful attention is given to the study as a drill of the intellectual powers.

The Roman pronunciation is used.

1. In the Junior Academic, the student is made familiar with the parts of speech, paradigms and syntax, and acquires sufficient vocabulary to do easy translating. In the spring term, either the Viri Romae, Caesar or Nepos will be taken up. Fifteen chapters in the first book of Caesar, or an equivalent will be required.

The student must read privately Plutarch's Life of Caesar, and Shakespeare's Julius Caesar.

2. During the Middle Year, four books of Caesar and six orations of Cicero will be read. One lesson a week will be devoted to Prose Composition. Lectures on Roman oratory and on Cicero's personal character will be delivered at suitable times.

3. Virgil will constitute the study of the fall and winter terms of the Senior Academic year, to be followed by Ovid in the spring term. Six books of the Æneid and 1,500 lines of Ovid will be the requirement. Prosody will be taught and illustrated in the daily readings. The student will be required to read privately Guerber's Myths of Greece and Rome.

4. The fall and winter terms of the Freshman year will be devoted to Livy. Books XXI and XXII will be read. Sight reading in Book I. Prose composition weekly. In the spring term, Horace will be taken up and selections will be read from the odes, satires, and epistles. Lectures on Roman lyric poetry will be given. The private reading of Simcox' Roman Literature will be required.

5. The Minor Latin Poets will form the study of the fall term of the Sophomore year. Selections will be read from Catullus, Tibullus, Phaedrus, Seneca, and Martial. During the latter part of the year,

Cicero's philosophical writings will be taken up. Four plays of Terence or Plautus may be offered as a substitute.

A course of lectures on Roman life and literature will be delivered, illustrated, as far as practicable, by the use of the stereopticon.

6. Junior Course (elective). The winter term will be devoted to the study of Tacitus' Histories, as illustrating the higher qualities of the Roman historical style. Lectures will be delivered on the sources of historical material, etc.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The work in this department covers a period of four years, three of which are required in the scientific course, the fourth, or Junior year, being elective.

The following schedule indicates approximately the work done. Different texts are used from year to year, hence this schedule is subject to variation, but represents fairly the quantity and quality of the work: —

German Grammar, with exercises in translation and composition — two terms.

Easy German stories — one term.

Modern German novelists — one term.

Keller's Bilder aus der deutschen Litteratur — one term.

Schiller's Wilhelm Tell and Jungfrau von Orleans — one term.

Historical German Prose — one term.

Die Journalisten and some other play by Freytag — one term.

Lessing's Nathan der Weise — one term.

In the fourth year the character of the work will be decided largely by the requirements of students taking the same. It will consist of the analytical study of masterpieces, such as Goethe's Faust; also sufficient scientific German will be offered to give a good vocabulary in that field of work.

Opportunities will be presented for acquiring proficiency in speaking this language. The ability to read readily and pronounce correctly will be insisted upon as one condition of promotion from first year.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

Pre-academic instruction is given to students coming from other schools not fully prepared for admission into the Academic Course.

2. Junior Academic Course, Advanced English Grammar. Parsing and analysis, as well as regular practice in writing compositions will be required. Not so much attention will be given to the technical knowledge of the grammar as to the ability to understand and read intelligently and correctly the easier authors, and to write with accuracy the English language. For the year 1899-1900 the student will be expected to read the following: Fall term, Robinson Crusoe, Evangeline; Winter term, Scottish Chiefs, Tom Brown's School Days at Rugby; Spring term, Swiss Family Robinson, Vision of Sir Launfal.

3. Middle Academic Course, Rhetoric and Composition. The student will be required to prepare frequent exercises upon subjects taken, in part, from a well-selected course of reading. The topics will be so distributed as to illustrate the various types of discourse. The principles of sentential structure, paragraphing and outlining will receive strong emphasis. The reading of authors in the class and the drilling of the student in correct expression and interpretation will form a notable part of this course. The following readings are required for the year 1899-1900. Fall term, The Last of the Mohicans, and The Princess; Winter term, Silas Marner, and Twice Told Tales; Spring term, The Sketch Book, and David Copperfield.

4. Senior Academic Course. English Literature will comprise the study of the fall and winter terms. Emery's notes on English Literature will serve as a guide. Lectures will be delivered on the development of the literature and its distinctive phases in the various epochs. Extensive readings will be required. The end in view will be a correct taste and sympathetic regard for the best literature. Required readings for 1899-1900: Chaucer's, The Knight's Tale, or Dryden's Palamon and Arcite; Paradise Lost, Books I and II; Pope's Iliad, Books I, VI, XXII and XXIV; The Sir Roger de Coverley Papers; The Vicar of Wakefield; Ivanhoe; Revolt of the Tartars.

The spring term will be devoted to the study of American literature. Watkin's American Literature will be used as a guide. Required readings: Orations of Clay, Calhoun, and Webster; Holmes' Poems, or Longfellow's Poems; Hawthorne's The House of Seven Gables; Sidney Lanier's Poems.

5. Advanced Rhetoric will be the study of all Freshman students. A strong emphasis will be put upon the study of the fundamental principles of correct English style. Theory and practice will be combined. Frequent themes will be required. The courses of reading will be extensive and will furnish material for analysis. Special attention will be given to the study of the English Essay. For 1899-1900, the course of reading will be as follows: Macaulay's Essays on Milton, History, and Bacon; Emerson's Essays on Compensation and Heroism; DeQuincey's Confessions of an Opium Eater, Carlyle's Essays on Burns and Johnson; Arnold's Essay on The Function of Criticism.

MATHEMATICS.

ACADEMIC.

Algebra — Four terms, five hours per week. Advanced work includes ratio and proportion, progressions, binomial theorem, variation, theory of limits, series, undetermined coefficients, logarithms, continued fractions. Wentworth's Algebra.

Geometry — Two terms, five hours per week, includes the essentials of plane geometry and special attention given to original propositions.

FRESHMAN YEAR.

Geometry — One term, five hours per week, includes the plane, and line in space, solids, polyhedron, cylinder, pyramid, cone, sphere and conic sections. Wentworth's Geometry.

Trigonometry — Two terms, four hours per week, includes functions of angles, goniometry, solutions of right and oblique and spherical triangles with a great deal of problem work, and applications, together with use of transit. Wheeler's Trigonometry.

SOPHOMORE YEAR.

Analytical Geometry — Two terms, five hours per week, including a close study of the transformation of co-ordinates, plotting of loci, and limiting cases of loci, the straight line, conics studied from the general equation of the second degree. Special attention given to poles and polars. Solid analytic geometry. Bailey and Wood's Text.

Theory of Equation — One term, three hours per week, a more extended study of the algebraic equation, its roots and transformations, also invariants, and covariants, determinants, solutions of the cubic and biquadratic equations. Lectures.

JUNIOR YEAR (ELECTIVE.)

Calculus — Three terms, four hours per week, including differentiation, and its application to mechanics and problems of maxima and minima, development into series, indeterminate forms, functions of several variables, curve tracing, integration, and deriving of forms of integration, infinitesimals, differentials, the definite integral, computation of areas, etc. Byerly's Text.

Dynamics — This is a short elementary course given in connection with the calculus (elective).

Astronomy — One term, four hours per week. This course includes the study of the celestial sphere, astronomical instruments, the solar system, eclipses, tides, the stars, and constellations. Young's Elements of Astronomy.

Students are required to study the heavens by use of telescope.

PHYSICS AND NATURAL SCIENCES.

THE ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT.

Physiology, elementary and advanced, and Physical Geography, are taught the first year. The subject of Physiology is well illustrated by charts and skeletons, and Narcotics and Hygiene receive careful attention. Any reliable text-book will answer the purpose the first term. Applied Physiology, by Overton, is used the third term.

FRESHMAN YEAR.

Physics begins the second term and is completed the third term. Student's Manual of Physics, by Cooley, is the text-book used. From one to two hours per week are required in the laboratory. Special stress is placed upon the construction and use of simple and inexpensive apparatus.

SOPHOMORE YEAR.

Chemistry begins the first term and continues during the year. The third term is elective. The subject is presented by lecture and outline. At least three hours per week will be required in the laboratory the first term.

Botany begins the second term and is completed in the third term. "Botanist and Florist," by Woods, will be studied the second term, and the student will be required to analyze and mount twenty-five specimens the third term. Floriculture and horiculture are emphasized in connection with the text-book study.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR YEARS.

Zoology — A published outline gives direction to this branch, and Holder's Zoology is recommended for reference. Field work, dissection and essays, on various subjects, are required.

Mineralogy — Twenty-five specimens are examined by blow-pipe analysis, and the subject is presented as a preparation for Geology.

THE SPANISH LANGUAGE.

The three years during which this language and literature have been taught, have proven the wisdom of its introduction into the course, and it is to be noted that other western colleges are following the example. The historic value of the language, coupled with the growing demands which Mexico and the South American Republics, together with our newly acquired possessions containing Spanish speaking people, are creating, is emphasizing its importance to a marked degree, and it is purposed to enlarge this field of investigation by giving special attention to the tongue which is, practically speaking, the language of one-half the Western Hemisphere. The natural, or colloquial, method of instruction will be used, giving special care to grammatical construction. Nothing but the pure Castilian is used in the class room.

ELOCUTION.

During the past year, instruction equivalent to one hour each week during the college year has been given to all students, free of charge.

GRADUATE COURSES.

Students doing graduate work leading to the Master's degree, as also that of Doctor of Philosophy, must hold Bachelor's degrees from this institution or some other whose courses of study are equivalent to those of McKendree College. A Master's degree, corresponding to the Bachelor's degree, held by any candidate, will be conferred upon the student who successfully pursues the required course of study for one year, and presents a satisfactory thesis of not less than 4,000 words upon some fitting and accepted theme.

Those pursuing the course an additional year, upon passing the required examinations and presenting theses which must give evidence of independent research in like manner as required for first year, if they show a sufficiently high degree of scholarly attainment, may receive the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. It is to be understood that the degree of Doctor of Philosophy is not given for the mere reason of faithful study for a prescribed time, or on completion of any given course of study, but on the ground of long study and high attainments in a special branch of learning.

Application for matriculation shall be made to the President of the College, and accompanied with a fee of five dollars ($5.00). The examination fees are ($20.00) for each year's study, and the diploma fee for each degree taken is ten dollars ($10.00).

All theses shall be typewritten and presented to the President of the College not less than thirty days before Commencement day, and shall be passed upon by a committee from the Faculty, and then retained in the Library as the property of the College.

All candidates for degrees must stand personal examination at the seat of the institution, where they shall spend not less than three months of the year prior to graduation in resident study.

The studies appear in sets under Roman numerals. Three sets of a course comprise a year's work. These courses, with the exceptions of B and H, comprise two years' work each, and must be taken as a whole.

Courses B and H articulate with each other.

COURSE A. — PHILOSOPHY.

I.

The Human Intellect. (Porter.)

The Senses and Intellect. (Bain.)

Plato's Best Thoughts. (Bulkley.)

Aristotle's Politics, Books I and II.

VI.

Comedy and Lyrics — Aristophanes — The Clouds.

Greek Lyric Poetry.

History of Greece. (Curtius.)

COURSE E. — LATIN.

I.

Roman Philosophy — As seen in Cicero and Lucretius. Selections will be read from Cicero's De Finibus, Academica and De Natura Deorum, and Lucretius' De Natura Rerum. Attention will be given to the literary value of these works and their systems of philosophy with relation to modern thought.

II.

Roman Satire — As developed by Ennius, Pacuvius, Horace, Juvenal and Persius. Horace will be made the basis of comparative study. The influence of the Roman upon the English satirists will be noted.

III.

Development of the Roman Drama — Seneca's Tragedies will form the basis of study. Attention will also be given to the comic writers of the earlier period. Points of attack: the plot, character drawing, style, vocabulary, versification, and ante-classical forms and constructions.

IV.

Roman Oratory — Based on Cicero's Brutus. Additional readings, Cicero's De Oratore, Tacitus' Dialogus and Quintilian's Institutes.

V.

Early Latin — Based on Allen's Remnants of Early Latin, Merry's Fragments of Roman Poetry and Smith's Selections. This course will be studied from a philological as well as from a literary point of view.

VI.

Early Christian Literature — The writings of Tertullian and Augustine will be used as a guide to the prose literature.

Latin Christian Hymnology.

This course will place special emphasis on the decline of Pagan literature as seen in the syntax, vocabulary, and general style; and the intellectual growth of Christianity as shown in writings of the first three Christian centuries.

Suggested Collateral Reading — Teuffel's History of Roman Literature, Sellar's Poets of the Republic.

For Course III — Klein's History of Roman Drama and Schlegel's Lectures on Dramatic Literature.

I.

Development of the English Drama — Special attention will be given to the Elizabethan and Jacobean Epochs. The students must examine the sources of Shakespearean plots, and trace the growth of the Drama from the time of the first regular comedy and tragedy down to the closing of the theaters in 1642. Required readings from Marlowe, Chapman, Beaumont and Fletcher, Ford and Massinger; all the plays of Shakespeare.

II.

Growth of the English Novel — A survey of the field of English fiction must be made from Richardson and Fielding to the novelists of the nineteenth century. The distinguishing features, plots, characters, philosophies, and ethics must be considered.

Suggested Collateral Readings — Raleigh's English Novel, and Sidney Lanier's English Novel.

III.

English Romanticism — Influence of the Romantic school upon English Literature. Studies in the writings of Burns, Cowper, Byron, Shelley, and other Romanticists of the Hanoverian era.

IV.

Critical Study of Tennyson and Browning — The characteristic poems of the two great Victorian poets will be read with a view of tracing "the growth of the mind and art" of each. The comparative study of their metaphysical teachings will be dwelt upon. How each handles the machinery of the long poem; the technical skill; the versification to be carefully noted.

Mrs. Orr's Life of Browning and Waugh's Life of Tennyson are suggested as collateral readings.

V.

Comparative Philosophy — A study of the principles of linguistic science, as set forth by Max Muller, Whitney, and others. Reference is made to Prof. Max Muller's Science of Language, Dr. Whitney's Life and Growth of Language and The Study of Language, and Giles' Manual of Comparative Philology.

VI.

Study of Poetics—Based on:

Defense of Poesy. (Sidney, Shelley.)

What is Poetry? (Hunt.)

Aristotle's Poetics. (Newman.)

Primer of English Verse. (Corson.)

I.

Differential and Integral Calculus—Advanced—This course presupposes at least two terms' study.

II.

Analytic Mechanics.

Theory of Equations—Determinants—Invariants.

This course requires a knowledge of the subject such as is found in the best college algebras.

III.

Modern Methods in Geometry:

Systems of Point and Line Co-ordinates, Projection, Inversion, etc.

This course requires a thorough knowledge of Geometry and Analytic Geometry.

IV.

Theory of Higher Plane Curves—Applications to Cubic and Quartic.

This course is based on Salmon's Higher Plane Curves.

V.

Infinite series and Products:

A knowledge of Course I is necessary.

History of Mathematics. (Ball.)

VI.

Theory of Functions of Real and Complex Variables.

Knowledge of Courses I and IV is necessary.

COURSE H.—PHYSICAL SCIENCE.

I.

Popular Science Lectures. (Helmholtz.)

Conservation of Energy. (Stewart.)

The Human Species. (Quatrefages.)

The Vegetable World. (Figuier.)

II.

Sound. (Blaserna.)

Anthropology. (Tylor.)

Lectures on Light. (Tyndall.)

Volcanoes. (Judd.)

III.

The New Chemistry. (Cooke.)

Electricity and Magnetism. (Thompson.)

Earthquakes. (Winchell.)

Lives of Eminent Scientists. (Tait.)

McKENDREE LAW SCHOOL.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The design of the school is to afford such a training in the fundamental principles of the Common Law as to fit the student for practice wherever those principles prevail. In the study of these general principles, any changes made in them by legislation or the method of their application to particular cases arising in the courts of Illinois, are noticed and explained. To furnish the basis for such instruction, the following course is pursued: —

FIRST YEAR.

Fall Term —

Fishback's Manual.
Torts — Webb's Pollock.
Blackstone's Commentaries.
Domestic Relations — Schouler.

Winter Term —

Blackstone's Commentaries.
Walker's American Law.
Lawson on Contracts.
Gould on Pleading.

Spring Term —

Blackstone's Commentaries.
Personal Property.
Benjamin's Principles with Tiedeman on Sales.
Bailments — Lawson.

SECOND YEAR.

Fall Term —

Kent's Commentaries.
Real Property — Tiedeman.
Torts — Cooley, with Cases.
Common Law Pleading — Stephen and Chitty.
Evidence.

Winter Term —

Kent's Commentaries.
Real Property — Tiedeman.
Equity Jurisprudence — Bispham.
Torts — Cooley, with Cases.
Illinois Practice.
Moot Court.

Spring Term —

Kent's Commentaries.
Bills and Notes — Tiedeman.
Real Property.

THIRD YEAR.

Full Term —

Constitutional Law — Cooley, with the Constitutions of the United States and Illinois.
Corporations — Elliott.
Criminal Law and Procedure.
Review of work in preceding two years.

Winter Term —

Wills and the Law of Administrations.
Principal and Agent.
Practice and Preparation of Records.
Legal Ethics.
Reviews.

Spring Term —

Law of Damages.
Partnerships — Study of Cases — Wambaugh.
Practice.
Reviews.

In addition to the work to be studied and recited upon in the class, a course of supplementary reading will be required. These courses are as follows: For the first year, the Lectures of Judge Wilson on Jurisprudence and Political Science (Andrew's Edition), and Dillon's Laws and Jurisprudence of England and America.

For the second year, Lectures on the Common Law, by Judge Oliver Wendell Holmes; Ancient Law, by H. S. Maine, and Holland's

Elements of Jurisprudence. Upon these courses of supplementary reading examinations will be held, and sound knowledge of same required in order to graduation.

PRIZES.

The Edward Thompson Company will give a set of their American and English Encyclopedia of Law, or of Practice and Pleading, to the student preparing the best thesis on a subject assigned by the faculty, under rules prescribed by the faculty.

MOOT COURT.

During the course a Moot Court is conducted, where the student is required to begin and prosecute suits through all their stages as in actual practice. It is the constant effort to develop in the student habits of thinking in a judicial way. Time has come when the man who enters upon the practice of the law must lay his foundation deep in its rudiments. He must know the law as it is and possess a knowledge of its repositories. It is the purpose of this school to render such aid as schools can for the attainment of this end.

PRIVILEGES OF STUDENTS.

All law students have the benefit of the two excellent literary societies of McKendree College upon the same terms as other students. In this way they are brought in contact with young gentlemen of the best character and moved by the highest incentives. The faculty of debate and the habit of concise thought and good language, so essential to the highest attainments, are developed. Students also have free access to the library of the University.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION.

The method of instruction is by recitation from the text assigned, or by recitation upon subjects specifically assigned for investigation. This instruction is supplemented by lectures by the Dean or instructors upon the subjects studied and upon special topics by gentlemen of recognized ability selected on account of their peculiar fitness. A course of instruction is given upon the method of using decided cases in practice and the principles of criticism of cases cited as authority.

DEGREES.

The Degree of LL.B. will be conferred upon those students who have been in actual attendance upon the school for three full years of thirty-six weeks each, and who shall have passed a satisfactory examination in the prescribed course of study and supplementary reading. Persons who have attended other law schools, or who have for one or two years read in the office of a lawyer or firm of lawyers engaged in actual practice may, upon satisfactory proof of that fact, be admitted to advanced standing, and by passing a satisfactory examination upon the three years' course will be entitled to the degree. Provided: Such students must attend the school for one year of thirty-six weeks.

BOOKS.

Students furnish their own books. They should bring with them Hurd's or Starr & Curtiss' Statutes of Illinois, Puterbaugh's or Shinn's Common Law and Chancery Practice, and a good Law Dictionary. It will be well for students also to bring with them any good text-book they may have for references. Arrangements have been made by which books can be bought at the very lowest prices.

EXPENSES.

Tuition is $15 per term in advance. Five dollars will be charged for the diploma. Good board can be had at from $2.25 to $3.50 per week.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

PIANO COURSE.

A complete course of musical instruction, in pursuance of the new Goldbeck Method, has been laid out and will be employed in the training of pupils, and great pains will be taken for their technical and artistic development.

Pupils entering the regular course, when a certain degree of excellence is attained, will be required to perform at public rehearsals, concerts and various entertainments given at the College.

The course consists of three degrees or departments, each degree embracing seven grades. A grade with the average pupil, contemplates one term of twenty lessons.

FIRST DEGREE OR PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

First, Second and Third Grades: Goldbeck's Primary Method.

Fourth Grade: Part I of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing.

Fifth and Sixth Grades: Part II of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Technical Foundation of Piano Playing.

Seventh Grade: Technical Foundation of Piano Playing Finished.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this degree or department, will give a recital, and receive certificates for having accomplished the work of this department.

SECOND DEGREE OR INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT.

First and Second Grades: Part III of Goldbeck's 36 Etudes, and Preparatory Octave Studies.

Third Grade: Part I of Goldbeck's Twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes; General Piano Technics; Scales for Velocity.

Fourth Grade: Part II of Goldbeck's Twelve Technical Exercises and Etudes; General Piano Technics; the Scales.

Fifth and Sixth Grades: General Piano Technics; The Arpeggio.

Seventh Grade: General Piano Technics; The Octaves.

Pupils satisfactorily completing this department, give recitals, and receive their second certificate of qualification.

THIRD DEGREE OR COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

First Grade: Octave Studies Continued; Deus Etudes d'Extension.

Second and Third Grades: General Piano Technics; The Thirds and Fifths; Selected Etudes from Chopin, Liszt, etc.

Fourth and Fifth Grades: General Piano Technics; the Trill; Selected Etudes Continued.

Sixth and Seventh Grades. Memorizing and Completing Repertoire before graduation.

Pupils completing this department satisfactorily will have attained a degree of proficiency as intelligent musicians and artistic performers, that will fit them for favorable comparison with the graduates of the best European colleges of music.

In connection with the constant drill incident to the studies laid down, well chosen selections of music will be made, in the execution of which the principles taught will be constantly applied, giving variety and zest to the pupil, in the routine work connected with the complete mastery of the course.

The completion of the above course implies that pupils have taken, for at least two terms, instruction in theory and harmony, and that they will be prepared to pass satisfactory examinations, after which the degree of Bachelor of Music may be conferred.

ORCHESTRA COURSE.

VIOLIN, MANDOLIN, CORNET, FLUTE, ETC.

First Grade: Hohmann's Violin School, Books 1, 2, and 3. Julius Weiss' easy duets and progressive studies.

Second Grade: Hohmann's Violin School, Books 4 and 5. Studies by Dancla, Mazas, Kayser, and pieces by modern composers.

Third Grade: Studies by Dancla, Rode, Mazas, and Hermann. Sonatas by Haydn and Mozart. Kreutzer's Etudes. Exercises from Spohr and Rode. Fantasies by Bohm and Vieuxtemps.

Fourth Grade: Concertos by Ernst, Kreutzer, De Beriot, and Viotti, Spohr, Bach.

Pupils who expect to graduate in orchestra must also take the course in Piano and Theory of Music.

VOICE COURSE.

First Grade: Lessons in deep breathing. Tone work for placing the voice supplemented by exercises in uniting the registers. Elementary exercises and vocalizations, selected from Marchesi, Concone, and Abt.

Second Grade: Continuation of first grade work, with more advanced study of scales, arpeggios and trills. Vocalises with syllables and words. Italian studies of Vaccai and Marchesi. Songs from the best English, German, and French composers. Part singing and choral work.

Third Grade: Progressive work in studies for flexibility. Advanced studies of Abt, Marchesi, Sieber, and others. Study of easy arias from the operas and oratorios. Special attention will be given to the enunciation of the English words and to the pronunciation of the Italian.

Fourth Grade: More advanced work in the studies named. Arias from the Italian and German operas and standard oratorios. Special attention will be given to sacred music, both hymns and solos.

Candidates for graduation must have completed the third grade of the intermediate department of the piano course, Goldbeck's Elements of Harmony and Outlines of History of Music, supplemented by readings selected by the instructor. Class work in choral and sight-singing is required throughout the course.

In these courses, students may enter at any time, their term opening with the first lesson. A term consists of twenty full hour lessons.

Tuition is payable strictly in advance. No deduction made for absences except in case of protracted illness.

Students who have no musical instruments at home may arrange for practice at the Conservatory at reasonable rates.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Good moral character is a necessary prerequisite for admission to any of the Departments connected with the College. The place to be occupied by candidates for enrollment in the various courses of study will be determined by their attainments, satisfactory evidence of which must be furnished to the Faculty prior to enrollment as students. The grades of good schools and colleges will be received as evidence of the attainments of candidates, and the grades of colleges of like standing with this will be recognized as satisfactory to determine the position of the applicant in the curriculum. The graduates of such High Schools, in this and other States, as have courses of study to warrant, will be admitted into the Collegiate Department without examination.

Where an applicant for examination has been a student in some other college, a certificate of honorable dismissal may be required before he will be permitted to enter.

Enrollment in any class or Department will be considered a pledge to observe all Rules and Regulations of the College.

GOVERNMENT AND RULES.

The government of the institution will be paternal and mild, but firm. Students enrolling are received as ladies and gentlemen, and, as a result, a long list of repressive rules is regarded as unnecessary. Pride of character on the part of the student is relied upon to secure the most satisfactory government. Since, however, every aggregation of individuals must have certain formal rules, for the convenience and better understanding of all the parties interested in attaining a common object, the following regulations have been established:—

Good moral character, prerequisite for entrance; all bills to be paid prior to entrance; students to be faithful and punctual at morning chapel service, recitations, and all other duties assigned them by the Faculty; to attend two services each Sabbath, at some one of the various churches in the city, and to assign, promptly, excuses for absence from or neglect of duty to the member of the Faculty before whom such duty should have been performed.

Scholastic training being the object to be attained, satisfactory recitations will be held as evidence of studious habits, while a failure in recitations will be taken as prima facie evidence of idleness, and students will be held to account for deficiencies in the recitation room.

It is almost unnecessary to state that the drinking of intoxicants, the frequenting of saloons or other places of questionable character, are strictly forbidden.

Students entering for work during any college term, and who are prompt in the attendance at recitations from the opening to the closing of such term, will have their standing determined by the grades made in daily recitations, and without examination at the close of the term.

All students not entering at the beginning of each term, or having unexcused absences during the term, will be required to stand an examination before they are passed or advanced; while such students as leave before having completed the term's work will, on their return, be required to stand examination before being passed, or advanced, and for such examination, outside the term in which such studies are pursued, a fee shall be charged by the professor conducting the examination, provided such fee shall not exceed $1.50 for each study on which an examination has been conducted.

Any student falling short of the passing grade of 70 per cent shall be notified from time to time, by the professor to whom he recites, and on failure to at once make amends in his grades, he shall be reported to the Faculty, and may be dropped from the class wherein he falls short of attaining a passing grade.

Any person not regularly enrolled in colleges, and desiring examinations, shall be charged regular tuition fees, and if such examination be special, an extra fee of $1.50 shall be charged.

Application for such examination shall be made to the Professor in charge not less than ten days before examination.

Prompt attendance at chapel and church will be required. All unexcused absences therefrom shall be held as "demeanor marks." Demeanor marks, however, shall be entered in the permanent records of the college together with the study grades, and on application of parents or others, desiring to know the standing of students, a statement of the demeanor as well as scholarship of any student of whom inquiry may be made, shall be furnished by the Secretary of the Faculty.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS CULTURE.

While the college is denominational, it is in no sense sectarian. It welcomes those of other creeds and beliefs to its benefits and privileges, as also those who have no established denominational predilections. Good moral character, as elsewhere stated, is the only prerequisite for matriculation. To those having denominational preferences, the various churches established here afford young men and women who come as students ample opportunity to choose their places of worship.

A college Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. have been established in connection with the institution, and each hold weekly prayer meetings. These meetings have proven an efficient means of grace and a potent influence for religious culture among the students.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are three excellent literary societies — the Philosphian, Platonian and Clonian, the latter for ladies — which hold weekly sessions, and where splendid work is done among their members along the various lines of literary labor. They are under the exclusive control of the students belonging to them, subject to certain regulations of the Board of Trustees and Faculty.

No person shall be permitted to become a member of the college societies until he shall have regularly matriculated with the President of the college, or identified himself with some department of the college and by the head of that department been certified over to the President as a bona fide student in regular attendance at the seat of the college.

Regular requirements are made upon the membership in the form of essay writing, debate, declamation, and oratorical effort, which are of the most helpful character to the aspiring student. They are governed by parliamentary usage, and the generous and spirited rivalry to excel each other and win public favor proves a most wholesome stimulus in bringing out the latent faculties of all connected therewith. Many persons throughout the country, who have won distinction as platform speakers, attribute their success to their early training in these societies. It is recommended that all students identify themselves with one or the other of these organizations.

By order of the Board of Trustees no person shall be allowed to appear a second time in performance, in response to an encore, at any entertainment given under the auspices of the college or any of its societies.

The initiation fee in either of the gentlemen's societies is $5; the ladies' society, $3. The dues in each of the gentlemen's society is 25 cents per term; in the ladies' society, 50 cents per term.

LIBRARIES.

The libraries of the college and literary societies contain more than 8,000 volumes. The college library is accessible to all students, under the rules established by the Board of Trustees. The libraries belonging to the literary societies, are available to the members of the societies under rules of their own making. Some very valuable additions have been made to the library during the year—notably, a gift of 550 volumes from Mrs. Henrietta Cramp of Bloomington, many of which are of inestimable value on account of their extreme rarity. Also from other sources smaller donations of valuable books have been received.

The authorities of the college cordially appreciate the thoughtful helpfulness of all such as hold the library of the college in remembrance by the donations of valuable books, for the reason that no more effective way can be adopted to do lasting good to the youthful student than by placing within his reach the best of authorities on all questions of public interest.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science will be conferred on any person who may have completed, in a satisfactory manner, the prescribed courses of study leading to such degrees, and students, to secure such graduation, must needs be present in their classes at least two-thirds of the last two years of their course.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on all who may satisfactorily complete the course of study prescribed for the Law Department, in pursuance of the recent ruling of the Illinois Supreme Court.

The degree of Bachelor of Music will be conferred upon all who may satisfactorily complete the course of study prescribed for the Department of Music.

Concerning the degree of Master of Arts or Science or Doctor of Philosophy see Graduate Department.

Applications for Honorary Degrees must be made to the President of the college at least sixty days before the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, and must be indorsed by at least three persons holding either the degree sought, or one of more honorable rank.

EXPENSES.

The tuition fee charged for entrance into the Pre-Academic, Academic, and Collegiate Courses is $12.00 per term. No incidental fees for Library and Scientific Department are charged.

BRYAN MEDAL.

This prize is established by Hon. William Jennings Bryan, A. M., LL.D., in honor of his distinguished father, Judge Silas Lillard Bryan, A. M., who graduated at this institution in 1849. The following extract from the letter of Mr. Bryan explains the basis on which the prize is to be awarded: —

“ I offer to give to McKendree College $250 to be invested, and the annual proceeds used for a medal to be awarded for the best essay on the theory of government, all details to be arranged by the Faculty or Trustees of the college.

“ I will ask that the medal be known as the Silas Lillard Bryan Medal, in honor of my father, whose connection with the college will thus be preserved.”

ELOCUTIONARY CONTEST.

On the last Friday evening of each year preceding Commencement day, there will be held a public contest in elocution, wherein not less than six nor more than eight contestants will be allowed. A first and second prize will be awarded, the former in the sum of $15, and the latter $10.

The merits of the performers will be passed upon by three judges, whose award will be made public at the close of the entertainment.

Members of the senior class and former successful competitors shall be ineligible as contestants, and those desiring to compete shall make known their purpose to the President not later than thirty days prior to the date of contest.

ORATORICAL PRIZES.

The Perry School of Oratory, of St. Louis, offers two prizes to successful competitors from among McKendree students for the composition and delivery of orations. The first prize will be $15, and the second, $5. Rules governing the award to be given out at least three months prior to the contest, which will occur near the close of the third term.

ALUMNI ROSTER.

We again print the Alumni Roster in alphabetical order. While many corrections relating to the list of the Members have been made, during the year, it will be noted that quite a number of the names published appear without their addresses, due to the fact that the same are unknown.

We EARNESTLY DESIRE, AND URGENTLY SOLICIT, the co-operation of members of the Association in our effort to perfect this list, by furnishing the omitted addresses, as well as to call attention to any other mistakes which may be discovered in this compilation.

The maiden names of the lady graduates are in all cases given. It will be considered a favor if interested parties will notify us of those who are married, that the same may be published in our next catalogue.

As soon as the entire list is perfected it is purposed to print a roster of the Alumni accompanied with a short biographical sketch of each member.

Deceased members are printed in italics.
